FIRE IN HOTEL LEAVES 9 DEAD

Nation Fire Toll Mounts

By The Associated Press

Nine persons died in a hotel fire in Pennsylvania on Sunday as the death toll from holiday weekend fires continued to mount around the country.

Five persons, including three children, were killed in an apartment fire in Chicago which authorities say may have been the work of an arsonist. Nine persons died New Year's Day in another apartment house fire in Chicago.

In Tennessee, meanwhile, two early morning fires Sunday claimed the lives of eight persons, including three children.

The fire at the Walnut Towers Motor Hotel in Shamokin, Pa., raged out of control for several hours Sunday morning. Among the nine dead were the hotel owner, John Luckens, 44, who was trapped in an elevator and died of smoke inhalation, authorities said.

One fireman was injured and one of the eleven weekend guests at the hotel was hospitalized with a fractured leg and possible back injuries after jumping from a second-story window. Two other persons were treated for hysteria.

Cause of the fire in the motor inn, a converted four-story factory building, was not immediately determined. Shamokin is about 50 miles northeast of Harrisburg in central Pennsylvania.

A mother, her three children and a man died Sunday in the apartment fire in southwest Chicago. At least seven others were reported injured.

Fire officials said two partly filled gasoline cans were found on the fourth floor of the building, where the fire apparently started.

The fire was about a block from the scene of a Christmas Eve fire in which 12 persons died - 10 of them children.

The New Year's day fire that killed nine persons was in an apartment house on the northwest side of the city. The cause of that blaze has not been determined but fire officials were investigating the possibility of arson.

In all three fires, the victims bore Spanish surnames, and many of them did not speak English.

Victims of the fire on Sunday were identified as Isabel. (Please Turn To Page A2, Col. 6)

Ford Faces Busy Schedule For Last 18 Days In Office

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford returned to the White House Sunday evening after a skiing vacation in Vail, Colo., facing a busy schedule in his last 18 days in office.

Among his work were decisions on such items as amnesty and gasoline prices.

Before he leaves office on Jan. 20, Ford has to submit to the new Congress that convenes Tuesday a proposed federal budget for the upcoming fiscal year. He also must prepare a State of the Union message.

And Ford has said he is ready to send Congress legislation calling for a $10 billion tax cut that was a major promise of his unsuccessful election campaign.

In the forthcoming week he also has promised to decide whether to take any further action on the issue of amnesty for Vietnam-era draft dodgers and deserters, as requested by the widow of Michigan Sen. Philip Hart.

The President said it was "highly likely," that he will issue an order ending price controls on gasoline in a move aimed at encouraging the oil industry to find new domestic sources of oil. Congress will have 15 days after the gasoline decontrol order is issued to decide whether to veto it.

Also to be sent to Congress is Ford's proposal that Puerto Rico be admitted to the Union as the 51st state.

There is party business, too. Within a few days after he gets back to the White House, Ford is convening a Republican party strategy meeting to which former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, former Texas Gov. John Connally and other GOP leaders have been invited. They will be discussing the party's future and such items as the choice of a successor to Mary Louise Smith as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Ford has rested up over his two-week holiday and relaxed with skiing, swimming and partying with friends.

Deadline Passes On Kidnap Execution

MADRID, Spain (AP) - The fate of royal adviser Antonio Maria de Oriol, who was kidnapped three weeks ago, remained unknown Monday after a deadline set for his execution passed.

Police sources said privately they believed a note setting a Sunday midnight deadline for the death of the 63-year-old ex-justice minister was a fake. It was delivered to the newspaper El Pais Wednesday and declared Oriol would be executed unless all of Spain's political prisoners were freed.

Another message received Sunday by the Madrid newspaper Informaciones said Oriol would be held captive until the government releases 15 political prisoners and sends them to Algeria. It contained no threat to kill Oriol and was accompanied by a letter in Oriol's handwriting, the newspaper said.

Informaciones, which has received other notes believed to be from the left-wing kidnapers, said it had authenticated both the new ransom note and the accompanying letter from Oriol to his family.

An anonymous telephone caller gave the location of the latest message, which was found under the doormat of a commercial building near the newspaper.

Pair Charged With Arson For Fire That Killed 25

NEW YORK (AP) - Two men were arrested Sunday and charged with arson and murder for allegedly setting the "revenge" fire that killed 25 party-goers in a Bronx social club last October.

Charged were Jose Antonio Cordero, 40, an unemployed salesman, and Hector Lopez, 17, also unemployed.

Cordero, who has a wife and two children, had "a lover's quarrel" with a girlfriend he had brought to the Puerto Rican Social Club and returned in a rage with friends to set the fire, Bronx Dist. Atty. Mario Merola said.

The district attorney said the girlfriend was one of those who perished in the fire, but he did not name her, saying he was "not at liberty" to do so.

Merola said he expected more arrests, but he did not specify how many others were thought to have been with Cordero and the youth when they allegedly set the fire shortly before 2:30 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 24.

The second-story, 20-by-40 foot room where the social club operated was turned into an inferno by the fire that rose up from the only stairwell leading out. In addition to the dead, about two dozen others were injured, some while making their escapes by jumping out windows.

"It was a revenge fire as we at first suspected," said Merola.

He said an "enraged" Cordero walked out on the party at the social club and returned with friends to throw a liquid on the stairwell.

He said the liquid contained gasoline, probably obtained from a service station in the neighborhood.

He did not say just who it was who threw the liquid, nor did he say who touched off the fire or what he used.

Asked if Cordero himself was hurt by the fire, Merola, declined to answer, but he said that "the individual who started the fire did receive singeing of the hair."

Merola called the deaths the greatest number ever as a result of an intentional act of arson in New York City. A special task force of Fire Department marshals and police officers interviewed more than 1,000 persons during their investigation of the blaze.

Merola said "certain precautions are being taken" to protect Cordero and Lopez from neighborhood residents.

IRA Ambushes British Patrol In N. Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Irish Republican Army guerrillas ambushed a British Army patrol in the heart of "bandit country" in southern Armagh county on Sunday, killing one trooper and wounding two others, military headquarters reported.

The killing was the second of the new year. A 15-month-old baby, Graham Dougan, died in a terrorist bomb blast Saturday in a Belfast suburb. The deaths brought to at least 1,688 the number known killed in more than seven years of sectarian warfare in Ulster.

An army spokesman said the soldier was gunned down in Crossmaglen, a small town on the border with the Irish Republic. The guerrillas fled with no apparent casualties, he said.

Crossmaglen is at the center of an area controlled by the IRA's Provisional wing known as "bandit country," where almost 50 British soldiers have been killed in the last four years.

The mainly Roman Catholic IRA wants to end British rule in Northern Ireland and unite the predominantly Protestant province with the neighboring Irish Republic, which is 96 per cent Catholic.

The guerrillas said in a statement issued after a brief undeclared Christmas truce that they plan to intensify their campaign in 1977.

Another statement, issued by the IRA's political wing, Sinn Fein, charged British troops "did not reciprocate the good will" extended by the Provisionals during the three-day cease-fire. The army never formally recognizes IRA truces.

Nobody has claimed responsibility for the bomb that killed the Dougan baby, but some security sources blamed the IRA. Nearly 100 children under 12 years old have been killed in Northern Ireland since August 1969.

New Puerto Rican Chief Cautious On Statehood

SAN JUAN, P.R. - Carlos Romero Barcelo took his oath of office Sunday as the fifth democratically elected Governor of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and avoided any reference to President Ford's proposal to grant the island statehood.

Instead, Romero Barcelo directed his entire inaugural speech to the island's debilitating economy.

Romero Barcelo's New Progressive Party, which advocates statehood for the island, has captured both houses of the Puerto Rican legislature and some political observers believe it is a clear signal of Puerto Rico's desire to become a state.

Yet despite references to the Ford proposal from the large crowd of onlookers, Romero Barcelo stuck to his prepared speech.

"This morning for the first time ever a Puerto Rican has taken the oath of office as Governor of this island at a moment when our people find themselves faced with a stagnant economy and when our government finds itself hard put to keep its budget balanced," he said.

Also silent was Ford's own emissary to the Inaugural, Housing Secretary Carla Hills, who carried a brief congratulatory message which observers interpreted as a retreat from Ford's suggestion of three days ago.

The only one who mentioned the issue ever so slightly was Miami Mayor Maurice Ferre, a native of Puerto Rico who represented President-elect Jimmy Carter. Ferre said Carter will not address island affairs on a "we-you basis, forgetting the concerns of the island's nearly three million people."

It was only later that Romero Barcelo dealt with the Ford statement in a brief press conference after the Inaugural. He acknowledged that the Ford statement took him completely by surprise.

"At the moment I have no plans to pursue statehood. I must first meet the commitment I made before the election," he said.

Romero Barcelo won election on an anti-corruption platform, promising to revitalize the island's weakened economy. He carefully avoided the statehood issue during the campaign, believing it would not get him elected.

"I'll work towards statehood in my stride," he said.

Asked if Ford had caused political embarrassment, Romero Barcelo said, "No, I'm not going to be aggressive about it but I'm not going to be defensive about it either."

The Inaugural was held on the steps of the Capitol Building facing the Atlantic Ocean on a sunny 85-degree day before a crowd of about 35,000 Puerto Ricans and visitors.

As is the custom, Romero Barcelo was picked up at his home and driven to the Inaugural by outgoing Governor Raphael Hernandez Colon. Other dignitaries at the Inaugural were Dominican Chief of State Joaquin Balaguer, Cyril King, Governor of the Virgin Islands, Rep. Herman Badillo (D-N.Y.), and Sens. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.), and Edward Brooke (R-Mass.).

Patrolman Saved From Burning Car

CASTAIC (AP) — A California Highway Patrol officer was rescued from his burning car Sunday after it rolled over and burst into flames during a high-speed chase.

A patrol official said Robert Welch was rescued from the burning car by fire department paramedics. He was listed in good condition at the Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital in Valencia.

The patrol said Welch was chasing a reported stolen car when his car went out of control and crashed here. Officials said speeds during the chase reached up to 110 miles an hour.

They said the other car continued down the Golden State Freeway for 50 miles before it crashed. The driver of that car sustained minor injuries and was being held for investigation, a patrol spokesman reported.

He was not immediately identified.

New Year Death Toll Passes 300

By The Associated Press

The traffic death toll on the nation's streets, roads and highways passed the 250 mark Sunday as New Year's travelers started their journey homeward from a three-day holiday.

Snow over much of the nation's midsection made driving conditions more hazardous at the end of the holiday.

The weekend death count started at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and continued until midnight Sunday. The National Safety Council estimated that in this period traffic fatalities would total 350 to 450.

Over last year's four-day New Year's observance, 416 persons died in traffic accidents. The worst New Year's holiday was in 1965, when 564 persons died in vehicle accidents.

Study Of Oil Transit System Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union, called Sunday for a comprehensive examination of America's oil transportation system.

Hall made his request to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, who has said his panel will hold hearings on tanker safety in the wake of recent accidents involving Liberian tankers, including oil spills.

He said, "approximately 96 per cent of the oil transported to the United States is carried aboard foreign built, registered and manned vessels." He said owners of the vessels, "especially American oil companies, register the vessels under the Liberian, Panamanian, or other such flags in order to escape American taxes, American labor, American safety standards and American control."

Adamson Jury Selection Resumes

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Jury selection resumes today in the trial of the man charged with murder in the bombing death of newsmen Don Bolles.

Sessions Friday resulted in the selection of two jurors, bringing the total to seven. After 37 are chosen, defense and prosecution may eliminate 10 each leaving 12 panelists and five alternates to hear the case in which John Harvey Adamson, 33, is charged with murdering Bolles.

The Arizona Republic investigative reporter died June 13, 11 days after his car was bombed in Phoenix.

Adamson's first trial ended in a mistrial Oct. 18 when potential jurors reported knowledge of the case through extensive local publicity.

Land Mine Kills Thai Newsmen

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A land mine explosion killed a Thai newsmen Sunday and blew off the leg of Joseph Lee, a veteran television cameraman who has covered wars in Indochina and the Middle East, police said.

Lee is a South Korean working for the American Broadcasting Corp. Officials said he was wounded while filming a government operation against Communist insurgents in southern Thailand.

Police said Thai newsmen Anant Chomchoun, who was working with Lee, stepped on the mine and was killed instantly.

The blast reportedly sheared Lee's left leg off below the knee. He was taken to a local hospital in satisfactory condition.

Ways To Curb Hotel Strike Sought

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — With about 5,000 workers still off their jobs at eight luxury inns, both union and hotel officials said Sunday the focus of their efforts now was to prevent further spread of the strike.

Picketing bellmen, maids, dishwashers and other help marched on the sidewalks as holiday guests enjoyed the sunshine and mild breezes.

The struck hotels here and in Miami are some of the largest in the area. They are operating with non-union help.

The Miami International Airport Hotel over the weekend became the 13th to make its own peace with the union, as the two sides tried to keep the work stoppage from spreading.

13 Prisoners Flee Italy Prison

TREVISIO, Italy (AP) — Thirteen inmates armed with pistols and knives that had been smuggled in to them overpowered guards and fled from the prison in this northern Italian city Sunday night, police said.

Some of the escapees were believed to be members of the left-wing guerrilla group called the Red Brigade.

Officials said the 13 raided the prison armory and took with them seven submachine guns.

After leaving the jail, the prisoners stopped passing cars, ordered the occupants out and drove away, police reported.

Police reinforcements were summoned to join in the search for the escapees.

Spanish Police Disperse Protest

BILBAO, Spain (AP) — Police fired rubber bullets to disperse crowds which marched through towns near Bilbao Sunday demanding amnesty for political prisoners. No injuries or arrests were reported.

About 1,000 persons carried separatist flags and placards calling for amnesty as they demonstrated in the streets of Guecho. Police charged the demonstrators who fought back by throwing stones.

Police also broke up a crowd of several hundred youths who demonstrated at Basauri.

The protests were the latest in a series of demonstrations staged in the last few days in the Basque areas of northern Spain to demand the release of 200 to 250 persons jailed for political reasons.

U.S. Airlines' Safety Praised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal aviation administrator, John L. McLucas, praised the nation's air carriers Sunday for their safety record in 1976, calling it one of the safest years since commercial aviation started in 1927.

McLucas sent a telegram to presidents of the U.S. airlines, the president of the Airline Pilots Association and the Allied Pilots Association.

In the telegram, released by the Federal Aviation Administration, McLucas said the fleet of scheduled and supplemental airlines had 45 fatalities in 1976, compared to 124 in 1975 and 484 in 1974.

Home Where Buffalo Roam No Sweet Song In Duluth

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A home where the buffalo roam turned out to be a pain in the neck for George and Ramona Stoyanoff. It took five days to round up the couple's herd of 25 elusive buffalo.

The Stoyanoffs, who operate a restaurant a few miles southwest of Duluth, have kept buffalo for breeding stock on their 200-acre ranch for the past nine years.

Twenty-six of the animals broke through a six-foot barbed-wire fence Tuesday night. The buffalo roamed across Interstate Highway 35W and a car struck one animal, killing it.

Several persons in the car were treated for minor injuries but no one was hospitalized.

Mrs. Stoyanoff said many people called to offer advice on how to round up buffalo or to put in bids for buying the meat, hides or heads of the animals.

She said her husband contacted a South Dakota rancher who has about 3,500 buffalo on 50,000 acres.

"He didn't know what to tell us," she said, "because the environment is so different here. He said the best thing to do is not to have people around."

But that was hard advice to follow. Sightseers, including two helicopters, kept spooking the herd, which had roamed 25 miles from home before being corralled on Sunday.

Stoyanoff, some friends and a few farm children surrounded the herd and, using snowmobiles, headed it back toward the Duluth area.

"When the animals would turn in the wrong direction, the men on snowmobiles would head them off," said Mrs. Stoyanoff. "Finally, the buffalo got tired and they were able to walk them back."

The animals were taken to a quiet, undisclosed location in hopes that they would settle down and not break out again, said Mrs. Stoyanoff.

"We will try to sell them if we can keep them where they are," she said. "We've had people call saying they are interested in buying them. But we'd like to keep half a dozen or so for the restaurant customers to watch while they're eating."

Ford Returns To Final Duties

Snow conditions had been poor throughout Ford's stay in Vail. But as he departed, the winter resort was having its heaviest accumulation in a month - four inches in the past 24 hours - and it was still snowing.

Leaving Vail, where he had skied 10 of the 14 days of his visit, Ford said he would be back again in March, when he will be out of office.

The President's departure from Vail was delayed to allow time for snow clouds to clear over the Rockies so Ford could fly to Grand Junction, where his plane was waiting to take him back to Washington.

Execution Deadline Passes

Juan Carlos in July resulted in the release of about 400 political prisoners, leaving 200-250 still serving jail terms for terrorism.

Oriol is president of the Council of State and a member of the king's Council of the Realm.

The government has refused to negotiate with the kidnappers.

Oriol was taken from his Madrid law office by four young men carrying submachine guns on Dec. 11, four days before a government referendum on political reform that was approved overwhelmingly.

Authorities first believed he was abducted by Basque separatists and temporarily closed Spain's border with France. Police sources later said the kidnappers were a Maoist band called the First of October Anti-Fascist Resistance Group (GRAPO).

Four days after the abduction, the kidnappers threatened to kill Oriol unless the government freed 15 imprisoned terrorists. They set a deadline of 11 p.m. Dec. 17. Two minutes before the deadline, the government rejected the demands.

The following day the Madrid newspaper Informaciones said it received a new note from the kidnappers in which they said they had canceled the death threat.

The note was accompanied by a message in Oriol's handwriting to prove he was still alive, said a spokesman for the newspaper. He said the ransom note contained a new demand for "total amnesty" for all political prisoners.

Interior Minister Rodolfo Martin Villa went on national television to say that various plans were being studied to grant amnesty to some political prisoners. But he said the kidnappers' demands were an attempt to put pressure on the government and were "impossible" to meet.

The initial notes from GRAPO said the kidnapping was for political reasons, not money. But the Oriol family, one of Spain's wealthiest, reportedly has deposited $14.7 million in a Madrid bank for possible ransom payment.

Political sources said the release Thursday of eight Communist leaders may have made a favorable impression on the kidnappers. The Communists, including party leader Santiago Carrillo, were freed on bail after seven days in jail charged with holding an illegal meeting.

The government also abolished the 13-year-old Court of Public Order that sent thousands of Spaniards to prison for political reasons.

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — A police officer who died after being beaten as he tried to break up a street fight was jeered by onlookers who shouted at police to "lay off" because the fight involved a family dispute, police said Sunday.

Patrolman James Gatzounas, 28, died at a Holyoke hospital about an hour after he and two other officers attempted to break up a New Year's Day fight in a residential neighborhood.

Three men — Roberto Rivera, 29, Rumanie Nieves, 19, and George Guzman, 17, all of Holyoke — were held for Holyoke District Court arraignment today on murder charges in Gatzounas' death.

Police Chief Francis Sullivan said Gatzounas and Patrolman David Johnson, responding to a disturbance call, attempted to break apart Rivera and Guzman, who were fighting in the street "like they were ready to tear someone apart."

He said 15 to 20 persons looked on, yelling at the officers to stay out of the fight because it was a family matter.

"Apparently some sort of family relationship by marriage existed between Guzman and Rivera," Sullivan said. He did not elaborate on what the dispute was about.

The two men turned on the officers, knocking Gatzounas to the ground, and Nieves jumped into the fight as officer Francis LaFonde arrived. LaFonde restrained Rivera and Johnson held Guzman, but Nieves continued to kick and stomp Gatzounas as le Cisneros, 38; her three children — Andrew, 5, Abraham, 7, and Lyla, 16, and an unidentified man about 48 years old.

9 Die In Fire

Authorities earlier identified the man as Miguel Cisneros and said he was thought to be a relative of the other victims. Isabelle Cisneros' husband, Miguel Cisneros, 52, was in fair condition at St. Anthony Hospital, where he was being treated for smoke inhalation and burns.

In Springville, Tenn., Pat Childs and her three young daughters, Teresa, Mimi, and Sandy, died Sunday when their split-level frame home was destroyed by fire that apparently started with a dry Christmas tree caught fire, police said.

Four people died in Union City, Tenn., when an apartment was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin, officials said. Those killed were identified as David Robert Hanafee, 50; his wife, Sarah Gwyn Hanafee, 42; their daughter, Nancy, 13, and Christina Mount, 15, Jackson, Tenn., a visitor in the home.

In Duxon, La., on Sunday, a father and three of his daughters died in a fire at their home about 10 miles west of Lafayette. Authorities said the four died when a burning wall fell on them.

They were identified as Richard Cradeur, 41, and daughters Jackie, 13, Thelma, 14, and Melissa, 4.

A son, Donald, 9, escaped. Cradeur's wife and four other daughters were visiting with friends when the fire erupted.

Two Attacked By Zoo Rhino, Hospitalized

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — William Gilmore says he's never been a hero and he's not one now just because he jumped into an enclosure with three rhinos and tried to help a would-be cowboy.

From his hospital bed, the 32-year-old Colorado man said Sunday he feels better following surgery after the Saturday afternoon incident but called his adventure a "fiasco."

Gilmore said he doesn't even know Bob Kish, 25, the Phoenix man who scaled the fence at the Phoenix Zoo to come face-to-face with Khella, a 15-year-old full-grown male rhino.

Police Lt. Don Peterson said Kish was thrown 10 to 12 feet in the air several times after mounting the unhappy rhino.

Gilmore was carrying Kish to safety when the rhino attacked both men, knocking Kish to the ground, rolling Gilmore around the pen and injuring him in the groin.

Dr. George Katsas, state pathologist, said Gatzounas died of a heart attack "brought on as a result of injuries suffered in the fight."

LaFonde was treated for head injuries and released from the hospital. None of the other officers was injured.

A service was scheduled at Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church on today for Gatzounas, a Vietnam veteran who joined the police force 1-1/2 years ago.

Viet War Amnesty Opposed By Betty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford said Sunday night that she does not favor blanket amnesty for Vietnam war draft evaders and deserters, but she has not advised her husband about what to do on the issue.

President Ford has indicated he might have some decision this coming week on his promise to reconsider the question of a blanket amnesty. The promise was made to the widow of Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich.

Mrs. Ford said she had given no advice to the President because she is not well enough acquainted with the legalities in the issue.

"I thought that the arrangement that was made was very good," she said of her husband's program, set up in 1974, "where any of those (deserters or draft evaders) were perfectly welcomed back if they would work for a couple of years in public works or hospitals or that sort of thing. I feel that those mothers that lost their sons in the war would feel very upset over the fact that these people just took off."

Mrs. Ford gave her views in an interview as she and the President were flying home from Vail, Colo., after a two-week vacation.

When a reporter said it sounded like she was against blanket amnesty, she said, "That is the way it sounds."

"Is that right?" she was asked. "I guess so," she said.

President-elect Carter has promised he will issue a blanket pardon to all draft resisters and would consider pardons for deserters on a case-by-case basis. Ford has opposed a blanket amnesty.

Reporters also asked Mrs. Ford what she meant when she said last week, "thank goodness the President didn't win."

"Well ... I didn't see how he possibly could win. And I thought he got a tremendous percentage of the vote and I am just very happy to have a well, happy husband to spend a few years enjoying life together," Mrs. Ford responded.

"Of course, I wanted him to win because he wanted to win. I would have been very happy had he won, but I wasn't completely distraught over the outcome of the election."

Mrs. Ford did not elaborate further on her husband's defeat.

She said of the White House years that she appreciated the opportunity to live in the White House. "I enjoyed it," she said.

Mrs. Ford was suffering from laryngitis contracted during the two-week visit to the snowy Rocky Mountain resort. She said she expected to be "working like hell" to get everything packed and ready for the Ford's departure from the White House Jan. 20.

Asked what she would miss most, she said: "I imagine I'll miss the convenience." She said it was "very easy to get used to it," particularly referring to the use of the presidential jet plane.

Asked what the presidency did to the Ford family, she said she had gotten "perhaps greater appreciation for the duties and stress of any president."

She said she did not have any advice for Rosalynn Carter. "I think she has to handle it her own way," she said. "I think she has to handle it her own way and with her own personality."

"The White House as an institution just keeps on going," Mrs. Ford said. "The White House belongs to the people — not to the people who live in it but the people of the country."

Trudeau Says Russ-Canadian Ties Improve

MOSCOW (AP) — Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau says prospects are good for the development of Canadian-Soviet relations in 1977, the Communist party newspaper Pravda reported Sunday.

Pravda also said Trudeau hinted in an interview that he plans to meet with top Soviet leaders this year.

"It is my sincere wish — and I believe this will come true — that 1977 will see a new step forward in the development of Canadian-Soviet good-neighborliness," Pravda quoted Trudeau as saying in an interview with its Ottawa correspondent.

Smoke Damages Old North Church

BOSTON (AP) — Historic Old North Church was damaged by smoke late Sunday night when a four-alarm fire burned out a nearby apartment house in Boston's heavily congested North End.

Damage to the church, located across the street from the burning five-story building, was described as minor.

It was from the steeple of Old North Church that Paul Revere arranged for Joseph Warren on the night of April 18, 1775, to hang two lanterns — "two if by sea." The signal warned patriots across the harbor that British troops were rowing across the water on the first leg of their march to seize patriot leaders and supplies in Lexington and Concord.

After that signal was set, Revere set off on his famous ride. Warren was later killed at the Battle of Bunker Hill on June 17, 1775.

The Rev. Robert W. Gollidge, vicar of Old North, said he went up into the steeple to see if flying sparks did any damage. The ventilation system of the church spread the smoke inside, and the Rev. Mr. Gollidge said the basement, containing tombs of 1,100 persons including victims of the Battle of Bunker Hill, was slightly damaged by smoke.

Teen's Brave Fight With Cancer Ends

But She Enjoyed One Last Wish — Home For Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the very end her mother was at her side, sleeping beside her in the same hospital bed, holding her hand when she died.

After a three-year fight with brain cancer, 15-year-old Melinda Darnell of suburban Alexandria, Va., died quietly in her hospital bed, without awakening her mother.

"She waited until I was asleep," said Mrs. Darnell. "I was only asleep for a few minutes. She waited on me to go to sleep and she waited for me to be there by myself with her. She knew when all those people left, we could be alone," she said.

Throughout the day the teenager was visited by relatives and friends. Several had come New Year's Eve to stay at her bedside as she grew critically worse through the early morning hours.

Doctors said Melinda had lived longer than anyone else with her type of cancer. Her fight for life during those three years had drained the emotional and financial resources of the Douglas Darnell family.

Then came a series of news stories about their struggle and Melinda's faith in God and the Darnells found themselves flooded with cash donations and offers of help from strangers.

Comedian Jerry Lewis was one who came forward with an offer to help. He agreed to star in a recent benefit that had been organized to raise money for Melinda's medical bills. Instead, he remained by her hospital bedside throughout the entire show. Since then he has often called the family to check on her condition.

The singing group, The Platters, also came to visit Melinda New Year's Eve.

Doctors, expecting her death almost momentarily over the last several weeks, had not expected Melinda to live to see Christmas and her family gave her small presents to open each day until the holiday.

But she was alive Christmas Day and she got her biggest wish when doctors allowed her to go home to celebrate with her family.

Then it was back to George Washington University Hospital, where the brain cancer continued to take its toll, continued to weaken her.

In the end, it was her grandfather who noticed she seemed not to be breathing when he came into the hospital room one last time. Nor was her body jerking from the muscle spasms that had wracked her in her last hours.

Doctors and nurses were called and only then did Mrs. Darnell wake from her sleep, still holding her daughter's hand.

Melinda had died, shortly after 2 p.m. New Year's Day.

U.S. Ties With Dictatorships Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter's pledge to add a moral dimension to U.S. foreign policy has raised questions about the future of American relations with countries that repress political dissent.

The State Department says six nations for which $3.7 billion in U.S. military assistance and sales have been earmarked this fiscal year have violated human rights. But it recommends that aid to the countries be continued.

Argentina, Haiti, Indonesia, Iran, Peru and the Philippines were the countries dealt with in the report prepared at the request of the House International Relations Committee and released over the weekend by the panel.

A committee spokesman said the committee singled out the six countries because there had been widespread reports of human rights violations in all of them.

In recommending continued aid to the nations, the State Department cited such reasons as strategic importance and the maintenance of constructive relations.

Amnesty International, the London-based human rights organization, says it has evidence on political prisoners in 70 countries. It acknowledges, however, that the degree of repression varies widely from country to country.

The organization further concludes that more than 40 countries engaged in the torture of dissidents over the past year.

Until recently, the United States had refrained from taking an activist position on the human rights question, preferring to accept foreign governments as they are.

Over the past year, however, amid worsening repression abroad and under prodding from Carter, the Congress and public opinion, the Ford administration has become increasingly outspoken on the human rights question.

In June, shortly after an informal State Department poll showed widespread support for greater emphasis on human rights, Kissinger said in a speech to the Organization of American States, "A government that tramples on the rights of its citizens denies the purpose of its existence."

Carter outlined his own position two weeks later before a New York audience: "We and our allies, in a creative partnership, can take the lead in establishing and promoting basic global standards of human rights.... By our example, by our utterances and by the various forms of economic and political persuasion available to us, we can quite surely lessen the injustice in this world."

Some officials question the propriety of Carter's proposal that the United States use its economic leverage to obtain improved human rights performance.

Israel Jailers Force Feeding Arab Inmates

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli jailers are force-feeding about 370 hunger-striking Arab prisoners from Israeli-occupied Arab territories, government officials said Sunday.

The prisoners, in Ashkelon prison near the Gaza Strip, are protesting what they consider intolerable conditions, including overcrowding, poor food and lack of exercise. They have been fasting for 23 days.

Andrew Tschiffel, head of the International Red Cross mission in Israel, visited the prison last week. He said the physical condition of the striking prisoners was good, and "they are fed a good number of calories each day through a tube."

Dozens of wives, sisters and mothers of the prisoners protested violently last week in the Israeli-occupied city of Gaza, demanding visits with the prisoners. A delegation led by Gaza Mayor Rashid al-Shawa inspected the prison and reported to the women.

"The conditions are terrible," al-Shawa told a reporter. "They (the prisoners) are kept 16 men to a cell and are locked up 22 hours a day"

Oil Slick Driven Into Gulf Stream

BOSTON (AP) — The spreading slick of the Argo Merchant oil spill could be drawn into the Gulf Stream within two days, the Coast Guard reported Sunday.

The teardrop-shaped slick, 215 miles long and 100 miles across at its widest point, was being driven toward an eddy of the warm water current by gale force northwesterly winds.

Once into the Gulf Stream, the oil would be carried in a generally northeast direction. But the current splits into several branches in the far North Atlantic, and where the oil actually might end up remains uncertain.

The Rev. Mrs. Means broke the consecrated bread, reciting the words, "The gifts of God for the people of God. Take them in remembrance that Christ died for you, and feed on Him in your hearts by faith, with thanksgiving."

Then, the 40-year-old wife of a truck driver and mother of four, administered the sacrament of Holy Eucharist as the parishioners walked to the front of the church and genuflected.

The 75-minute service Sunday at All Saints was regular in every detail except that it was officially celebrated by a

China's Press Sees Rosy, Red Future

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's leaders have promised a completely new situation of political "liveliness" and economic prosperity in the aftermath of a foiled bid for power by Communist radicals.

"The situation is steadily improving, and will develop faster and better than people can now anticipate," said a New Year's editorial in the newspapers People's Daily and Liberation Army Daily and in the party theoretical journal Red Flag.

The editorial stressed stability and unity and said production would expand and the lives of Red China's 800 million people would improve accordingly.

It re-emphasized the goal declared by the late Premier Chou En-lai to make Red China an advanced nation by the end of this century. It said this year's central task would be to thoroughly expose and criticize the radical leaders, vilified in the press as the "Gang of Four."

The four are Chiang Ching, widow of party Chairman Mao Tse-tung; party Vice Chairman Wang Hung-wen; Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao, and Politburo member Yao Wen-yuan.

They were arrested a month after Mao died Sept. 9 and have been accused in the Red Chinese media of hampering production, ignoring the people's welfare and creating chaos and confusion. Their aim allegedly was to create so much disorder that they could easily seize control of the Communist party and the government.

The Red Chinese media have been calling for greater efforts to make up for production lost because of the radicals' "sabotage."

The editorial suggested that intellectuals henceforth be encouraged to contribute their talents to boosting production or enriching the arts, without fear of the kind of political harassment they faced in the past.

Boy Gives $5 To 'Street Walker'

DALLAS (AP) — Tony and Joanie Hernandez, already unhappy because their 8-year-old son was growing up in a prostitute-ridden neighborhood, became really irate when they learned the boy had given $5 to a woman who was soliciting money from a group of men.

Mrs. Hernandez said she sent her son Jimmy to a grocery store last week and he came back with no change. The Cedar Springs area where the family lives has gotten a lot of attention recently as a place where hookers work in high concentrations.

"Jimmy said he gave it to a lady who was walking the street near the grocery store," Mrs. Hernandez said. "He said he saw some men give her some money and they started teasing him for watching. So he felt he had to give her some too."

"I blew up," she said. "The neighbors all came over and we agreed to get up a petition. We had to do something. This was going to far."

But the father didn't wait for a petition and took Jimmy back to the scene.

"I wanted to find that woman," he said. "I couldn't believe she was soliciting money from a child."

Hernandez and three angry neighbors also went to the hooker hangout and sure enough, Jimmy spotted her right away.

"It was the Salvation Army lady," said Hernandez. "I almost died. We all gave her money and went home."

Few Attend Service Of First Woman Priest

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Rev. Jacqueline Means celebrated Communion on Sunday as the first regularly ordained woman priest of the Episcopal Church in the United States. Attendance was down at the service at All Saints Church.

"We have lost some members," said Shirley Bradbury, a member of the church's vestry. "Some today are missing for the first time to my knowledge."

Members of the congregation said about 75 persons attended the service, compared to the usual Sunday attendance of 90 to 120.

The Rev. John H. Eastwood Jr., rector of the church, acknowledged the absence of some regular churchgoers.

"What they're saying is that the faith as they have understood it is not the faith being practiced here," he said. "I assumed that they all agreed (with the ordination). But now some people are saying 'I disagree.'"

The Rev. Mrs. Means also said that "we're now in some conflict."

"I was prepared for the mind trip. But you're never prepared for your feelings," she said. "And it bothers me that the church is in discord right now."

However, she added: "We've been comfortable for an awfully long time ... No-body ever said it was easy to be a Christian."

The Rev. Mrs. Means was ordained Saturday at All Saints Church, the first woman ordained since the Episcopal Church in the United States officially opened its priesthood to women last September. Fifteen women had received ordination under irregular rites before that time. Though the church has ruled they do not have to be reordained, considerable strife still surrounds those ordinations.

In Newark, N.J., on Sunday, one of the previously ordained women, the Rev. Nancy Hatch Wittig, was formally recognized as a priest in a ceremony at Trinity Cathedral.

The Rt. Rev. George Rath, bishop of the Newark Diocese, took her hand and did "affirm and recognize" her as a priest.

Unusually Big Jury Pool For Longet Trial

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — An unusually large jury pool has been assembled for the opening Monday of the manslaughter trial of singer-actress Claudine Longet, charged in the shooting death of her lover, pro skier Spider Sabich.

Ronald D. Austin of Aspen, one of Miss Longet's lawyers, said Sunday that jury selection may take longer than the planned seven days because of extensive news coverage of the case. But he said he did not expect the entire trial to take longer than three weeks.

Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker said many potential jurors may be disqualified because they knew either Sabich or Miss Longet.

About 300 persons, more than triple the number normally called, were summoned as potential jurors to the tiny Pitkin County courthouse in this Rocky Mountain resort community.

District Court Judge George E. Lohr said seating arrangements have been made in the 70-seat courthouse for 21 news organizations which are sending representatives to cover the trial.

He said he is prepared to spend a month on the case.

Austin said Miss Longet's ex-husband, singer Andy Williams, will attend part of the trial. Williams and Miss Longet were divorced in 1975 after 13 years of marriage.

The couple's three children lived with Miss Longet and Sabich, 31, in a timber-and-stone home on a mountainside above Aspen. A daughter, Noel Williams, 12, reportedly was in the home when Sabich was shot to death last March 21.

Austin said the girl is scheduled to be called as a prosecution witness. He said no decision has been made on whether to have her testify for the defense if the prosecution does not call her.

Miss Longet, 34, has said the shooting was an accident and that the gun discharged as Sabich was showing her how to use it.

To convict Miss Longet of manslaughter, the prosecution must prove that she "consciously disregarded a substantial and unjustifiable risk" to Sabich.

The maximum penalty is 10 years in prison, a $30,000 fine or both.

Austin refused to comment on how his client is preparing for the trial.

Miss Longet, who has purchased a $153,000 home near downtown Aspen since the shooting, has been free on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond and is teaching French at a local elementary school.

Sabich was the first American to dominate international pro ski racing. His earnings soared to more than $100,000 in 1972 after winning the world title and selling his endorsement of products ranging from skis to coffee.

Although he suffered repeated injuries and earned only $800 in what he hoped would be a comeback last season, Sabich remained one of Aspen's most famous citizens.

The trial of Miss Longet, who was born in France, has attracted attention in Europe and America, but it is not Aspen's favorite topic. "They've put off the trial so long, everybody here's pretty nonchalant about it," a motel clerk said.

Instead, residents and tourists are fretting over a snow shortage that has left some of the mountainsides almost bare at the height of the ski season.

Arms Superiority Target Of USSR?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld and Central Intelligence Agency Director George Bush suggested on Sunday that the Soviet Union may have abandoned an arms policy of parity with the United States to seek weapons superiority.

They declined direct responses on separate broadcast interview programs as to the content of the latest National Intelligence Estimate compiled by the CIA. Unattributed press reports concerning the document prepared for the President said the Soviets are working toward arms superiority.

Rumsfeld on the ABC program "Issues and Answers" was asked if the CIA's survey was in agreement with the Pentagon's Defense Intelligence Agency, which had been saying for some time that the Russians were seeking superiority.

"I can say this much that it is true that the judgments within the entire U.S. intelligence community have closed and come closer together and that is good," he said.

On the CBS program "Face the Nation" Bush was asked for his personal assessment as to whether the Russians were seeking superiority or that the United States may be inferior in view of current trends.

"There are some worrisome signs that are being looked at very, very closely, worrisome signs that are being reviewed with a ferocity or intensity this year that perhaps weren't examined with the same intensity last year," Bush said.

Rumsfeld said it was his own opinion that over the past 15 to 20 years the Soviet military trend has been adverse to the United States. "If those trends continue and are not arrested and reversed, it would have the effect of injecting a fundamental instability in the world," he said.

Rumsfeld added that it is a fact the Russians have steadily expanded its military capabilities, providing them with more options, while the United States has been decreasing its military spending.

NY Magazine Purchase Blocked

NEW YORK (AP) — Australian press baron Rupert Murdoch has been blocked at least until Wednesday from purchasing a major share of New York Magazine.

At the request of Clay Felker, president of the magazine, U.S. District Judge Thomas Griesa signed an order blocking the purchase.

Murdoch, who recently bought the New York Post for a reported $31 million, was not at home when the judge's order arrived.

Neither was the man who wants to sell his stock — Carter Burden, a socialist, politician and former son-in-law of CBS Chairman William Paley. He owns 24 per cent of the magazine's stock.

Felker, owner of about 10 per cent, submitted to the judge a 1974 agreement which he claims gives both him and Burden first refusal of each other's stock in case of a sale.

New York Magazine owns the weekly Village Voice newspaper and the Los Angeles based New West Magazine.

Snowman Invades Waikiki

HONOLULU (AP) — It cost about $9,000 and lasted only a few hours, but Waikiki had its snowman.

Tokyo restaurateur Osamu Sato and three friends built their snowman Saturday — with temperatures in the low 80s — from 1,500 pounds of snow taken from Mount Fuji in Japan and carried in dozens of styrofoam coolers on an overnight plane flight to Hawaii.

"The snowman delighted so many people," said Fumio

Katane, who served as Sato's interpreter and aide-de-camp. "So many old men who came from Japan, they were happy to see it."

The project was equally entertaining for local people, who seldom if ever see snow, and for tourists, who presumably spent their hard-earned money to flee the white stuff. Kids nibbled happily on stolen handfuls of snow.

Sato brought the snow for one special old man he had met on the same beach last April. The old man, who had come to Hawaii from Japan decades ago, confessed a wish to see the snows of Fuji once more.

Although Sato never asked the old man's name, he determined to grant the wish. Katane wrote to Gov. George R. Ariyoshi last week, informing him that the snow was coming and asking his help in finding the old man.

Katane's letter was duly publicized but the old man was not among the crowd that kibitzed as the snowman was built, which proved to be no easy task. It took an hour to move the snow 50 feet from a sidewalk to the beach. Another hour later the sculpture looked like a big slab — a frosty tower of babel.

Working with table knives and fists, Sato and his friends hacked out a crude head, complete with eyes and nose. But with the sun hot and high and the snow melting, they gave up before adding arms.

The project, Katane said, cost about $9,000.

He didn't answer, but he and his cohorts linked arms in front of the snowman, smiled broadly and Katane yelled, "Hey, everybody, take a picture."

Sadat's Youngest Daughter Weds

President ANWAR SADAT'S 16-year-old daughter, JIHAN, and her bridegroom celebrated their wedding Sunday at a modest reception of tea and sandwiches, Cairo newspapers reported. The reception, though considered a big social event in Egypt, was described as modest because of the country's poor economic condition.

The Rev. BILLY GRAHAM has entered the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., for treatment of phlebitis, an aide said. T. W. Wilson, an official with Graham's evangelistic association, said the gospel evangelist will undergo tests today. He did not disclose any details concerning Graham's condition. Graham has suffered from phlebitis in the past. The disease is an inflammation and clogging of a vein, often in the leg.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

MICHELE CARDINAL PELLEGRINO, considered one of the most progressive Roman Catholic cardinals, has announced his resignation as archbishop of Turin for reasons of bad health. The 73-year-old Italian cardinal was said to be one of the closest followers of the late Pope John XXIII's policy of liberalizing the church. Cardinal Pellegrino said during a New Year's mass in Turin Cathedral that his health was poor and he had submitted his resignation to Pope Paul VI, who made him a cardinal in 1967.

Millionaire press magnate EMILIEN AMAURY, publisher of the strike-bound daily Parisien Libere, died at his home Sunday of injuries suffered in a riding accident. He was 67. Police said Amaury, riding in Chantilly Forest earlier in the day, suffered fatal head and throat injuries when his horse bolted and threw him against a tree trunk. Amaury, who also published numerous other dailies and periodicals, was one of the most powerful and controversial figures in the French press.

Communist party chairman HUA KUO-FENG and other Red Chinese leaders staged a lavish welcome in Peking Sunday for the military strongman of Bangladesh, Maj. Gen. ZIAUR RAHMAN, Peking's Hsinhua news agency reported. Rahman and Hua reviewed an honor guard at the airport and were cheered by dancing children and crowds waving bouquets and shouting slogans, according to the Hsinhua broadcast monitored here.

Publisher RALPH GINZBURG said Sunday in New York that he is launching a "hell raising" national monthly tabloid called Extra! Ginzburg, publisher of the consumer-oriented monthly Moneyworth, said the new publication will be sent to subscribers next month. Its first press run will be 85,000.

Robber, 72, Blows Heist In Argument

SEATTLE (AP) — When the 72-year-old customer pulled out a gun and demanded money, the drive-in restaurant waitress thought he was joking.

When she smiled and ignored his demand, the elderly bandit fired.

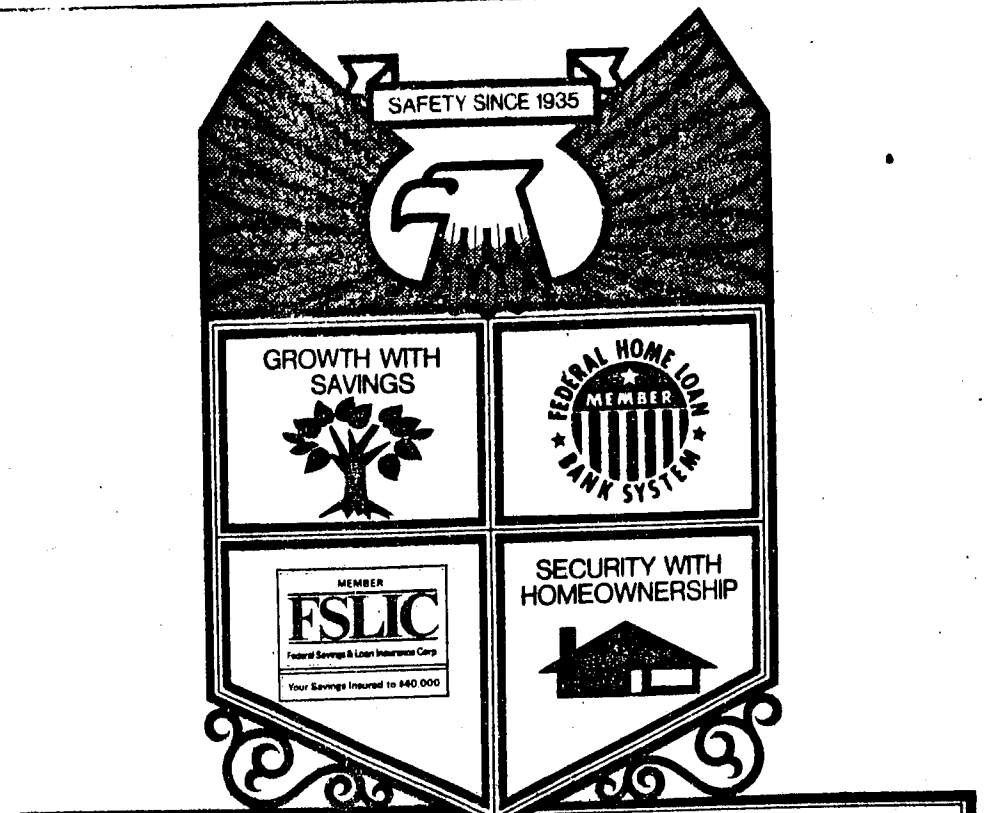

Fortunately, the pistol carried blanks, police said, and waitress Karen Dain was uninjured. But realizing the man wasn't joking, she began to hand over money from the cash register.

A coworker, Loren Cole, pointed out that since the gun hadn't fired real bullets, there was no need to cooperate. The bandit demanded money, anyway.

"I kept pulling the money out of the cash register and putting it back in," the waitress said.

When Cole and the man began to struggle with each other, the waitress fled to summon police. Cole and the bandit were still arguing when police arrived.

Buried Arsenals, Hate Literature Leave Probers Guessing

By RICHARD SALTUS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although buried weapons caches of unprecedented size have been dug from the Mojave Desert recently, authorities say they would be surprised if the trail led to active paramilitary groups of any magnitude.

A decade ago in Southern California a few small bands of men preached hatred of Jews, blacks and Reds, and gathered weapons for the day when they would have to repel Communist invaders.

At their collective peak, they probably comprised no more than a few hundred active "soldiers."

Today, they are largely gone — dead or scattered to the four winds, or keeping the lowest of profiles.

Yet huge buried arsenals — tons of rifles and bombs and machine guns — recently have come to light when desert sands shifted in the wind. Among the munitions were training manuals and aged hate literature, anti-black, anti-Jew, anti-Communist.

Are they the abandoned armories of one of the paramilitary groups such as the Minutemen, the California Rangers, the Christian Defense League that apparently dissolved long ago? Or is Donald Grove Wiggins, an Ontario foundry operator on whose land in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties the caches were found, a link to a still-active private army?

If the latter is true, "Probably in reality we are not talking about great numbers of people" said Pat Casey, assistant director of the organized crime unit of the state attorney general's office. He said his office has seen little evidence of ultraconservative groups holding maneuvers or mounting any public activity in recent years.

Howard Jarvis, a long-time conservative politician who knew many of the leaders of ultra-right groups in the 1960s, recalls, "They were always trying to get my support, and they sent me their literature. But I don't even hear of a damn one of them any more."

"It's all conjecture at this point," said Sheriff's Detective Ron Moya, a leader of the massive investigation. "There is nothing that ties Wiggins to any particular organization."

Wiggins, his mother, his halfbrother and stepfather (who has since died) have been charged in connection with the weapons finds that began Dec. 5 when shifting desert sands in northwestern Los Angeles County revealed a concrete arms storage bunker.

The only link — and a very tenuous one — to any organization whatsoever, say authorities, is the discovery that Wiggins once attended meetings held by the late Rev. Wesley Swift, a former Ku Klux Klan organizer who was a key figure in several paramilitary racist groups.

The groups in general had the same purpose: to get ready for the day when Communists or civil rights activists would have to be fought to save the country.

But investigators say Wiggins claims he and Swift were not like-minded, and that he never joined any such group, although Swift formerly owned land near the desert plot owned by Wiggins, where some of the munitions were buried.

In the rundown house in Ontario where Wiggins lived, there was found a huge amount of literature on flying saucers, gold mining and other esoteric subjects.

Also found was a book by Wiggins called "A New Attack on Freedom: Don't Let Them Take Our Guns Away." That kind of declaration, however, is common to many groups and individuals.

Wiggins claims he was keeping the arms for a mysterious "Jeff Martin" to whom he was obligated by reason of a $17,000 loan. Authorities are still seeking Martin, so far in vain.

Investigators say they currently believe there is no connection between the arsenals found on three sites in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties owned by Wiggins and two hauls of arms seized in a mountain cabin and at roadside dumps in San Bernardino County.

The Wiggins caches, which authorities say included weapons buried as early as 1963 and as late as 1971, in some ways fit information contained in a 1965 state attorney general's report on paramilitary groups. — Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess said at a news conference that copies of "The Thunderbolt" were found in the caches. The attorney general's report mentions "The Thunderbolt" as an organ of the National States Rights Party, an anti-black, anti-Jewish group that urged its members to attend Rev. Swift's churches.

— A Minuteman manual quoted in the attorney general's report said "the mortar is one of the best light weight heavy fire weapons available to insurgent or guerilla forces..." and also recommended stockpiling bazookas (rocket launchers), real and practice hand grenades and submachine guns. Some of each of those weapon types was found in the caches.

However, detective Moya said no Minuteman manuals were among the literature discovered in the bunkers.

— The Antelope Valley, Ontario and western San Bernardino County, where the caches were uncovered, were all known areas of paramilitary activity.

Nevertheless, authorities say it will take extensive tracing of the weapons, searching for fingerprints and questioning of persons possibly involved before the puzzle can be solved — if it is possible at all.

Why did the groups fade away, and where did their members go?

The attorney general's report notes that maintaining interest of members was difficult, and many fell by the wayside.

Robert DePugh, national head of the Minutemen, was convicted on firearms charges in the late 1960s and vowed that henceforth the organization would go underground.

Troy Houghton, California head of the group, also was convicted but then disappeared from view. The convictions of both men were later reversed.

But even if a lingering few of the private soldiers remain, says Casey of the organized crime unit, "15 or 16 dedicated people can cause a lot of havoc with guns and explosives. We shouldn't play the importance down too much; it doesn't take very many."

Price Ceiling On Dowries Set

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The inflation-stricken Belleme tribe has imposed a ceiling on bridal money.

The English language daily Arab News said dowries for virgins are now limited to $2,900 and for widows and divorcees to $2,300.

The newspaper said the move was prompted by a decline in the number of marriages due to the high cost of brides, which had reached 20,000 Saudi riyals, or $5,800.

Should Imbiber Take His Business Home?

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will print this suggestion for people who spend more money in bars than they can afford:

Since you cannot refrain from drinking, why not start a saloon in your own home? Be the only customer and you will not have to buy a license.

Give your wife $55 to buy a case of whiskey. There are 240 drinks in a case. Buy all your drinks from your wife at 60 cents a drink, and in 12 days (when the case is gone) your wife will have $89 to put in the bank and $55 to buy another case.

If you live 10 years and continue to buy all your whiskey from your wife and then die in your boots, your widow will have $27,085.47 on deposit—enough to bring up your children, pay off the mortgage on the house, marry a decent man and forget she ever knew a bum like you.

THINKING MAN

DEAR THINKING: You sound more like a "drinking" man than a thinking man. What man is going to give his wife $55 to buy a case of whiskey, and then pay her 60 cents for a drink?

The way I figure it, the man will be out $55 every 12 days, and when he goes on Social Security, he'll either die of starvation or cirrhosis of the liver—whichever comes first.

DEAR ABBY: I am a male who has just read an article written by a woman who uses the word "macho" to describe men who have an exaggerated sense of male pride.

What would you call a female who has an exaggerated sense of female pride and delights in making men feel like little boys?

In other words, Abby, what word can be used to describe the female counterpart of the "macho" male?

AROUSED

DEAR AROUSED: How about "machete"? (An ideal weapon for castration.)

DEAR ABBY: I swore, like everyone else, that a grown man writing to you had to be the silliest thing in the world, but I have no one else to go to for a solution.

I head a department where I work, and a coworker of mine who has an eye for the ladies is my problem. He's having an affair with one of the secretaries here, and not only is this guy married, she is, too. Plus, she is one of his wife's best friends.

He has had other affairs, but I've always looked the other way, figuring it was none of my business. But this time, the work in my department is affected. He cuts his working hours short and makes excuses to be around her instead of tending to his business.

I like this guy, but I am responsible to my higher-ups. Do I look the other way again, talk to him, blab to the boss or wise up the wife?

WHAT NOW?

DEAR WHAT: Tell your friend that his lapses on the job are beginning to show—for reasons that are no secret around the office. Furthermore, if he doesn't shape up he's likely to be shipped out.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

your horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, JANUARY 4

Your birthday today: From an active phase of reorganization early this year, you settle into a steady quest for prosperity. Much success is promised. Relationships require reconsideration; adjustments are fairly easy. Today's natives are good at mathematics, economic theories, planning and management. Those born this year have vivid imaginations, will need a stable environment, opportunity to check their concepts against reality without undue criticism or uncritical praise.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Build momentum by added effort. If you carry others' responsibilities, make it part of the record. Reasonable reaction to provocation pays.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Adopt new work methods, extra equipment. Resolutions are reinforced or canceled according to the way you reply to social invitations, temptations.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Finances favor people who owe you payment. Your own budget is tight as unplanned expenses soar. Evening brings an opportunity for negotiation.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Take full initiative in any area open for free movement, just hold revisions on money until afternoon. Your persuasive powers run near maximum.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Reflect on what you're about to change in daily living habits. Accurate communication isn't automatic, results from keeping the message simple.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Bring your achievements to attention. The personal touch is important; vicarious experience offers little joy. Tonight promises lively romance.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Work takes a better turn; others will pitch in once you get rolling. Don't suggest ideas to people in authority; their hands are full already.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Pursue legal matters; refinancing, bids for new work, all in the open. If it's a secret, something is wrong with the project or the timing.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Your business is nobody's but your own, although friends try to get involved. Connections make a difference, but expect nothing of a new contact.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Accept promises with grace, but definite reservations. Speak your deeper feelings; if you find yourself corrected, don't take it personally.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Seek a pilot-project approach to problems. You see more than suspected once experiments start. Ask no favors, stick to the practical aspects.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: People who fancy they're important assert themselves. Distance protects you from misunderstandings. Taking the familiar for granted upsets progress.

PLO Chieftain Endorses Arab, Jew Homelands

TEL AVIV (AP) — A Palestine Liberation Organization chieftain has endorsed an Israeli peace group's manifesto that declares both Jews and Arabs have the right to independent homelands, the leader of the Israeli group said Sunday.

But an Israeli government spokesman said the Palestinian guerrilla group's charter still calls for the destruction of Israel and "everything else is propaganda." Israel opposes even informal contacts with the PLO.

Matityahu Peled, a reserve general in the Israeli army who heads the Council for Israeli-Palestinian Peace, told reporters his group held a series of about two dozen meetings in Paris with members of the PLO, an umbrella group headed by Yasir Arafat. He did not identify the Palestinians.

"This is an historic development," said Peled, who added that the meetings began in September and resulted in a joint statement Jan. 1.

Peled said a member of the PLO leadership affirmed in the statement "that the PLO is dedicated to the policy of striving for a peaceful solution of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict on the basis of mutual acceptance of the principle of freedom, sovereignty and security for both people."

He said the PLO leader endorsed the council's manifesto to that states both Jews and Palestinian Arabs have national identities and rights to independent homelands in Palestine. It also says Israel's borders should be the lines that prevailed before the 1967 Middle East war, with changes as agreed among the combatants.

Jim: "Dick Miller's new book 'More Bridge Brilliance and Blunders' might give us a chance to show a few of each."

Oswald: "Remember the story about the man who started a rumor and wound up believing it himself. Today's West decided to fool declarer, but he fooled his partner at the same time."

Jim: "South slam-banged his way into six notrump in a match-point game. West opened the eight of spades. East took his ace after dummy played the queen and led a spade back. South could count 11 easy tricks and normally would gather in the 12th by means of a heart finesse to make his notrump slam and beat all the players who wrapped up six diamonds."

Oswald: "Anyway, South started to run off the diamonds and on the first diamond West threw the seven of hearts. South noted this and assumed that West was showing the king of hearts. Maybe a squeeze would develop. South ran the diamonds while discarding two hearts. Then he came to his hand with the king of clubs, cashed the last high spade and entered dummy with the ace of clubs. He thought a while, led a heart with every intention of trying to drop West's unguarded king when lo-and-behold East played the king. He had believed his partner's signal and chucked two of his hearts."

The answer is that it makes no difference, although in most games the first defender to win a trick keeps it and all later tricks.

Israeli Peace Sailor Allowed In Canal

ISMAILIA, Egypt (AP) — Israeli peace sailor Abie Nathan finally made it Sunday, guiding his 400-ton "Shalom" through the Suez Canal.

It was a symbolic move at the start of what Egyptian President Anwar Sadat says will be a year of peace in the Middle East. Officials said the decision to let the former Tel Aviv restaurateur and peace promoter through the waterway was made at the highest levels of the Egyptian government.

Nathan's ship, normally stationed in the Mediterranean, has a pirate radio station that propagandizes for peace in the Middle East.

It was not known in this town at the canal's midpoint whether Nathan would be allowed to sail back from the Red Sea once he made his north-south passage.

Technically he could have sailed in the canal because his Panamanian-registered ship does not fly the Israeli flag and Nathan is not officially its captain. But he was rebuffed on four occasions and arrested once in previous attempts to cruise the Suez.

Nathan cabled Sadat asking for permission to sail through the canal on New Year's Day. "It will be a happy day indeed if peace can be brought closer this way," Nathan said over his floating radio station as he anchored off Port Said, at the northern end of the waterway.

He said he received no answer from Sadat.

ABIE NATHAN ALLOWED BY EGYPT TO SAIL SHALOM THROUGH SUEZ CANAL
Move Seen As Symbolic Gesture For Start Of Sadat's 'Year Of Peace'

Nathan did not get the glorious peace trip he envisioned. The antiwar crusader had said he wanted to distribute candy and flowers to Egyptian children along the banks of the Suez. He also told his radio listeners he wanted to pick up a load of Egyptian reporters and take them to Eilat, in Israel, for a tour of the Jewish state. He also wanted to bring back a group of Israeli reporters to visit Egypt.

The "peace ship" was searched in Port Said, just like any other vessel passing through the canal, and additional security measures were in effect, Egyptian officials said.

An unarmed Egyptian policeman was aboard the Shalom as the small white ship chugged into Lake Timsah at Ismailia. Egyptian security officials stood on the canal's banks.

As the ship sailed past, a member of Nathan's 16-man multinational crew waved at the onlookers — a few soldiers, five civilians and two foreign reporters. No one waved back.

The Shalom was 31st in a convoy of 32 ships. The last vessel was an Egyptian navy warship escorting the peace ship as it moved beneath Egyptian military positions on the sandy banks.

The crossing was not the first time an Israeli-connected ship has been let through the canal since Egypt and Israel signed their second Sinal disengagement agreement in 1975. Other third-country vessels have carried cargo to and from Israel without stopping at Egyptian ports.

"But frankly Nathan is a special case. He is a pain in the neck," one Egyptian official here said. He and other sources declined use of their names.

"Things have changed," since Nathan first tried to see the late Egyptian President Gamal Abdul Nasser in 1966, said one Egyptian source. He was referring to Sadat's current drive to open peace negotiations with Israel.

Carter's U.N. Envoy Rips Moynihan

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Carter's choice to represent the United States at the United Nations said Sunday that a predecessor, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, demeaned "an entire continent's leadership" when he blasted Uganda's Idi Amin and other black African leaders.

Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., answered "my view is that I shouldn't comment on any national leader" when asked on NBC's "Meet The Press," what he thought of the Ugandan president.

The Senate, where Moynihan was recently elected from New York, will be voting later this month on Carter's nomination of Young.

Moynihan called Amin a "racist murderer" and added that "it was no accident" that the Ugandan headed the Organization of African Unity.

The then-ambassador was replying to a call by Amin for the extinction of Israel.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger publicly disassociated himself from the extension of Moynihan's criticism of Amin to the other African leaders in the OAU.

"I do not consider him a typical representative of that organization," Kissinger said.

He added that he shared Moynihan's displeasure with Amin.

Young's view was similar to Kissinger's in that he said Moynihan "went too far" in extending his criticism from Amin to other Africans.

Later in the program, Young said, "I don't approve of any of the policies of Idi Amin" and said he would support use of American power to "rectify policies" in black Africa as well as in white-ruled countries of southern Africa.

"I see the United States moving towards a very aggressive policy to bring about majority rule in southern Africa," he said. "I don't see sanctions, but I see an arms embargo, of course."

An arms embargo has been in force since 1964.

Young said the United States has not recently been a U.N. leader and added, "What I hope to do is assume a leadership role in the United Nations. In the Carter administration, you will get leadership from the United States."

The ambassador-designate said when nominated that he would play an independent role in the job and not merely parrot instructions from Washington.

Asked about that statement, Young said, "If I participate in the decision-making process, I'm willing to be influenced by other members of the Cabinet and certainly by the president."

He said he expected to take part in such Cabinet meetings once a week.

Uganda Replaces Jets Wrecked By Israelis In Entebbe Raid

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — President Idi Amin has commissioned a squadron of Soviet fighter planes to replace those destroyed in last July's Israeli raid on Entebbe airport, Uganda Radio said Sunday.

The government-controlled radio said the commissioning ceremony took place Saturday at Entebbe Airport and that Soviet-trained Ugandan pilots put the supersonic MIG21 jets through their paces before an audience of diplomats, military officers and government officials.

Amin "paid glowing tribute to the Soviet Union for having trained Ugandan supersonic pilots to such high standards," the radio said. The Uganda leader said the planes "will not be used for aggressive purposes," the radio reported.

Ugandan officials have said 11 MIGs were destroyed last July 4 when Israeli commandos rescued more than 100 Jewish hostages held at Entebbe by pro-Palestinian guerrillas. The hostages were aboard an airliner hijacked by the terrorists and flown to Entebbe.

Uganda Radio said Amin announced that Moscow has replaced "all the military equipment" destroyed in the raid. The radio added that the raid interrupted the air force's training program because its few trainer planes were destroyed.

Amin, whose 49th birthday was Sunday, ordered a "crash program of military training ... in the army, air force and marines" after the raid, the report said. Amin said that program "is still continuing," but the radio gave no details.

5 Italy Leftists Demand Control Over Vatican

ROME (AP) — Five leftist members of the Italian parliament demanded Sunday that the government stop the Vatican's "massive capitalistic operations."

In a parliamentary motion, the five deputies deplored the Vatican's business deals and the Roman Catholic Church's huge real estate holdings, reportedly amounting to at least one-fourth of all property in Rome. The Vatican makes "scandalous use of its own property," they said.

The motion by four members of the leftist Radical party and one Socialist came after an investigative report in an Italian weekly last week called the Vatican "a real empire" in land holdings in and around the Italian capital.

The magazine, the independent L'Europeo, said the Vatican and its religious orders seem to have embarked on a policy of divesting themselves of old religious buildings at windfall profits and without paying taxes.

Some historic buildings have ended up as modern hotels and office complexes, the magazine said.

The Vatican has withheld comment on the magazine report, which was headlined "Vatican Inc."

Property owned by the Vatican and the Roman Catholic Church's religious orders range from buildings in the heart of Rome's historic center to more than 5,100 acres on the outskirts of the city, the magazine said. "To give a commercial value to this empire is impossible," it added.

The Vatican's wealth has long been a matter of speculation and has been one of the world's best-kept secrets.

Supermarkets Ring Up Price Hikes As Year Ends-Survey

The old year ended with a sharp round of price hikes for supermarket shoppers who found that increases in the cost of coffee during 1976 wiped out savings on other items, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood products, checked the prices on March 1, 1973 at one supermarket in each of 13 cities and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The increases during December were predictable. The cost of a pound of chopped chuck went up at the checklist store in seven cities, reflecting smaller supplies of cattle. Coffee prices continued to soar, topping $3 a pound at the checklist store in one city, but still lagging behind the wholesale prices.

The AP survey showed that the marketbasket bill rose at the checklist store in 12 cities last month, up an average of 5.1 per cent. The only decline, 5.9 per cent, was in Boston — which also reported the only drop in coffee prices. On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores went up 4.3 per cent in December.

During November, in contrast, prices remained stable on a nationwide basis. The marketbasket bill was up at the checklist store in six cities, down in six and unchanged in one for an overall decrease of a tenth of a per cent.

Comparing prices at the start of January 1977 with those a year earlier, the AP survey found the marketbasket bill was up at the checklist store in 10 cities and down in three, for an overall increase of 3.5 per cent. The government had predicted that food prices alone would rise 3 to 4 per cent last year.

The key factor in the increase was the cost of coffee, which has been rising ever since a frost damaged the crop in Brazil in the summer of 1975. Coffee prices went up at the checklist store in 12 cities over the year. (The requested size and brand of coffee was not available for comparison at the checklist store in the 13th city.)

If coffee is removed from the Jan. 1, 1976 and Jan. 1, 1977 marketbasket totals for the 12 cities where it was available, the AP survey shows there was an overall price decrease during the year instead of an increase. The average drop was 3.4 per cent.

The National Coffee Association said recently that wholesale prices for beans have risen 218 per cent since July 1975. Wholesale prices for ground coffee have followed. Folger's, the nation's second largest processor, recently raised its price to retailers to $3.08 a pound for regular ground coffee; General Foods, the number one processor, boosted its wholesale price to $2.91.

Special promotions and the time lag have protected consumers from the full impact of the coffee increases. But the latest AP survey showed that the average increase in coffee prices over the year was 63 per cent. In Salt Lake City, the price at the checklist store for a pound of coffee went from $1.54 at the start of 1976 to $3.19 this January. Prices elsewhere currently range from $2.09 to $2.79.

Some people, including New York City's commissioner of consumer affairs and the heads of two supermarket chains, have urged a boycott of coffee to force the price down. Coffee consumption has been declining steadily for several years, but there has been no indication so far that the call for a boycott has had any impact.

The higher prices for chopped chuck were an indication of things to come. Cattle supplies were abundant at the start of 1976 and beef prices declined through much of the year. The price paid to ranchers for their animals also declined and the cattlemen cut back production. Beef prices started rising again and the Agriculture Department predicted that the cost of a pound of beef would go up an average of 10 cents next year.

A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed more increases during December than during November. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

Nov. Dec. Up 22,636.9 Down 29,711.3 Unchanged 44,648.7 Unavailable 3.13.1

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what per cent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not attempt to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that cookies cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 per cent in one city and 6 per cent in another.

The USDA marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It includes 65 retail items of U.S. farm-produced foods in amounts that theoretically could supply a household of 3.2 persons for one year. The department, which draws on information from 1,500 supermarkets in compiling its report, says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar. The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Regulation Of Pesticides 'Chaotic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional staff study concluded Sunday that federal regulation of pesticides is in "a state of chaos."

As a result, it said, "the American people cannot be reasonably assured that the federal government is protecting them from pesticides that pose a serious threat to their health."

The report accuses the Environmental Protection Agency of relying heavily on safety test data submitted by manufacturers as long as 25 years ago and failing to take corrective action in the face of warnings that the data may be faulty and incomplete. "EPA's failure to validate testing data for purposes of re-registering pesticides has caused needless and costly delay in determining to what extent pesticides currently on the market cause such adverse effects as cancer, birth defects and interference with biological reproduction," the report said.

The report was based on a

10-month investigation by the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on administrative practice and procedure.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., subcommittee chairman, said in a foreword that he recognized the "constraints" under which EPA was operating in trying to meet an October 1976 deadline set by Congress in 1972 for re-registering some 50,000 pesticide products currently on the market. EPA was unable, he said, to obtain the personnel and resources to accomplish this "enormous task."

"But," he said, "EPA must shoulder the major share of the blame. Not until very recently did EPA inform the Congress and the public that these constraints forced the agency into the untenable and dangerous decision not to evaluate and validate much of the safety testing data in the reregistration process."

He said it is "most encouraging," however, that EPA has now taken steps to improve the regulation of pesticides.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train, in a Dec. 23 letter to Kennedy, denied misleading Congress about personnel problems.

He said the strategy of concentrating on the most suspect chemicals was announced publicly when it was adopted in 1974. Currently, he said, "we have screened out 140 compounds, representing approximately 15,000 products, for our most thorough evaluation," which is underway.

The staff report said that although the re-registration deadline has now been extended to October 1977, EPA estimates that it will take three years to complete the task. And, it said, the agency has not yet begun a systematic review of more than 4,000 tolerances previously set for accumulation of residue on agricultural products.

Carter Invites Blacks To Plains church

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter evoked memories of his childhood in a nearly all-black community Sunday as he brought the son and daughter of a black bishop to worship services at the Plains Baptist Church.

They were accompanied by two bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal Church and together with their families and other blacks attending comprised the largest number of blacks to attend services here since the church was integrated officially late in 1976.

The Rev. William D. Johnson, who with his sister, Mrs. Fannie Johnson Hill, grew up with Carter in the hamlet of Archery some four miles from Plains, said they had been invited to attend Carter's inauguration. They are the son and daughter of the late Bishop William D. Johnson of the AME church.

"They were the most distinguished family in our neighborhood," said Carter. "I kind of grew up with them," he said.

Mrs. Hill credited Carter's mother, 78-year-old "Miss Lillian" Carter, who was once a local nurse, for having saved her son at childbirth when doctors had despaired of his life. She said her son grew to manhood and is now a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Air Force.

Carter introduced his guests before the morning lesson in the church's men's Bible class. They included Bishop William Reed Wilkes and H.I.

Bearden. Late Sunday, the President-elect and his wife, Rosalynn, visited the hospital room of his mother, 78-year-old "Miss Lillian" Carter. "She's feeling real good today, the best I've seen her yet," Carter said

Army Questions Navy Plan For White Sands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army isn't sure its weapons testing programs at White Sands Missile Range and the proposed Seafarer underground communications system would be compatible. White Sands is one of three sites under consideration for the communications project, which would require between 1,800 and 2,500 miles of underground antenna cable spread in a 3,000 square mile-area. The installation would serve as a massive antenna that would beam signals to submerged submarines.

Maj. Fred Shirley said recently officials aren't sure how Seafarer would fit in at WSMR, which has vast batteries of equipment designed to monitor testing.

"Naturally the Army wondered what effect, if any, such a vast communications system would have on the weapons testing program at White Sands," said Shirley. "The concern was legitimate."

He said the Army still doesn't know whether the project would have an unfavorable impact on weapons testing.

And Shirley said the uncertainty runs both ways. "Instead of the project interfering with the testing, the testing might interfere with the project," he said.

White Sands and Nevada's Tonopah Test Range were included because they have vast expanses of federally-owned land. The Navy was instructed to locate the project on federal land if feasible.

The Navy says it would prefer to install the antenna in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, but residents of eight counties in the area recently rejected the proposal in separate referendums.

Navy officials, however, say they hope residents will change their view after reading an environmental impact statement they contend shows the project is environmentally and biologically safe.

It would cost an estimated $570 million to place the system in New Mexico, while estimates for a New Mexico or Nevada installation are between $800 million and $900 million.

Reservations expressed concerning the project have ranged from concern the buried antenna cables would sterilize cattle to the disruption of wildlife.

Japanese To Boost Defenses Facing Korea

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government is studying ways to boost its defense forces in areas facing Korea, the Japanese news service Kyodo reported on Sunday. Kyodo said defense agency leaders believe that under the new administration of President-elect Jimmy Carter U.S. ground forces in South Korea may be withdrawn completely by 1980. Japanese defense leaders consider those troops important in maintaining a balance of military power on the Korean peninsula, the news agency added. Kyodo said these leaders also feel that Japan's security would be affected if a conflict breaks out in Korea. The defense agency, therefore, will attach more importance in new defense buildup plans to the southernmost main island of Kyushu, 125 miles south of Korea across the Korea Strait, Kyodo said. It said possible measures include expansion of the 7,000-man division of defense forces in Kyushu to 9,000 men.

Mummers Hold Gala Parade Despite Freeze

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia's never-say-die Mummers were out in force Sunday, braving subfreezing temperatures to parade up Broad Street in their extravagant regalia. The freezing cold and blustery winds had forced postponement of the annual New Year's Day Mummers Parade on Saturday. The parade has been a Philadelphia institution since 1901 and Mummers say it traces back to the Middle Ages.

Clear skies brought warmer temperatures, and police estimated that 100,000 persons lined up along the parade route as the long-awaited bands marched into view.

Crowds were slow to gather Sunday along the estimated 20-block parade route, but some spectators came early with blankets, chairs and flasks. By 8 a.m. the first comic divisions, the original Mummers, could be seen headed toward City Hall from South Philadelphia.

The comic marchers were dressed as African warriors, spacemen, chorus girls, angels, devils, clowns and every type of character, both real and imagined.

One man-turned-belle strutted head high as the spirit of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, the "grand old lady of Broad Street." Women are not allowed to march in the parade.

Dancing to tunes blared from car-mounted speakers, several comics occasionally danced to the sidelines, where they shook hands with policemen and spectators and wished each a happy new year.

It's better than money in the bank!

"In fact, we urged all consumers to transfer their savings from banks because they give savers lower yields, often have outrageous and unnecessary charges. On the other hand, most savings and loans offer higher yields, have fewer charges, and often have generous service packages."

This statement is from an interview with a spokesperson for San Francisco Consumer Action about their new book... "It's In Your Interest."* It points out just what we've been telling you for years... that money in a bank isn't doing the job it should be.

We think Home Federal is the best place for your money. We'll arrange a transfer of funds from your bank to us any time you'd like... quickly and conveniently.

THE TROUBLE SHOOTER

The Trouble Shooter cannot accept phone calls. Please communicate by mail to address below.

CATSUP OR KETCHUP
Dear Trouble Shooter
Which is the correct spelling, catsup or ketchup? When, where and how did this condiment get its name?

M.A.S.
Santa Ana
The terms are interchangeable, podnah, and nobody knows exactly which one came first. There is written reference in Malayan to "catsup" back in 1690 and the word comes from the country's native word for "taste."

On the other hand, "ketchup" is diverted from a Chinese word which originally meant "a brine of pickled fish or shell fish."

H.J. Heinz calls its product "ketchup." Some of the other condiment manufacturers call theirs "catsup."

Reckon it's toss-up.

SPARE LEAVES?

Dear Trouble Shooter

My aunt is very ill. The doctor has said her only hope to get well is to take fresh comfrey leaves and brew the juice out of them. She must drink one-fourth cup of this brew three times a day.

We have used all our fresh leaves. Our only hope is that one of your readers has a plant in the house that has not gone dormant and will give us some fresh leaves.

E.W.

Buena Park.

Let's ask anyone who can help to give you a jingle at 522-2520. Meanwhile, check with a local health food store to see if dried leaves are available.

YOU HELPED!

Dear Trouble Shooter

Thank you very much for helping me find the autoharp for my autistic son. I just want you to know that many of your readers responded and called me right away.

Please thank all of them for me, too.

L.R.

Placentia

Folks who read the Ol' Trouble Shooter's column are the warmest-hearted folks in the world, Ma'am. He's not one bit surprised to hear that things worked out well.

VOLUNTEERS

Dear Trouble Shooter

The YWCA of North Orange County is in need of ladies to volunteer to work with groups of junior high and senior high school girls. The volunteer time required is a minimum of two hours each morning (Monday through Friday) for one week per month. An initial program training workshop is also required.

We are interviewing women with background in teaching, counseling, home economics, recreational leadership, etc.

There is a great deal of satisfaction in contributing to the lives of teen women. Will you ask your readers to help?

L.R.

Fullerton

You betcha!

Interested ladies can call the YWCA at 871-4488 for full details of the program.

DISNEY TICKETS

Dear Trouble Shooter

My daughter goes to the Gill Development Center for the Handicapped. I am wondering if any of your readers have leftover tickets to Disneyland that they might give these "special" children so they can enjoy an outing there.

Also, when we go to Disneyland, we could use quite a few volunteers so the kids can ride the rides on a one-to-one basis.

M.F.T.

Huntington Beach

Almost everyone who goes to Disneyland brings back some unused tickets, Ma'am. Chances are folks will be more than happy to unload them on you. Let's ask them to mail the tickets to: Gill Education Center, 15252 Victoria Lane, Huntington Beach 92647.

PORCELAIN POSIES

Dear Trouble Shooter

A friend of mine had some beautiful porcelain-finish flowers given to her by somebody who did-them-herself. Originally, the flowers were plastic. Can you find out what sort of paint they were dipped into?

I'd like to make some, myself. They're beautiful.

B.H.Y.

Fullerton

Mix one pint turpentine, one pint clear varnish and one fourth pint high gloss white enamel. Dip the plastic flowers into the mixture and hang by their stems to dry. You can store the left-over mixture for use at a later date.

CONCRETE BOWL

Dear Trouble Shooter

What's with the big concrete bowl near Citron and Vermont in Anaheim where all the kids are skateboarding? Who paid for it and who's running it, we taxpayers?

T.T.P.

Anaheim

"The Concrete Wave" is a partnership between the City of Anaheim and a concessionaire who's using previously undeveloped city-owned land to provide a place for youngsters to ride their skateboards. The aim is for both the concessionaire and the city's taxpayers to reap a profit.

Special safety precautions are imposed upon youngsters using the facility. They must wear helmets, knee and elbow pads and gloves. If they don't have such equipment, they can rent it.

Each session is 10 minutes short of two hours and costs $2, a good hunk of money for skateboard enthusiasts, many of whom are mowing lawns, and doing extra chores to finance their fun.

The skateboard park is located at 950 S. Citron, Anaheim. It's open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekdays, from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekends.

TOO LATE?

Dear Trouble Shooter

My home was sold at a trustee sale and we are to vacate the premises Jan. 10.

I have lived in my home for 19 years and was caught up in the second and third trust syndrome five years ago. Now I have ended up with absolutely nothing and no place to go. I put my complete trust in some real estate people who led me to believe I had nothing to worry about. I could have sold my home and got something out of it, but I believe them.

Is there any recourse I can take to redeem my home?

V.C.

Anaheim

It may be too late, Ma'am. You had 90 days notice before the sale took place in which to sell the property or come up with the money due on the mortgages.

However, an attorney may be able to find some irregularity in the proceedings. If the Trouble Shooter were wearing your boots, he's take all of his papers to a good lawyer and ask for an expert opinion.

SMALL SHOES

Dear Trouble Shooter

I am writing on behalf of my mother, recently widowed, a senior citizen who still enjoys dressing up and attending social functions with friends.

Her problem, which may not be significant to some, is a dilemma to her. She wears a size two and one-half shoe and cannot find any woman's dress or high heeled shoes to fit her. She is forced to buy shoes at a children's bootery and does not find them attractive for her age or style of dress.

Can you be of any help?

H.N.

Westminster

There's a Cinderella Slipper Shop in Beverly Hills that specializes in very small fashion shoes. The address is 8432 Wilshire Blvd.

SCHOOL PROJECT

Dear Trouble Shooter

I need two old pink flamingo lawn ornaments for a school project. I have not been able to find them anywhere.

Do you suppose some of your readers have one they no longer want?

R.K.

Santa Ana

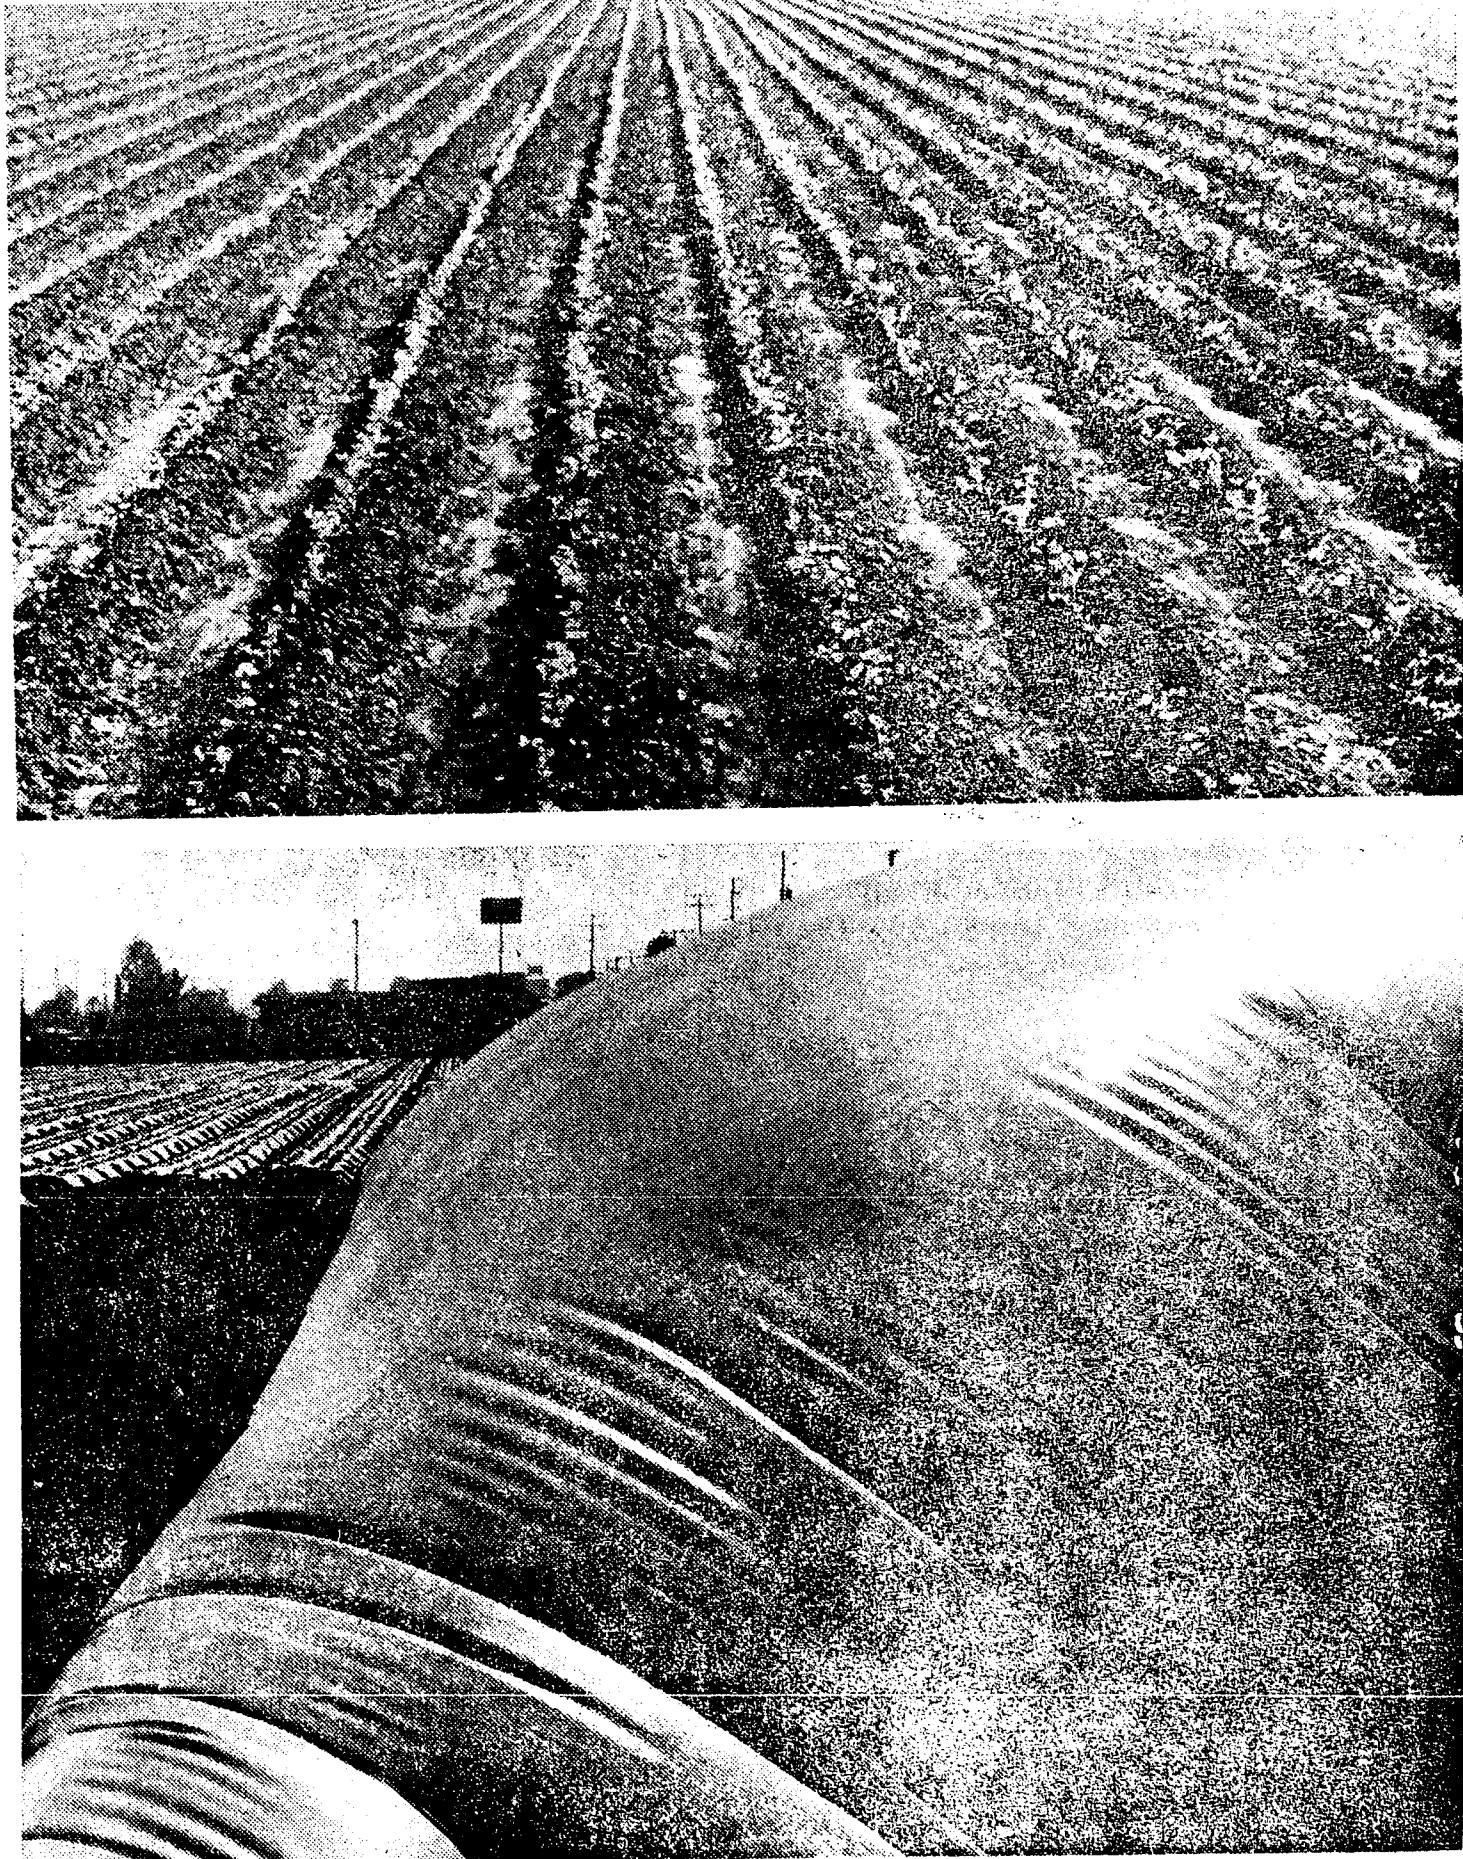

Doesn't do any harm to ask, does it, podnah? The phone number, for anyone who can help, is 834-1225.

OC Fields Skip Long Winter Nap

Elsewhere across the country, the fields lie sleeping under sheets of frost, blankets of snow and comforters of winter barn manure, dreaming of the resurrection of spring, the kiss of the plow, the fertility of the seed, the embrace of the sun and the pulse of life-giving rain.

But here, here in Southern California, the rich soil glistens and new crops are already pushing their heads above the warm, moist soil.

Workers walk through fields of strawberries sheathed in plastic. Sun rays make the fields look like shimmering lakes and the workers seem to be walking on water as they seek out the weeds.

But the miracle is at their feet, and harvest is but a few weeks away.

Watering and weeding go on in every scrap of ground not yet claimed by industry or housing. Herbs grow under huge, air-inflated plastic tents. Squeezed between the protective bubbles are fast ripening rows of table onions and radishes.

Stretching nearly to infinity, the row crops of celery and other vegetables bask lazily in the sun and stretch their stalks and green their leaves.

Social Security's Tax Bite Gets Bigger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans will pay as much as $70.20 more in Social Security taxes in the new year.

By law, the maximum annual tax payment increases from $895.05 in 1976 to $965.25 in 1977. Forty years ago, in 1937, the maximum tax was $30 a year.

But only the 19 million or so Americans earning more than $15,300 will pay a higher tax in 1977. The tax rate on a worker's income will remain at 5.85 per cent, so persons who earn less than $15,300 will not pay any more than they paid on the same amount of earnings last year.

In 1976, a worker had paid all Social Security tax obligations by the time he reached the $15,300 salary level, and income over this was not subject to additional tax. Persons for whom tax deductions stopped in 1976 after they reached the cutoff point will find the tax is being deducted from their checks longer.

The cutoff for wages and salaries in 1977 has been raised to $16,500, above which no additional Social Security tax will be collected. About 16 million workers earn more than $16,500.

The increase in the tax is automatic in the year after which there has been an increase in Social Security benefits, which rose 6.4 per cent in 1976.

The maximum Social Security tax on self-employed persons will rise from $1,208.70 to $1,303.50 in 1977.

The increases, which have to be matched by employers, will produce an estimated $2.3 billion for the Social Security system. However, this will not close the gap of benefit payments over income which amounted to about $4.3 billion last year.

Although the Social Security tax bite has been rising sharply since the early 1960s, it still has not kept pace with the flow of benefits. There is concern that the system's reserves will be eroded and that it may have to turn to general tax revenues to keep going.

The maximum tax was just $30 a year between 1937 and 1949. Then it rose slowly to $174 in 1963. Additional benefits for Medicare for the aged and disabled pushed the maximum tax to $277.20 by 1966.

Increases became even steeper in subsequent years, rising to a maximum $290.40 in 1967, $343.20 in 1968, $374.40 in 1969, $405.60 in 1971, $468 in

CALIFORNIA FEDERAL INTRODUCES THE CALIFORNIA-PLUS ACCOUNT.

It gives you the withdrawal benefits of a regular savings account--plus higher interest.

Now: We've combined the convenience of regular passbook saving with the high 5 3/4% interest of a 90-day certificate.

If you're a regular passbook saver, here's your chance to move up to higher interest.

If you're holding idle funds, now you've got a way to earn interest while you wait --and without tying up your money for more than 90 days.

Here's how it works:

Deposit $1000 or more. Leave your money for at least 90 days. Then we'll pay you 5 1/4% plus a 1/2% bonus. And you earn at a 5 3/4% annual rate.

No need to start all over.

It used to be that you had to close out a ninety-day 5 3/4% account when it came due--or freeze your funds for another 90-day period. No longer.

Now your California Plus Account continues to earn at a 5 3/4% annual rate but you can withdraw funds at anytime after 90 days with no interest penalty. Leave your money and interest a year, and you actually earn 5.92%.*

You get it both ways.

California Plus gives you all the advantages of ready access to your funds. If you need them at any time after the first 90 days, take them out: you pay no penalty. And by waiting 90 days, you earn a full 1/2% more than any passbook for as long as you choose to hold the account open.

Get a Plus--today.

Come into California Federal and put your money in a California Plus account. And in 90 days we'll give you a bonus for being patient.

You're better off in

Nation's Largest Federal

*Actual interest paid may differ slightly; 5.92% yield has been rounded to the nearest hundredth of one percent. Federal regulations prohibit payment of interest on withdrawals made within the first 90 days.

Brown Sees Fair Shake For Farmers

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says President-elect Jimmy Carter has assured him that he will work to make the federal government more responsive to California's agricultural needs. Brown said some California farmers feel they have not received a fair shake from the federal government when foreign trade agreements were negotiated in the past. Although Brown did not endorse that complaint personally, he said he relayed it to Carter and received promises that California agriculture would not be shortchanged.

"We're looking to make sure that when America negotiates its trade policies that the farmers in California get a fair shake," Brown said.

"Exports of California crops must be given the kind of assistance at the federal level that the Midwest has been generally entitled to. The fruits and vegetables that come out of California are different in their markets than corn and soybeans and wheat and things that come out of the Midwest," he said.

"Therefore, in the trade negotiations that will take place under the Carter administration, it is extremely important to California that, as the compromises and agreements are entered into, that California's interests be recognized."

Brown said Carter responded by promising that he "would help us in obtaining a strong voice in the department of agriculture."

The Democratic governor said that when Carter phoned him two weeks ago on another matter, Brown took the opportunity to convey California farmers' dissatisfaction to the former Georgia governor.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's a real simple way to eliminate television violence from the home. People can turn their sets off — if their kids let them.

Now Dr. Thomas Elmendorf, president of the California Medical Association, wants to help adults exercise their parental control by letting them know in advance if a particular program episode is going to contain any violence. He thinks parents have a right to know if "Starsky and Hutch," for example, are going to knock the teeth out of their prisoner.

Dr. George Gerbner, Dean of the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania, doubts that most parents have the authority to control their kids' viewings.

"In the average home, children control the dial. What we need is to change programming," says Gerbner.

But Elmendorf wants at least to give parents a fighting chance.

He believes that violent television "is an element in antisocial behavior."

Gordon Van Sauter, CBS' program practices vice president, is less sure. "There is no agreement on the effect of violence," he says.

Elmendorf and Sauter agree, however, that it's up to the parents to decide what kids should watch and that public opinion and pressure is a key to what you see on the tube.

And Elmendorf is quietly pressing for greater public awareness — not censorship or even a radical change in program format.

"We want the networks to have maximum freedom and a minimum of government interference," says Elmendorf.

"I would really like to see the networks release something that would go into the TV listings which would assist parents in selecting appropriate viewing for their children," says Elmendorf, who practices emergency medicine at Davis, Calif.

At the American Medical Association's annual convention last month in Philadelphia, Elmendorf sponsored a resolution asking the networks to rate each program episode by a formula they would set up themselves. The AMA turned down the proposal because "the intent of the resolution was already being carried out."

In efforts to define TV violence, the AMA has forked over $25,000 to a Washington-based nonprofit outfit called the National Citizens Committee for Better Broadcasting to compile ratings of individual shows. The money, says an AMA spokesman, was directed as a first step to "encourage the TV industry to reduce the amount of violence."

The NCCB received widespread media coverage when it ranked each show last summer on its relative content of violence.

Over a six week period, the service recorded each instance of violence and how long it appeared on the screen. Then all 63 shows seen on each network were ranked from least to most violent.

The industry objected to rating all forms of violence — from slaps to knife — equally. When a new study is released by the end of the year, says NCCB Executive Director Ted Carpenter, acts of aggressive violence will be rated separately from such things as pratfalls in comedy shows or natural disasters.

The wider definition of violence was used in the original study, he said, because Gerbner's research has indicated that all forms of violence, regardless of their context of severity, appear to affect small children equally.

The winner of the first study was the Bob Newhart Show, a situation comedy depicting the life and daily doings of a Chicago psychologist.

Ironically, the two most violent shows in the first batch of rankings, "SWAT" and "The Rookies," have been cancelled. Network authorities agree violence per se doesn't bring ratings.

Carpenter believes a rating system may be helpful. "But what we're really trying to do is put the pressure on the industry itself."

Elmendorf thinks the ratings would lead to greater public awareness — hence public pressure.

To: Kersey, ABC's West

Coast Broadcast Practices Chief, and Sauter are opposed to published violence ratings, even though both networks monitor the violent content of shows for their own use.

"I think it's naive to assume that someone watching Kojak in the fifth year of its existence does not know what Kojak is," says Sauter.

"I hope nothing ever comes of the idea" of publishing violence ratings of individual shows, says Kersey. He says the number of violent acts is meaningless unless placed in a creative context which he believes the average viewer couldn't understand.

Sauter insists that with millions of viewers "there is no feasible way you can develop a rating system that can be used by that incredible range of people."

"We apply a set of standards to all of our programming which we think represents the expectations, the tastes and the standards of the mass television audience."

Sauter notes that despite the objections of media researchers, and even powerful national groups like the AMA, "we get very few letters from viewers complaining about violent programming."

"If there is popular groundswell, things will change," he notes.

"I think we do children a disservice by not luring them to books" and other forms of educational entertainment, says Sauter.

"My children (now grown) could watch anything they want on television but they could only watch it for a limited number of hours each week."

A Poignant Story Of Vietnam

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dramas about the Vietnam war rarely appear on commercial TV. Conventional wisdom is that networks don't want to upset audiences with reminders of that tragic chapter in U.S. history.

But tonight ABC is airing "Green Eyes," a sad, warm, occasionally flawed TV movie about the tiny victims of that war, the thousands of Vietnamese kids fathered and left behind by American soldiers.

Paul Winfield, a fine actor, has the lead in the film. He plays a black ex-GI crippled in the war, disillusioned by the rejection he finds in his own country when he gets out of a military hospital on Guam in 1973.

The disillusionment leads to his return to Vietnam, to his search for the only thing that could give his life meaning — his illegitimate son, "Green Eyes," born to a bar girl with whom he lived in Saigon's black "Soul Alley" before he was wounded.

The two-hour movie was written by David Seltzer, 36, who spent several months in Saigon in 1973 gathering material for tonight's program.

He very effectively shows the plight of the war orphans (two of whom he adopted) and Saigon's back-street squalor.

But he occasionally spoils it with stock, obvious anti-Vietnam war clichés.

Such as an early scene where Winfield visits parents of a pal killed in combat. The father bitterly remarks that Vietnam was "a totally useless war," that the dead GI was shipped home in a bag "like garbage."

Or a flashback scene where an officer addressing troops new to the war emits kill-em-all sounds, speaks of "gooks," says the Vietnamese "have no regard for life ... their own or anybody else's."

A tidy this-war-is-racist tableau, predictable, with no ambiguity. But such was Hollywood's vision of the Vietnam war — half the joint believed John Wayne, the other half Jane Fonda.

It's only when scripter Seltzer writes of what he has firsthand knowledge — the tiny victims of that long war — that the show becomes a mighty powerful, moving study of hopelessness and hope.

That begins the moment Winfield arrives in Saigon to search for his son, the half-black kid called "Green Eyes," and is exposed to the brutal realities of life for the children the GIs left behind.

He's aided by three persons — a British lady (Rita Tushingham) who runs an orphanage; a cynical pal from Army days (Jonathan Lippe) who now is a Saigon wheeler-dealer; and Trung, a tough, lively street urchin played by a remarkable young actor called Lemi.

Filed in The Philippines, the movie does a first-rate job of recreating Saigon, from its sad backstreets of filth and shanties to the small, well-kept park on Le Loi street in the center of town.

More importantly, it does a stark, realistic job of depicting those affection-starved kids whose American fathers left them, as Winfield aptly puts it, "to rot like apples that fell off a tree."

"Green Eyes," which ends on a note of hope, deserves a look. It has its flaws, but you'll need a soul of darkness to forget its moving look at the children of war. ABC deserves credit for airing it.

Questions, Answers

Q. Tell me how NBC found Jane Pauley, their replacement for Barbara Walters on "Today." She talks so much like Barbara. Did they intend this? Did Jane train herself to imitate Barbara? E.S.B.

A. Let's hope not. The Walters lisp and tone is what turns off many people. Jane came to "Today" from NBC's Chicago station, which found her just over a year ago at an Indianapolis TV station which had hired her straight out of college with no reporting experience. She became a co-anchor less than a year later. Chicago critics were not enchanted with her. They said that she was pretty and read well, but recognized a news story only when it was in the script she was handed. NBC decided being pretty and able to read well were what counted, handed her over $250,000 a year to join "Today."

Q. Why don't they put "After School Specials" on more often? They are on only once a month. I think they are terrific. C.C.C.

A. Yes, but while the series draws praise from people who usually blast TV shows for children, there's one important fault, at least the way ABC stations look at it. The network runs the show in station time, thereby cutting local revenues.

Q. Do studios hire people to laugh at programs such as "The Jeffersons" and "Bob Hope's"? I fail to see why all the mirth at these two shows. G.R.S.

A. No hiring needed. Most TV shows have people waiting to grab tickets, but sometimes an audience is needed fast for a last-minute taping. Then special groups are bused in to fill the seats. Hope recalls with horror the time he did a whole routine and the audience never cracked a smile. He found out later he was talking to an audience of French sailors who didn't understand English, let alone his snappy brand of American.

'Panther's' Return Spells Fun For Everyone, Even Kids

By BILL COSFORD
Knight News Wire

"There are sinister forces at work here," says the Inspector — and he is right, up to a point.

But given that the Inspector, who has narrowly missed being vaporized by an assassin's bomb, missed death only by dint of accidental over-inflation of the helium-filled hump in his Quasimodo hunchback disguise, given that the Inspector is not just any continental detective of the French Surete but is in fact the illustrious Inspector Clouseau...you get the idea.

Clouseau — Peter Sellers in the ultrabomber role he has made a comic classic — is again the centerpiece of a new film. It is "The Pink Panther Strikes Again," and it is screamingly funny.

So it is that Clouseau has not quite said it all when he warns of sinister forces. Also at work here is a comic premise of genuine lunacy that has grown from a funny role into a thing of giant silliness. Once, back in 1963 in the original "Pink Panther," Clouseau was just a bumbler, easily upstaged by the suave jewel thief of the title.

With the addition of Herbert Lom as Chief Inspector Dreyfus in the following year's "A Shot in the Dark," however, Clouseau's slapstick ineptness became an instrument of comic torture. Pondering his ill fate at being saddled with the imbecile Clouseau, the Chief Inspector could easily prune his own thumb with a cigar trimmer. Eventually, he could become homicidal at the very thought of Clouseau.

Thus it should come as no surprise that this year's sequel, we find poor Dreyfus chez L'Hopital Psychiatrique, where he has long been incarcerated, a hardened lunatic. Only recently has he begun to show progress. As "Strikes Again" opens, his doctor advises that a sanity hearing that could mean his release has been scheduled for that very afternoon.

Dreyfus appears healed; he is even able to take the news that Clouseau has supplanted him as Chief Inspector with a measure of calm. Alas, as he sits by a lake on the institution grounds, Dreyfus receives a visitor.

It is Clouseau, of course. Within minutes Clouseau has bumbled his victim into the water three times — by saw, ricocheted croquet ball and misplaced rake — and changed Dreyfus' placid, Dale Carnegie chant ("every day, in every way, I am better and better") into shrieks of "Kill! Kill! Kill!"

All of this goes on even before the opening credits, which, incidentally, are as clever as ever. As luck and Blake Edwards, again the director of this craziness, would have it, Dreyfus escapes the institution. Now irredeemably mad, the former chief inspector assembles great criminal brains, kidnaps a scientist and repairs to a castle in Bavaria to build "a criminal organization so sinister it will make the Cosa Nostra look like the Vienna Boys Choir."

So much for the runaway premise. What follows is even less logically grounded than past "Panther" films, but one is quite quickly beyond caring.

Sellers is again, in this role that has neatly salvaged an apparently collapsing career, a comic master, able to inject freshness into a characterization that has changed little in more than a decade.

Sellers recovers easily from the occasional script slump with moments of great low comedy — lashing out at his butler, Cato; assaulting a stubborn drawbridge; or, in a scene that might well have been aimed at the grisly mayhem of "Marathon Man," as a dentist gone to work on Dreyfus after both have been into the laughing gas.

Though last year's "Return" of the Panther was disappointing, the evidence of "Pink Panther Strikes Again" is so clear even Clouseau could read it: This one is very funny indeed.

RATING: "The Pink Panther Strikes Again" is rated PG. It contains no violence or sexual material.

KNIGHT'S DAY

Year's Top Awards Freely Given

NEW YORK — These accolades are awarded to those whose love of humanity, self sacrifices and endless compassion in 1976 made the world a happier place — for themselves.

THE GILMORE DEATH SWEEPSTAKES to the trio who bid frantically for the TV, movie and book rights to the story of Gary Gilmore awaiting execution in Provo, Utah. Paul Anka offered $75,000; David Susskind got up to $150,000; but the prize went to a Larry Schiller, who had made deals for story rights with Marina Oswald, Jack Ruby and convicted murderer Susan Atkins. Schiller won the Gilmore sweepstakes by agreeing to divide $125,000 among Gilmore, his family, and his girl friend Nicole.

THE MERCY MEDAL, with three red leaves, to "Field Marshal Dr. Idi Amin Dada, life President of the Republic of Uganda, (That's the way he signs himself). According to Ali Sanjli, a former Ugandan secret police officer, Amin ordered the execution of over 300,000 Ugandans since he came to power. Old Idi rates another red leaf for the Ugandan treatment of Mrs. Dora Bloch, one of the hostages not rescued by the Israelis from Entebbe, where he embraced the terrorists. At last report Mrs. Bloch was strangled and her body burned by Ugandan police. She was 74 years old.

THE WOMAN OF THE YEAR AWARD (Self-serving division). A difficult choice, so after much deep and sometimes painful thought the decision was to give it to two outstanding girls: Elizabeth Ray for her determined dedication to the arts as well as good government. Liz struggled as a correspondent for a porno magazine, appeared briefly in a suburban production of "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," where her only laugh came when she sat down at a typewriter, but did much better posing for the porno mag.

The other Woman of the Year has to be Marion Javits, wife of the U.S. Senator Jacob Javits. Marion insisted that she would certainly not quit her $67,500 a year job as a press agent for Iran Air, the Shah's airline, even though she disapproved of Iran's UN vote equating Zionism with racism. But 12 days later she admitted that the job might suggest the "appearance of conflict" with her husband's chairmanship of Senate's Foreign Relations Committee. Marion almost earned a cluster (tin) for her award when it was revealed that with her public relations firm she had made a bid to help Mexico which was very nervous about the effect of its anti-Israeli vote in the UN on its tourist trade.

THE EXQUISITE TASTE TROPHY to Jack White of Knightstown, Ind., whose contribution to the Bicentennial was the creation of a red, white and blue coffin with two American flags inside. White runs a casket company. "I dreamed it up," he proclaimed proudly. "You have to think of something new all the time."

THE PUBLIC CONCERN CROWN to the makers of the electronic game, Death Race. At 25 cents a shot the player manipulates toy race cars to run down little pedestrians. If they're killed, the player is rewarded with an agonizing scream and a tombstone pops up to pinpoint the exact death spot.

THE PROPHECY PALM to psychic Jeane Dixon, whose predictions for 1976 included: The Republican Nominee will be Ronald Reagan. . . . Another nut will try to assassinate President Ford; he will resign, and Nelson Rockefeller will fill out his term.

THE PEACE PROFIT LAUREL to Syria, which pays $25 a month to each of its 27,000 soldiers keeping the fragile peace in Lebanon, but gets $500 a month from the Arab League for each soldier for a neat monthly profit of over $12 million.

Jane Fonda Will Team With Cann

"Comes A Horseman Wild And Free" will be made as a Chartoff-Winkler production starring James Caan and Jane Fonda and directed by Alan J. Pakula for United Artists release it was announced by Mike Medavoy, UA Vice-President in charge of West Coast production.

Caan and Fonda star as opposites brought together under tense circumstances in the dramatic love story set in the years immediately following World War II. The Alan J. Pakula Film has been written by Dennis Clark. Gene Kirkwood and Dan Paulson will produce with Irwin Winkler and Robert Chartoff serving as executive producers. Pakula has scheduled principal photography for "Comes A Horseman Wild And Free" to begin in May, 1977, on locations in the western United States. He is currently represented on the nation's screens by "All The President's Men."

Chartoff-Winkler recently completed principal photography for "New York, New York," starring Liza Minnelli and Robert DeNiro, directed by Martin Scorsese and written by Earl MacRae and Mardek Martin; are currently filming Ken Russell's "Valentino," starring Rudolph Nureyev, and written by Russell, Mardek Martin and John Byrum; and now have in release the successful and highly critically acclaimed "Rocky," all of which are major releases for United Artists, a Transamerica Company.

BARBARA FAIRCHILD AND SON

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

BY NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — While lovely country-western songstress Barbara Fairchild was appearing in Las Vegas at the Frontier Hotel with Roy Clark, she decided to introduce her offspring to Las Vegas audiences in the Frontier's showroom, the Music Hall, during her onstage portion of the show. So her 6-week-old son, Randy Reinhardt III made his stage debut cradled in his mother's arm while she serenaded him.

Second generation:

Patrick Wayne, John Wayne's second son, and Christopher Mitchum, Bob's second, are teamed in "Flight to Holocaut," an A.C. Lyles production for NBC-TV.

The drama is about a plane that crashes through the wall of a skyscraper.

Or you might say it's by "The Towering Inferno" out of "Airport."

Femme lead is Fawne Harniman who played Ginger in the daytime series, "Some- rset."

Financially troubled New York City got a boost from the Christmas Day opening of Barbra Streisand's "A Star Is Born" at the Ziegfeld and Baronet theaters there. All opening day proceeds went to the Association for a Better New York, which is trying to help the city out of its fiscal crisis.

Arts Show Debuts On Air

LOS ANGELES — The California Confederation of the Arts and Radio Station KFAC will present "State of the Arts" a new program at 11-12 PM Monday through Friday each week beginning today.

The program will be hosted by KFAC's Tom Dixon and William McClelland, president of the California Confederation of the Arts and Director of Community Affairs for the Los Angeles Music Center Operating Company. They will present a variety of classical music and a series of taped interviews with members of all the arts disciplines to review the latest developments and problems in the arts field.

The program for the next two weeks will feature: Bob Smith, director of Los Angeles Institute of Contemporary Arts; Jerry Nordlund, director of Frederick S. Wight Art Gallery, University of California-Los Angeles; Susana Jackson, member of the California Arts Council; Edward Weston, director of Actors Equity Association; June Wayne, Artist; Jerry Kvasnicka, Arts Consultant; Dale Koblner, Regional Coordinator of the National Endowment of the Arts; Robert Fitzpatrick, president of California Institute of the Arts; and Betty Gold, director of the ARCO Center for the Visual Arts.

A Country-Style Lullaby

Streisand wrote two of the film's songs, "The Love Theme," with words by Paul Williams and "Lost Inside You," with an assist on words and music from Leon Russell.

If you're old enough to remember World War II, you must remember Bob Wills singing "Take Me Back to Tulsa."

In that case, you may be interested to learn that Ensemble Films has acquired rights to Bob Wills' life story and hopes to film it, possibly with Merle Haggard in the lead.

After his double chore of directing and starring in "Fire Sale" for 20th Century-Fox, Alan Arkin is relaxing with his family at their home in upstate New York.

Arkin, in his debut as a film director, brought his picture in exactly on schedule and on budget, which made Fox very, very happy.

When a Public Broadcasting System camera crew spent a day tagging around after Harold Robbins, crew members and their target discovered to their mutual dismay that neither of Robbins' favorite luncheon spots, Scandia and The Polo Lounge, would let the lensmen in during the lunch hour. The restaurants are too busy.

PBS was following Robbins in order to film a profile of the author.

"When I am laid in earth..." from Purcell's opera, "Dido and Aeneas," in a realization by Benjamin Britten. The program will open with Purcell's Chacony in G minor, also in a Britten realization. Britten's "Phaedra," written for Janet Baker, was originally scheduled to receive its American premiere at these concerts.
The Jan. 4 Celebrity Recital has been moved to May 29, 8:30 p.m. with the splendid young Atlanta born soprano Jessye Norman singing in place of Miss Baker, whose heavily booked season makes it impossible for her to reschedule the recital this year. ## THE FIRST THREE WEEKS AFTER AN ACCIDENT ARE CRITICAL!

SYMPTOMS AND THEIR MEANING WITH...

Andrew N. Burpee, D.C.

I would like to make as strong an appeal as possible to accident victims to make them aware of the importance of immediate modern chiropractic examinations for whiplash injuries. If individuals would only realize the need for immediate examination and treatment following an accident, in the three week period following an accident, proper care and treatment of a whiplash injury can often save a personal lifetime of pain and discomfort.

A whiplash injury doesn't always manifest itself until 48 hours after an accident and doesn't note any of the whiplash effects. However, after a night's sleep or even longer, he will usually experience a stiffness or soreness in the neck. This could be considered a positive tip-off of a whiplash injury.

Technically speaking, a whiplash neck injury is the involuntary thrust of the head and neck in any direction, and the resulting elastic recoil of the head and neck in the opposite direction, with injury to surrounding and supporting tissues.

Iranian Bakes 300 Loaves Of 'Custom' Bread

SAN LEANDRO (AP) — It cost Adam Morgan a lot of dough when Jimmy Carter won the November election.

The Iranian immigrant had vowed to follow a religious custom of his native land and bake 300 loaves of bread for friends, with a special one for the Georgian, if he won.

Morgan, a registered Republican, made news for three years straight when he sent "Christmas cards" measuring up to 10-by-15 feet to then-President Richard Nixon.

Morgan said the vow to bake bread is an Iranian tradition. "In the old country we always do that for something very important, very holy to us," he said.

As promised, Morgan sent off a loaf to President-elect Carter, and received a thank-you note signed "Jimmy." The other 299 loaves, each with Carter's initials on top, are being given to friends and to customers at his dry cleaning business, where he said people have been lining up five deep, hoping for a taste.

Michigan Beats Gamecocks

The Michigan Wolverines have so much depth, they say, that their second team might be good enough to play the schedule.

Well, their second team had to play part of the game Sunday.

With three regulars lost on fouls and another ejected for fighting, the nation's top-ranked team had to battle to subdue South Carolina 90-86.

"It was a heck of a win with all those guys sitting on the bench," said Michigan Coach Johnny Orr. "Hanging on for the win was really a good job. They made some fantastic shots at the end."

Rickey Green and Joel Thompson were key figures in sparking Michigan to a 42-36 halftime lead and an 18-point advantage in the second half.

But they eventually fouled out, along with Steve Grote.

Phil Hubbard was thrown out with 6:58 to go after a shoving match with South Carolina's Karlton Hillton.

"I don't understand why they threw Hubbard out," said Orr. "What's he supposed to do? Let the guy punch him?"

After 80 per cent of the lineup left, the Wolverines began having problems. Michigan's 76-62 advantage began to melt and the Wolverines went into a stall with 4:17 left. Michigan's lead melted more, and Orr faulted his coaching as much as his team's play.

"I may have made a mistake ordering them into a stall," Orr said. "We got a little conservative there at the end—but it was because of the foul situation."

In other games Sunday, eighth-ranked UCLA defeated Houston 96-83 and Providence took a 72-68 overtime victory over Seton Hall. In Saturday's action, No. 7 Wake Forest defeated Richmond 84-73; No. 19 Utah stopped Utah State 102-78 and Long Beach State ripped Illinois 84-70. On Friday night, 12th-ranked Marquette defeated Northwestern 66-53 and 15th-ranked Minnesota won the Pillsbury Classic in Bloomington with a 102-81 decision over Montana.

Green led the Wolverines with 30 points and hit 10 straight free throws in the second half before fouling out in the nationally televised game. Nate Davis led the Gamecocks with 28 points while Jackie Gilloon added 27.

David Greenwood scored 26 points as UCLA's front line combined for 67 points as the Bruins defeated Houston in another game that was shown nationally on television. Brett Vroman added 24 points and Marques Johnson had 17 for the Bruins. Otis Birdsong had his best game of the season with 42 points.

Providence, which last week handed Michigan its only defeat of the season in a double-overtime game, whipped stubborn Seton Hall behind Bruce Campbell's 22 points.

Jerry Schellenberg scored a career-high 32 points as Wake Forest beat Richmond. Jeff Judkins and Greg Deane combined for 46 points to lead Utah over Utah State. A 27-point performance by Lloyd McMillan powered Long Beach over Illinois.

Butch Lee and Bo Ellis teamed for 46 points to lead Marquette over Northwestern. Minnesota defeated Montana behind Mike Thompson's 23 points.

Robisch Leads Indiana Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Indiana Pacers, led by 27 points from Dave Robisch, mounted a 25-point third quarter lead and withstood a furious Milwaukee rally for a 118-109 National Basketball Association victory over the Bucks Sunday.

Billy Knight and Wil Jones scored 23 apiece for the Pacers, who had lost six of their previous eight games. Brian Winters scored 18 points for Milwaukee, while rookie Quinn Buckner added 16 and a fine defensive effort.

A 22-8 spurt sparked by 11 points by Knight put the Pacers ahead 81-56 with six minutes left in the third quarter. However, the Bucks outscored Indiana 14-3 to cut the deficit to 88-78 with 11:40 to play.

A Swen Nater free throw cut the Bucks' deficit to 91-83 with 9:15 left, but Don Buse countered with a basket for Indiana.

The Bucks committed a 24-second violation on their next possession, and three baskets and a free throw by Robisch put the Pacers up 100-87 with 5:23 left.

AAW Meets Today

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Recruiting and financial aid are two topics that are expected to highlight the discussion today when the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women opens its annual meeting.

"There'll be some hot and heavy times," said Kay Hutchcraft, executive secretary of the six-year-old group which includes 861 member schools.

"Things can get very emotional when you're talking about issues that are near and dear to you," she said.

One of the proposals to come before the convention would limit recruiting to campus interviews at the athlete's expense, telephone interviews and the mailing of literature.

Jets Threaten To Quit New York

Death of Phil Iselin could result in the Jets' departure from New York. New power is Leon Hess, oil magnate who has this oil spill: Unless Jets can crack Mets' tight leasehold on Shea, to gain exhibition game and early-season access, football club will move. Not to Jersey complex, as previously threatened, but to Memphis.

It's a muscle play on New York City and Mets' prez Don Grant, but no bluff. Hess does not take Iselin's nice-guy approach. "If you know Leon Hess, you know he means what he says, and right now he's talking Memphis," discloses Jets' source. "Hess will offer to pay installation cost of artificial turf at Shea as the inducement. Sharing New Jersey with the Giants is not an acceptable alternative because Hess feels the Jets would be exchanging one second-class status for another."

Al Ward, Jets gm, will be named acting vee in charge of operations, under restructuring, and Hess will make major policy...Head coach situation still up in air, with Walt Michaels given inside track. Club hungers for old-fashioned discipline Walt can provide.

Cosell Superb

Howard Cosell gave warm and moving eulogy at Phil Iselin funeral service. Said a football player's wife who was present: "It's the first time I didn't want to turn down the sound"...Admiration for Don Shula soars among NFL players on heels of his first losing season at Miami...Vikings will have to tighten up on tackling if they are to stop Raider runners. Movies of Minny win over Rams show that Purple People Eaters were fingertip nibblers when it came to holding runners...CBS-TV has mailed out fancy calendar datebook for 1977. There's only one problem; it lists only events televised by CBS. Example: Jan. 9 mentions Phoenix Open. (Super Bowl also happens on Jan. 9, but it's NBC's year, so CBS doesn't recognize existence of Super Bowl old media.) Ever notice how many baskets and games, Knicks blow because they'll play for one shot in late-game maneuver. Invariably wrong guy winds up taking bad shot in order to squeeze last two or three seconds out of clock. Wouldn't it make more sense to work for the good shot, even with 12 or 14 seconds on shot-clock, get the two points and let other team kill time bringing ball down?

Scream you are about to hear will come from Paul The Punter Scovene, when New York trot tracks go to legislature for bigger bite of OTB take. Tracks want same 6 percent state cuts their mutes, instead of 2.8 (also 8 percent on exotics instead of 5.8)...Honeymoon over between Bill Russell and Seattle fans. They're burning his beard with boos...Larry O'Brien copying NFL TV format. NBA will go regional starting Jan. 16, and toss in a national game to make double-header on three different Sundays.

Everything Ted Turner does reminds me of early Charley Finley. Atlanta Braves owner is buying hockey club to go with his ballclub. Finley went that route, then gave it up when he found suing people in baseball was full time job...First of Don King's fat 1977 fight calendar to bite dust is Foreman-Middleton scrap. Larry Middleton's eyes won't get past doc. So, CBS will sub with Harold Smith vs. Ron Lyle from Lake Tahoe on Jan. 29. It's promoted by King's arch-rival, Bob Arum...What improvement there is in Rangers can be credited largely to hectic conditioning program John Ferguson instituted in camp...PFC Ricky Young writes column in Germany for "Echo," 5th Signal Command's publication. Calls it: Younger Ideas...Fresh kid.

'Play It Safe'

Randy Rasmussen, veteran Jet, hates to pick against AFC but favors Vikes because "they play it safe, and that's the only way to win...Games are not won on the big gamble, they are lost on the big mistake"...Can it be five years since Bobby Hull jumped to WHL. Yes it can, and it also can be he is headed back to Chicago. Hull's 10 year pact with Houston gives him right to terminate after five years. Hawks need magnet, even one 38...Funny bit: Dino Larry, called for charging during Holiday Festival, looks down at his Jasper shirt front to see if he's wearing the No. 14 he heard ref shout to scorer's table.

Most improved player in NHL Ron Greshner. Last year, his rating was minus-51, under league system which computes goals scored by and against team while specific player is on ice. Gresh's 51, third worst in NHL, has been converted to plus-12.

By HOWARD SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — The eyes are red and the brain is weary, but the images remain.

Tony Dorsett skittering off tackle with red shirts lunging at him from all angles. Paul Hornung, bundled up in an enormous fur coat, clowning along the sidelines, trying to keep warm. The injured Ricky Bell, dejected and motionless on the bench, watching the seconds of his college career tick away.

It was all part of the annual New Year's Day television feast, an orgy of college football that closes out the 1976 season. And after some 11 hours of touchdowns and tubas, balloons and blitzes, musical salutes and sideline interviews, everyone seemed to agree that maybe Pittsburgh should be No. 1, after all.

A glance at the four major bowl games and how they were handled on television: —SUGAR BOWL: ABC got the first shot at the grid audience Saturday and, as usual, unloaded images rapid-fire on the viewing public. ABC's cameras were almost never at rest. Between plays we got an endless stream of crowd shots, gyrating cheerleaders, views from the blimp, closeups of the Mississippi River, grinning linebackers and pacing coaches.

Keith Jackson and Ara Parseghian were the commentators and Jim Lampley contributed sideline chatter. Jackson likes to take care of business early so he spent the first five minutes of each half talking nonstop, setting the offense, setting the defense, explaining why the game was important and so on.

After that, he settled down to do his usual admirable job with play-by-play. Parseghian still sounds hoarse but he's more relaxed these days. There is an engaging non-professionalism about Parseghian—"Gee, that was some play"—and you get the idea he's really enjoying the game.

One more note about ABC. The network continues to be shameless in promoting its upcoming shows. We counted 12 distinct plugs for "The Wide World of Sports" and even Lampley, apparently clean out of vignettes by the second half, plugged away for upcoming shows when contacted on the sidelines.

—COTTON BOWL: After ABC's slam-bang multi-image camerawork, the Cotton Bowl on CBS was downright peaceful. Veteran Lindsey Nelson and Paul Hornung handled the action, with Hornung dashing down to the sidelines for half-time interviews. Lindsey kept telling us we were in "Big D little A-double L-A-S." And Hornung was prone toward clichés where people were always "smelling paydirt" or "running to daylight."

The game got a little dull in the middle periods and Hornung had time to tell everyone that this was Lindsey's 17th Cotton Bowl. "If you do the next seven of them you'll have done half of them," he pointed out. "I never really thought of it that way," mused Nelson.

The action picked up in the fourth quarter and the announcers got excited. "He threw a maulard duck up the right sideline," exclaimed Nelson after a pass play. Hornung said it looked like a "wounded duck." Nelson said the Houston quarterback "pulled a Houdini escape trick" in avoiding a rush, and Hornung assured us the Maryland defense "was stunned by the play."

At halftime we got marching bands, the Kilgore Rangerettes and a pleasant, pointless chat with Kevin Dobson of "Kojak."

—ROSE BOWL: NBC had the best pre-game show Sunday with Larry Merchant taking an interesting look at the marketing of college football. Curt Gowdy and Don Meredith were the game announcers. It has become fashionable in some circles to knock Gowdy of late, but he did a fine job Saturday. He was right on the money with his facts and figures, he kept the thing in focus and he did it all unobtrusively.

As for Meredith, he manages to work in some statistics and background now and then, but his strength is still in his genial, laid-back style. Dandy Don is looking for a good time at a ballgame and if things get dull, he's the first to cry out for action. At one point Gowdy was talking about Michigan's tendency to plug away on the ground instead of throwing passes. "They must be more interested in winning than in having fun," observed Meredith.

With Pitt having won convincingly earlier in the day, it was evident that Southern Cal and Michigan were no longer playing for the national championship. "We may not have a national championship game," Meredith pointed out with admirable honesty, "but we should have a good game anyway."

Barbara Hunter was assigned to the sidelines but she didn't have much to say. After an injury to Michigan linebacker Jerry Zuver she reported "Zuver was removed from the game on a stretcher and he looked immobile." Ms. Hunter did not check in during the second half.

Despite the fact that neither Gowdy nor Meredith was able to master Southern California fullback Mosi Tatupu's name, and they weren't sure if he is from Hawaii or Samoa, they probably turned in the best job of the day.

—ORANGE BOWL: By the time this game got rolling on NBC, even the most enthusiastic grid fans were getting bleary eyed. There was a noisy start with a filmed salute to Woody Hayes, discreetly omitting footage of his battle with fans and sideline markers, a filmed salute to Bill Mallory and a lot of "I'm just a flagwaving American" hoopla leading up to the playing of the National Anthem.

Then Jim Simpson and John Brodie took over and the game was allowed to begin. Simpson and Brodie are smooth, low-key operators and did a workmanlike, if uninspired, job. Simpson, NBC's dependable utility man, maintained an admirable restraint throughout the proceedings and Brodie had some worthwhile observations. With 10 minutes left, Brodie suggested that Colorado had better start flinging the ball around if it wants to get back in the hallgame, but the Buffaloes ignored the advice until it was far too late.

The Orange Bowl Committee, which seems to pride itself on bombast, put on the most lavish of the halftime shows, all the more remarkable since it was a Salute To Rain! The Orange Bowl spares no expense for these extravaganzas but one must ask, how important are halftime shows?

If you want the answer to that, try throwing a halftime show by itself sometime, without bothering to stage a football game, and see how many people show up.

Majors Claims Pitt Is National Champ

"All year long I haven't waved my finger in the air and I haven't worn a No. 1 button," said Pittsburgh Coach Johnny Majors.

"But after the game I told the team it was No. 1 and we all agree that we are."

It won't become official until The Associated Press' final poll Tuesday, but Pitt certainly staked a solid claim to the national title Saturday with an impressive 27-3 conquest of No. 5 Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett rambled for 202 yards on 32 carries and scored a touchdown, quarterback Matt Cavanaugh ran for one score and hooked up with Gordon Jones on a 59-yard pass play for another, and Carson Long added a pair of second-half field goals.

In all, Pitt ran up 480 yards in total offense, including 288 yards on the ground. And the Panther defense was outstanding, containing Georgia's running game and smothering the Bulldogs' aerial attack. Georgia completed only three of 22 passes and had four intercepted.

Pitt's convincing victory put a damper on the national title hopes of Rose Bowl participants No. 3 Southern California and No. 2 Michigan and Cotton Bowl visitor No. 4 Maryland. Southern Cal eventually outmuscled Michigan 14-6 and Southwest Conference champion Houston, No. 6, dumped Maryland 30-21.

Ohio State upended Colorado 27-10 in the Orange Bowl Saturday night.

Nebraska outlasted Texas Tech 27-24 in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl and Kentucky blanked North Carolina 21-0 in the Peach Bowl on Friday.

There were three more games Sunday. Texas A&M met Florida in the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Tex., East met West in the Shrine Bowl at Palo Alto, Calif., and North played South in the All-American Bowl at Tampa, Fla.

"I take my hat off to Pitt," said Georgia Coach Vince Dooley. "Without doubt they proved themselves the best team in the nation."

Georgia concentrated on stopping Dorsett in the first half but got burned by Cavanaugh's passing in the process. A 36-yard strike to Elliott Walker helped set up the first Pitt touchdown and the 59-yard play with Jones accounted for the second one. Cavanaugh's passes also helped set up Dorsett's TD, which came just before the half, made it 21-0 and, for all intents and purposes, iced the game. Cavanaugh wound up with 10 completions in 18 attempts for 192 yards as Pitt closed out a 12-0 campaign as one of only two major unbeaten teams. Rutgers is the other one. Georgia wound up 10-2.

Southern California lost one tailback and found another during its victory over Michigan. All-American Ricky Bell spent most of the game on the sidelines after a head injury but his replacement, freshman Charles White filled in ably, gaining 114 yards on 32 carries.

Trojan quarterback Vince Evans added 14 completions in 20 attempts for 181 yards while his Michigan counterpart, Rick Leach, could manage only four completions in 12 attempts for 76 yards.

The Trojans scored twice on long drives, Evans and White getting the TDs, and Rob Lytle got the lone Michigan score on a one-yard run.

"You've got to feel good about the way Charles White played," said Southern Cal Coach John Robinson. "Charles is already one of the best breakaway runners I've ever been around."

Southern California finished with an 11-1 record and Michigan was 10-2.

Surprising Houston broke out to a 21-0 first-quarter lead against Maryland and the Terps never recovered. The Cougars ran through the Maryland defense for 320 yards with Alois Blackwell scoring twice and getting 149 yards on 22 carries and Dyrall Thomas adding 104 yards and one TD on 14 tries.

Panthers Win Grantland Trophy

DALLAS (AP) — The Pittsburgh Panthers, who finished with a 12-0 record and a decisive Sugar Bowl victory over Georgia, Sunday were named the winners of the Grantland Rice National Championship trophy.

Regis McCauley, president of the Football Writers Association, announced the award here Sunday.

The Panthers, led by quarterback Matt Cavanaugh and Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett, defeated the Georgia Bulldogs 27-3 in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans Saturday to wind up their season.

Southern California, 14-6 victors over Michigan in the Rose Bowl Saturday, finished second for the trophy. Michigan wound up third and the Houston Cougars, who defeated Maryland 30-21 in the Cotton Bowl here Saturday, finished fourth in the balloting.

Hula Bowl Next Stop For Dorsett

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tony Dorsett and Johnny Majors rode off into the sunset Sunday.

Actually, they left their hotel at 5 a.m. in a cold rain to catch a plane for Hawaii and the Hula Bowl, but it was just as surely their farewell to Pitt football.

"It's been the best four years of my life," said Dorsett, who wore his Pitt uniform for the final time as the top-ranked Panthers beat Georgia 27-3 in the Sugar Bowl.

"I don't know how four years like this could ever be repeated," echoed Majors, who'll coach Dorsett in the Hawaiian all-star game next weekend then turn full attention to his new job at Tennessee.

That doesn't mean all will be anticlimactic from now on for Dorsett and Majors. "I'm just hoping I can get pro contract somewhere and make a living," Dorsett said after Saturday's victory, an understatement as whopping as his 18 NCAA rushing and scoring records.

Just how lucrative that living is remains to be seen. After the Hula Bowl and the Japan Bowl in Tokyo, Dorsett may leave school for at least the winter term and turn professional on the banquet and television circuit. He'll also be naming an agent to negotiate his pro contract, which could be one of the most lavish in sports history.

"Right now I don't have an agent. There is a man I'm considering, but I'd rather not discuss it," he said in a post-game interview room.

"Let's just say a lot of things are up in the air right now," Dorsett added.

Things are less up in the air for Majors, who has six-year contract to coach at Tennessee.

"This Pitt defense is the best defense I've ever been around, and the offense is the best I've ever been around. Maybe I ought to quit while I'm ahead," Majors kidded.

Then in his typical, rapid-fire style of speech, he added, "I just hope I'll never lose enthusiasm just because we don't do something like this."

Both Dorsett and Majors said the Pitt program would continue to prosper with new Coach Jackie Sherrill and players like quarterback Matt Cavanaugh.

Nicklaus' Domination Of Golf Challenged

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

When Jack Nicklaus stepped off the plane at the Tokyo Airport, the blaring newspaper headline caught his attention.

"I don't read Japanese," Jack recalled of that January day, "but I sure could recognize 82."

It was the score he'd posted the day before in the final round of the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, the highest score of the pro career.

It was easily the most famous round of the year, one that's destined for a place in golf's lore and legends. It was difficult to believe. The golf world reacted with shock and, at times, some barely concealed glee from the hackers of the world.

Jack Nicklaus, the greatest player of his time, was leading the tournament through three rounds. He was playing at Pebble Beach, one of his favorite playgrounds, one where he'd won so often before.

Only this time Jack Nicklaus shot 82.

It was a hint of things to come in 1976.

Nicklaus' ironfisted domination of the sport relaxed. He spent much of the year fusing and fretting with preparations for his new Memorial Tournament on his life-time dream course at Muirfield Village, Ohio. The tournament was a great success. His season was not.

"I didn't win one of the majors," he said, "and I never consider it a good year when I don't win one of the majors. It wasn't a bad year, but it wasn't a really good one."

"Actually, I played pretty well at times. I just didn't win as often as I might have."

He did win the Tournament Players Championship again. And he won the new-look World Series of Golf, including a $100,000 first prize that made him the leading money-winner again, this time with $266,438. He gained a fifth Australian Open title.

Palmer's Worst Year

As Nicklaus' domination diminished, other familiar names struggled and failed. Arnold Palmer suffered his worst season ever and endured a personal tragedy, the death of his father. Lee Trevino encountered physical problems, resulting in a back operation that jeopardized his career. Gary Player failed to win. So did Bruce Crampton and Tom Weiskopf.

And the young ones, headed by Pate and Ballesteros and Crenshaw, moved to the fore. Eleven men scored first-time victories on the tour.

The tour changed, too. Purses went beyond the $9 million mark. More than two dozen events were televised nationally. Nicklaus' Memorial Tournament and the World Series, with its expanded format, became highlights. A record number of players won $100,000 or more. A new men's-women's tournament made its debut.

But 1976 will be remembered for the emergence of a new crop of stars and failing fortunes for those who set the pace for so long.

It remains to be seen whether Nicklaus can continue as golf's greatest performer against the gathering challenges of the Pates and Crenshaws, who are threatening to make the tour their own private plaything.

Voted No. 1 Again

And he was named Player of the Year again, despite his own protestations that it was not one of his banner seasons.

He had a lot of competition, primarily from rookie Jerry Pate, that slender young man who destroyed John Mahaffey's dreams with a stiff five-iron on the 18th hole to claim victory in the United States Open. To add to his reputation, Pate then posted a final-round 63 that sent him blazing past the leading Nicklaus for the Canadian Open title.

Other major contenders included Ben Crenshaw, who finally fulfilled his bright promise with three American victories and the Irish Open title; Hale Irwin, who seemed to be in contention on a weekly basis; Hubert Green, winner of three consecutive events early in the year; Ray Floyd and his mastery of the par 5s that won him the green jacket in the Masters; and Johnny Miller, winner of two American titles and the British Open.

That British title came after the oldest of all the world's tournaments had been led for three rounds by Severino Ballesteros, a handsome, powerful, personable 19-year-old Spaniard who emerged as Europe's finest player and a force to be considered in the future.

In all, 1976 was a changing of the guard in golf.

Economy Never Recovered From Summer Doldrums

By GREGORY NOKES
WASHINGTON (AP) — After getting off to a promising start in 1976, the nation's economy sank into summer doldrums from which it never recovered, and Americans looked to a new president to get it going again in 1977.

Only in the closing weeks of the year, after their man had been elected by Jimmy Carter, did Ford administration economists finally admit that the economy would fall short of its predictions.

For Americans, the disappointing reality was an unemployment rate above 8 percent, the highest since the previous December. Economic growth struggled along at about 4 percent, too low to keep unemployment from rising further.

Inflation was much improved, down to a rate of less than 5 percent by year's end, which was good news to consumers. But wholesale prices were threatening to get out of hand in the final months of the year.

Critics of the outgoing administration's economic policies said the lower inflation was bought with high unemployment, a trade-off that most Democrats, and many Republicans as well, found unacceptable.

Some major economic questions clouded the outlook for the new year, too, and their outcome likely will shape Carter's economic policy after he takes office on Jan. 20. Already, a majority of his economic advisers were urging him to keep the economy moving again.

Among the unresolved economic questions at year's end were:

— The decision of the U.S. economy. It wasn't yet clear whether the slowdown had ended, or would grow worse. Pressure on Carter for action was building as the economy began to pick up again, however slow.

— The future of oil prices. Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates raised the price of crude oil by 5 percent, effective in January, while other OPEC nations boosted their prices 15 percent in two steps. The price hikes could add to inflation and further slow economic growth in this country and abroad.

— The pace of inflation. While consumer prices have been restrained, wholesale prices have increased substantially in recent months, and eventually could be passed along to consumers. The impact of the Dec. 1 increase in steel prices had not yet been felt.

— Economic conditions in other nations. The list of nations with serious economic difficulties grew steadily in 1976 and included Great Britain, Italy, Mexico, Portugal, Argentina, and Australia.

All of them turned for help to the United States or to international agencies like the International Monetary Fund that get substantial financial backing from the United States. In the end, it is the American taxpayer that puts up much of the cash.

If economies should become bogged down everywhere, which is threatening to happen, chances of the United States returning to a strong economic position on its own are dim.

An awareness of the interdependence of the economies of industrialized nations has caused Carter to say he will give considerable emphasis to international economic problems after he becomes President, including calling for an international economic summit conference if needed.

Many of the nation's trading partners, and some of Carter's advisers, believe the big three industrial nations — the United States, Germany and Japan — all should stimulate their economies to help the rest of the world.

Carter said at a news conference Dec. 3 that while he now is sure the U.S. economy needs help, he will wait until after Jan. 1 before deciding what help to recommend and how much. Any tax cut would have to be approved by Congress.

Carter has ruled out wage and price controls as a tool against inflation, and maintained he won't ask for standby authority to impose controls either, something he said during his campaign he would do.

President Ford said he would ask Congress to approve a $10 billion tax cut a few days before he leaves office, but chances are slim that the Ford tax plan will get serious consideration.

Ironically, the Ford administration apparently helped cause the economic slowdown by underspending its budget by $11 billion during 1976.

As spending slowed, so did the economy. The nation's Gross National Product, the best measure of economic growth, got off to a rousing start with a 9.2 percent rate of advance in the first quarter.

But suddenly consumers began spending less — and industry began producing less. The GNP slowed to a 4.5 percent rate in the second quarter and then a 3.8 percent rate in the third.

Administration economists conceded in late November that the fourth quarter growth rate might be less than that of the third. Earlier, they had forecast growth of about 6 percent in the final three months of the year.

A 4 percent growth rate is considered the minimum needed just to keep up with new entrants into the labor force. When it falls below that level for very long, unemployment is bound to increase.

Although the cause was not clear, one thing that didn't happen that the administration had counted on was a big increase in investment spending by business and industry.

Administration economists had counted on investment spending to pick up where consumer spending left off, giving the economy a boost that would carry it through 1977.

But businessmen held back, despite their own estimates that they would spend more. As the GNP fell, unemployment rose, from its 1976 low of 7.3 percent in May to 8.1 percent in November, the highest since the 8.3 percent jobless rate in December 1975.

The Ford administration had hoped for a jobless rate of below 7 percent by the end of the year.

Carter set his own targets for the economy for 1977, saying he wanted to cut the unemployment rate by 1.5 percent and achieve real economic growth of 6 percent. But with unemployment on the rise again and the sinking GNP, some of his own advisers admitted these targets might be difficult to achieve.

Some Democratic economists, such as Director Alice Rivlin of the Congressional Budget Office, said the shortfall in budget spending was a major cause of the slowdown. Ford economists disagreed that it was a major cause, but acknowledged it had some effect.

But even Democrats said the spending problem didn't explain all of the difficulty. As Mrs. Rivlin told the Joint Economic Committee on Dec. 2, "Everybody is mystified as to what was."

Paul O'Neill, deputy director of Ford's Office of Management and Budget, was less mystified. He told the same committee he thinks the chief contributors to the slowdown were a lack of confidence and stability in the economy.

"I think confidence and stability are the key to getting us back on track," he said.

Whatever Carter does to get the economy moving again, it unquestionably will cost more money and result in higher budget deficits. Such actions always do.

Even without new programs or tax cuts, the government faces a 1977 budget deficit of between $55 billion to $60 billion. If these other actions are taken, it could end up with a deficit equaling or even surpassing the record deficit of $69.6 billion set just last year.

Ford had hoped for a balanced budget in 1979, and Carter has pledged a balanced budget by 1981. But the economic troubles of 1976 and 1977 appeared certain to move the nation further from that goal than he had expected.

payments would cause a revolution among those dependent upon them. But some day in the future the tax cost for this program will become so heavy there will be a wave of protest to stop the entire program.

gold price swings are considered as a contracyclic indicator. When stock prices climb, the price of gold is expected to fall.

price of the yellow metal a creature of government decree during the short term. European central banks and international agencies which have gold supplies can chase the price of gold by buying or selling their gold stock.

In the long term, real world economics will determine the price.

With currencies, faltering economies in many countries, and stagflation all add to the uncertainty of what the marketplace will do.

At this point the U.S. economy is one of the strongest in the world. Foreign investors are giving their respective countries a "no confidence" vote and pluck funds in this country.

The specter of unfunded governmental obligations and the pension and fringe benefit load that private business must support weighs heavily on the economy.

It is estimated that government unfunded obligations and the debt of this country is more than $4 trillion. Someday it will have to be paid or eliminated.

EVER STRIVING FOR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Bittersweet Sugar

All is not sweet in the Hawaiian sugar fields these days. In fact, one Honolulu newspaper ran a series the other day entitled, "Sour Times for Sugar."

The good folks on the island paradise are asking the politicians in Washington to bail out the sugar industry that only two years ago was enjoying undreamed of prosperity.

It was late in 1974 that raw sugar brought a peak price of 64 and one half cents a pound. Recently the price dipped below 10 cents, but now is somewhat higher.

Consumers who were crying at the unprecedented high price for refined sugar in the United States now are enjoying prices closer to their idea of what they can afford. And the producers are hurting, with costs of production exceeding the New York market price.

A few comments are in order. Hawaii has some of the most expensive labor costs anywhere. And the cost of labor in the sugar industry is higher because of the historically high market price for the product. When the companies took in more money, the unions demanded and got — a bigger cut.

Apparently the feeling was that "we've got a good thing going." The producers apparently thought the public was willing to pay just about any price for their sweetener, so they gave in to union demands.

A Tax On Birth

Jerry Brown reaped a windfall of popular acclaim when as a candidate for the governorship he pledged not to raise taxes for a year.

In a way, he didn't quite keep that promise. He raised business taxes considerably. Now — that first year (1975) being long gone — the governor has cooperated with the legislature to bring working Californians a neat little surprise for 1977.

Starting last Saturday, a new law requires employers to withhold one percent of the first $11,400 paid each associate each year. This withholding is in addition to the income tax. The revenues are earmarked for disability insurance. Currently the withholding for this purpose was one per cent of the first $9,000. So the change in the tax is the difference between $90 and $114, or $24 a year. Why the increase?

Well the governor and the legislature discovered that present law does not provide disability benefit payments for job interruption owing to normal pregnancy. So the law became effective Jan. 1, and provides taxation for such payments. Obviously, the taxation funds payments for only a fraction of the working force. Many working women are beyond the child bearing stage, so pregnancy-disability payments won't help them.

The governor and the legislature simply decided that they know how to spend $24 better than you do. And the irony is, the federal Internal Revenue Service won't even let you deduct the $90 and the $24 from your taxable income. All of it adds up to a pretty little New Year's basket on your doorstep.

The Russians' Odd Game

The Western news media have been worried about the possibility of restricted Olympic news coverage ever since the Soviet Union acquired the games for 1980. Copley News Service writes.

Few could have expected that the restrictions would take an economic form, or come so soon. Executives of the three major American networks, ABC, CBS and NBC, walked out of negotiations with the Russians after they demanded $50 million for basic facilities — in addition to payments for broadcasting rights. The networks have asked the Justice Department to waive antitrust laws so they may negotiate with the Russians as a pool.

In the meantime Satra, a New York group that apparently markets everything from Soviet autos to air time, says that it has negotiated a provisional "cooperation agreement" with the Soviet Union for coverage of the games.

The coverage and sums that may yet change hands are cloaked in mystery. But there is no doubt that the Soviet Union is milking the Olympics for all of the Yankee dollars that it can acquire. And it is obvious that the high cost of coverage will introduce the very commercialism that the Soviet Union said it wanted to avoid when it bid for the games.

It all looks very capitalistic from here.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Jan. 3, the third day of 1977. There are 362 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1777, General George Washington's ragged and hungry army routed British regulars in the Battle of Princeton, N.J.

On this date —

In 1661, the English writer Samuel Pepys recorded in his diary that for the first time, he had seen women on the stage.

In 1870, construction began on the Brooklyn Bridge in New York.

Senator Soaper

By Bill Vaughan

A dirty trickster, trying to undermine Scoop's chances, says history students of the future might be further confused by having two Presidents named Jackson. As if they hadn't enough trouble already with two Johnsons, two Roosevelts, two Adamses, two Harrisons and three or four Nixons.

In 1919, Herbert Hoover was selected as director-general for the relief of European nations liberated in World War I.

In 1935, 90 per cent of the people in the Saar voted for reunion with Germany.

In 1959, President Dwight Eisenhower signed a proclamation admitting Alaska to the Union as the 49th state.

In 1967, the slayer of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, Jack Ruby, died of cancer in a Dallas hospital.

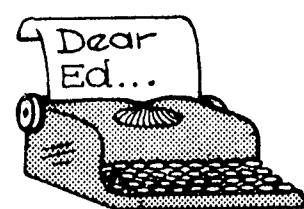

Ten years ago: Federal agents rounded up 70 armed men in the Florida Keys and accused them of plotting to invade Haiti as a prelude to war against Cuba.

Five years ago: The Pakistani government said it was willing to release the captured leader, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh.

One year ago: Hundred-mile-per-hour winds and flooding in a storm in Western Europe cost at least 30 lives.

Today's birthdays: Hockey star Bobby Hull is 38. Actor Ray Milland is 70.

Thought for today: "Curses are like processions. They return to the place from which they came." — Giovanni Ruffini, Italian writer, 1807-1881.

Revolution

If I am to understand our Constitution correctly, I must believe the real government (on paper) is we, the people. If this concept is true, then I must also believe that those minimum security asylums we call Washington and Sacramento have revolted against us, the people, the government of the U.S.

I am also to believe we are within our Constitutional right and duty to try and take back control of our country.

We have voted twice on the death penalty in California and our state employees have revolted against our wills and have shown us that they don't want to do the job we pay them for.

The problem is, how do we seize control of the runaway bureaucracy? I suggest that for 134 years the people were actually the government, because they controlled their incomes. For 63 years now, since the Federal Reserve Act and the Income Tax laws, we have steadily lost control of our own affairs. So, simply reverse the procedure.

Our foreign policy is a shame. Anyone who calls for an "America first" attitude is quickly branded as an isolationist. I don't favor isolationism, but I do favor neutrality as advised by our founding fathers.

The alleged conflict between us and the Soviets is a cruel hoax. I say this because of the obvious contradictions between what is said and what is done. Example: we are told the Soviets are an enemy, resulting in justification for heavy taxation and defense spending. Contradiction: Americans have been forced against their wills, to build and support the Communist Party, plus pay for our own defense systems. (IBM, Nike, etc.) which are in turn negotiated away and dismantled. If Russia is an enemy then why are department stores selling Russian-made shot guns and other products? Go look! I bet we are also selling them lots of rope (on credit, of course) because they'll be needing it when the hangings start.

It was reported that America slipped another notch to number six on a scale of the ten wealthiest nations. Are we headed for number ten? How about 20th? Isn't this the fruit of transfer payments.

By DAVID BRUDNOY

Having just survived the best of bicentennial years — never mind that, for us, it's the only bicentennial year we have to endure till the 200th birthday of the Constitution, coming up sometime during the Mondale administration, we look back on a super-duper year, reflecting, as is now our custom, on the superlatives in all categories. It is To Inspire Us To Do Even Better This Year, so relax and read on.

Surely the best expression of political modesty emerged from the presidential election, who humbly titled his campaign autobiography "Why Not The Best?" And while we're on Jimmy and his Court, let's not forget the best today remark of the decade (retiring the 1960s winner, Jack Valenti, who told a breathless world that he slept better knowing that Lyndon Johnson lived in the White House): Walter Mondale's literary evaluation of "Why Not The Best": "the greatest book ever written," said Humbert Humbert's (er, Hubert Humphrey's) protege and now the heir apparent.

The best benediction from The Media To The Government: Barbara Walters' concluding remark to Jimmy Carter after her cozy little TV interview with him: "Be good to us."

The best bit of cinema flapdoodle: "King Kong" producer Dino Di Laurentiis's comparison of his ape flick to "Jaws": "When the shark he die, you no cry; when the monkey he die, you

We are told to reduce our standard of living, while the communists increase theirs at our expense. What happens when the two standards are at the same level? Is this when the merger will take place? Remember, Jefferson said the king "had abdicated his authority by declaring war against us." Being a hopeful patriot, I'd like to believe most alert people must be aware the economic and political war that is being waged against this country's middle class, which, of course, will also horribly affect our poor and hence, our nation, as a whole.

Postal Increase

Sometime in 1977 it will cost nearly three times as much to mail a letter as in 1970. The U.S. Postal Service says employee pay raises and other expense increases will make the postage hike necessary.

Typical of a bureaucracy, the number of postal employees cannot be reduced although the volume of mail continues to decline.

In November, Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar said he didn't think a rate hike would be necessary. Later he said the 16-cent stamp probably would be needed. Now he says maybe 17 cents.

A three-fold increase in letter postage in seven years makes it clear that nothing has been solved by the Postal Service.

Fine Distinctions

Your editorial (Dec. 20, "Zzzzz") on S.I. Hayakawa napping during Harvard University seminars has brought forth two letters.

It is ironic that the L.A. Times, previous to Dec. 16, ran an editorial, Senator-elect S.I. Hayakawa "Brushes Up On Napping." There were also articles about Richard Nixon still trying to get his tapes, documents, etc., and that Claudine Longet's diary was inadmissible as evidence in her upcoming trial because it was personal property.

Normally The Register would have printed half a dozen or more letters regarding these issues. I have seen only one, and that dealt with Richard Nixon. Here I cover all the subjects, to refresh the minds of your readers.

1. Claudine Longet does not have to reveal her diary. It is personal property!

2. Richard Nixon is denied his tapes and documents because they belong to the U.S. government. The first time an ex-president has been denied, what I believe and many others also, is his personal property.

3. Senator-elect S.I. Hayakawa "Brushes Up On Napping" during the seminar.

4. How many readers remember the picture of then Speaker of the House Carl Albert "napping" as President Gerald Ford was giving a nation-wide TV address?

5. This added item is one I have read recently. President Gerald Ford and Henry Kissinger have donated their papers. Do these men have the right to do so or does the U.S. government have jurisdiction over them?

Millions Wasted

Reading your "THE E.P.A.'S CHESS-BOARD" Dec. 27, makes one realize that if the EPA and their sub-agencies didn't waste so many millions of our tax dollars on inept studies of what might harm our health, millions of people could improve their health with present medical care and improved diets with that wasted money.

It's like the Federal Trade Commission spending so many more of our millions investigating private companies to see if they are cheating us than the companies could cheat us out of.

You don't have to be a Milton Friedman to figure out the economics of waste. Only our bureaucrats, bloated with our confiscated tax dollars, don't seem able to figure it out.

BRUDNOY'S COMPLAINT

The Best Of Everything For '77

cry." Well, what can you expect from the maker of the best 24 million dollar white elephant in a 40 foot monkey suit?

The best instance of political hypocrisy: Henry Kissinger (Henry Who?) championing what he calls "Majority rule" in black Africa while cozying up to the world's prime exemplars of minority rule, the Red dictators of Peking and Moscow.

The best evidence that the Republicans goofed something fierce at Kansas City: Ronald Reagan's brilliant, stirring message to the assembled throng of delegate puppets just before Bozo came on to begin the long road to Republican ruin in November.

The best presidential campaign of the season: Roger MacBride's Libertarian party assault on the Demoblicans and the Republicrats. No one voted for Roger, of course, but his was the only totally principled campaign between Labor Day and Nov. 2.

The best off-the-record joke of the year: Dick Gregory's retort to a friend of mine from WNAC-TV in Boston, who kidded Gregory about his silly footwear: "Why, man, these are the shoes that got Earl Butz fired!"

Best empty posturing of the political season: Barbara Jordan's nonstop barrage of banalities, platitudes, and quasi-demagogic preachments handed down to the Democrats in convention assembled in Manhattan; leading to the most uncalled for reverence of the year: the hushed, adoring reception Miss Jordan received from delegates who would have greeted such balderdash, had it emanated from a white male mouth, with bored indifference.

Best explanation of why we have become a nation of incorrigible snoops when it comes to public figures — and don't let the fact that this statement issued in 1974 put you off; it still rings true: "There are only two occasions when Americans respect privacy, especially in presidents. Those are prayer and fishing." Herbert Hoover.

The best explanation of why Israel will survive: "We Jews have a secret weapon in our struggle with the Arabs — we have no place to go." Golda Meir.

The best clue to the approach of the male menopause: "To me, old age is always fifteen years older than I am." Bernard Baruch, age 85, in 1955.

The best defense against the war between the generations: "The secret with dealing successfully with a child is not to be its parent." Mel Lazarus.

The best argument against the notion that high taxes makes for a livable state: New Hampshire, which eschews the former and achieves the latter, in spades.

The best reason since Mama Roosevelt for keeping presidential mothers in the closet: Miz Lillian.

The best warning against creeping socialism: Great Britain.

The best reason (the only reason?) for forced busing: it makes bus companies rich.

The best line to one's loyal readers, as always: Thanks very, very much, and a joy-filled 1977 to you and to all those dear to you.

Predictions: Brezhnev Out

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Round and round she goes, and where she stops nobody knows!

But the following prognostications, ranging throughout the world and based on extensive and authoritative sources, are strong probabilities:

Soviet boss Brezhnev will go into limbo this year in one way or another — either voluntarily because of numerous physical afflictions or under prodding from an increasingly critical Kremlin hierarchy. Just turned 70 and seriously ailing from ulcers, pernicious hypertension, deafness, stroke a few years ago, hernia surgery, possible jaw cancer, overweight, and a heavy smoker and drinker, Brezhnev has been under heavy fire in the Politburo.

Front runners to succeed him are two recent "newcomers" in top ranks: Yakov Ryabov, 48, elevated to the party secretariat after scoring big as heavy industry producer; Alexei Shibayev, 61, named head of the 100-million-member trade union apparatus.

Emperor Hirohito, 76 next April, will give up the throne he has held since 1926. Crown Prince Akihito, 43, will be the 125th of his line to wear the crown.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi will make her long anticipated move to install her crafty younger son, Sanjay, 29, as cabinet member and in position to be heir apparent. Between them, they appear bent on setting up what amounts to a dynasty. Sanjay, notoriously money-minded, dominates his doting mother and is the real power behind the iron-handed dictatorship she created.

Former President Nixon will re-emerge in the public eye — with a series of televised interviews in April and May, for which he will get $600,000, and a book in the fall preceded by newspaper serialization expected to produce another $100,000. Also likely are speaking appearances at selected Republican gatherings.

Carter Administration
Air Force Gen. George Brown, repeatedly in hot water because of free-wheeling rhetoric, will be replaced as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — despite reappointment last year by President Ford. Likely successor is Adm. James Holloway, Chief of Naval Operations, thus opening the way for Adm. Stanfield Turner, Annapolis roommate of President-elect Carter, who rates him "brilliant."

Postmaster General Ben Bailar, whose bumbling and fumbling has long been assailed in and out of Congress, will be bounced — under legislation that will strip the widely berated U.S. Postal Service of its independence and restore the top job to presidential appointment; also again put the agency's budget under direct congressional control.

U.S. Senate

Sen. Robert Byrd, W. Va., will win hands-down as Democratic floor leader, with Sen. Alan Cranston, Calif., as majority whip. And Sen. Robert Griffin, Mich., will be elected Republican floor leader, with Sen. Howard Baker, Tenn., as whip — if he wants it.

Enactment of legislation creating at least 75 new federal judgeships and possibly as many as 100, or more. Republicans talked of doing that last year but got nowhere because the Democrats, with heavy majorities in both branches of Congress, balked to await outcome of the November election. Now with a Democrat about to take over the White House, they're strongly for creating these choice new patronage plums.

House Of Representatives
Rep. Clement Zablocki, D. + Wis., will win the prized chairmanship of the International Relations Committee — despite opposition by some militants and ultra-Israel supporters.

Public financing of congressional campaigns will be initiated with potent bipartisan backing in the House and be decisively voted both there and by the Senate.

The same goes for a fourth House Office Building. Last year, former Speaker Carl Albert, Okla., literally tried to "hijack" the still incomplete Library of Congress annex and convert the $90 million structure into an office building for the House, but was blocked by a bipartisan group headed by Rep. Joel Pritchard, R-Wash. Now the plan is to start from scratch and authorize an entirely new building — at a probable $120 million cost.

Labor

Edward Sadowski, burly, paunchy, 38-year-old head of the Chicago-Gary district of the United Steelworkers, will NOT win the presidency of the 1,400,000-member union. Victor will be Lloyd McBride, longtime boss of the St. Louis district, who has the backing of retiring president I.W. Abel and a majority of USW leaders. Sadowski's campaign is being masterminded by Washington, D.C. lawyer Joe Rauh, prominent leftist militant and former head of the radical Americans for Democratic Action. The whole ADA propaganda and fund-raising apparatus is being used by Rauh in a furious effort to put over Sadowski. Through these sources he is being featured at liberal-radical cocktail and other parties all over the country. As a result the tough-talking unionite has been derisively labeled by opponents as the "cocktail candidate."

U.S. Economy

The steel industry's recent 6 per cent price hike will stick. There will be no rollback as demanded by congressional critics.

With the vigorous backing of Democratic congressional leaders, President-elect Carter will propose a 20- to 30-billion-dollar economic "recovery" program — part tax cut and part large scale job making.

Eskimos Resent Efforts To Save Caribou

By PEGGY ANDERSEN

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — For thousands of years Eskimos in Alaska were subsistence hunters, taking the food they needed from vast caribou herds and the bountiful Arctic Ocean.

Now the state wants them to be conservationists, but the Eskimos say they're short on meat and don't want any advice from the white man.

Snowmobiles and modern weaponry made subsistence hunting too efficient, forcing restrictions on hunting this year for the first time to revitalize the dwindling western arctic caribou herd.

The first test of the state's ability to limit native hunting, state game officials say, will come near the arctic community of Barrow, to which herd migration patterns have brought about 8,000 animals.

Biologists with the state Department of Fish and Game say the caribou herd has dwindled from about 140,000 animals in 1970 to near 50,000 this year.

The state began issuing hunting permits in an effort to reduce the number of caribou killed annually from about 25,000 to 3,000. Biologists say the herd cannot reproduce fast enough to recover unless pressure on the animals is relieved.

Some Eskimo hunters, unhappy with the shortage of fresh meat and new restrictions on Eskimo hunting rights, say they do not intend to sit idly when the herd passes by.

Barrow was issued 375 permits — less than one caribou per household — because of its proximity to the Arctic Ocean's whale and seal populations, traditional Eskimo meat sources.

And Commissioner of Fish and Game James Brooks said, "A couple of thousand caribou very near to the village might prove to be a temptation to some of the villagers."

Public Safety Commissioner Richard Burton said he would prosecute violators of the new rules. The department's fish and wildlife protection unit and agents of the Department of Fish and Game were in the community last week to enforce the rules, he said.

"We don't know how they will react," Brooks said. "We trust they won't be tempted to harvest in excess of the permit."

Spokesmen for the North Slope Borough Fish and Game Management Committee dispute the state estimates of present herd size, saying the apparent reduction in size is due to migration.

"In this case, I don't think our figures can be challenged," Brooks said, noting that the department had spent thousands of hours doing aerial counts of the caribou population.

Barrow Magistrate Sadie Neakok, a lifelong resident and Barrow's only court official, has disqualified herself from any case involving caribou violations.

"I can't handle anything that big," she said. "There is too much personal type feeling among my own people for me to enforce it in my court."

Mrs. Neakok noted that although the whale harvest was good, much of the meat was lost because of a shortage of boats, and ice conditions were too dangerous to permit seal hunting.

She added: "It costs $85 for a beef dinner for one family ... and store-bought meat is not too appetizing to the Eskimo."

The borough game committee also complained that the state had not produced promised aid during the meat shortage.

Gov. Jay Hammond asked the U.S. Department of Agriculture for disaster aid to the area, but the request was denied.

Recruits Rush To Beat GI Bill Deadline

By The Associated Press

Spurred on by a New Year's Day deadline that meant a reduction in future GI Bill benefits, volunteers crowded local recruiting offices around the country to sign up for military service.

Some recruiting offices reported that the enlistment buildup began last month, but almost all those surveyed at random agreed that the real flood in applications came in the last week.

About 500 enlistees a day, for example, flooded the Armed Forces entrance and examination center in Los Angeles, a sharp increase over the 70 to 100 volunteers who signed up in the last week of 1975, center officials said.

Other recruiting offices said they had processed about twice as many enlistees in the last week of December as they normally did.

In Detroit, Maj. Robert Joles, executive officer of the Army's Recruiting Center said, "We processed about 80 boys Friday, compared with our average 35 a day."

Army recruiter Sgt. William Callahan in Columbia, S.C., said of the last week's rush: "They were beating the doors down ... It's like Christmas shopping. They waited until the last minute." Callahan said his station had signed up 88 persons in November and December, an increase of one-third over last year's total of 60 enlistees accepted.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said there were no figures available on how many enlistees had joined the services in the last week.

Friday was the last day enlistees could qualify for full GI Bill school benefits. Beginning Saturday, new enlistees have to contribute some of their service pay toward a GI Bill college fund.

Under the new GI Bill, those enlisting in the military service will have to pay $50 to $75 monthly, up to a maximum of $2,700, to receive school aid.

Another inducement to enlist in the armed forces was a delayed entry program, under which volunteers could enlist by the end of 1976 and get current full GI school benefits as long as they enter service before the end of 1977.

The Army, the largest service, says it has about 30,000 of these delayed entry enlistees signed up.

Military recruiting offices in Cincinnati and Minneapolis stayed open Friday, a holiday for federal employees, to keep up with the applications. In Reno, Nev., Seattle, Oklahoma City, among others, the recruiting staffs worked upwards of 12-hour days during the week.

Wives Should Shovel Snow, Doctor Says

ROCKVILLE, Conn. (AP) — It generally is safer for women to shovel snow than men, a cardiologist says.

While women are more prone to nuisance-type injuries such as back sprains, men are more apt to suffer heart attacks, says Dr. Michael R. Sharon.

"There's an epidemic of heart attacks among middle-aged males while fatal heart attacks are relatively rare in women until several years after menopause," says Sharon, chief of medicine and cardiology at Rockville General Hospital.

He said the medical profession can't explain why men suffer more fatal heart attacks than women "except it must have something to do with the female hormone, estrogen."

He speculated that in some cases women who do heavy housework are in better shape for snow shoveling than men with desk jobs.

DOCTOR SAYS

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 59, female, married and have high blood pressure around 175. I am worried about strokes or a heart attack, but my faith believes only "God" is the greatest of all physicians. I wonder if you can buy something over the counter at a drug store?

DEAR READER — If you belong to the faith I think you might, you may be interested to know the lady who founded the faith wore glasses — but I don't know where she bought them.

You should be concerned about your blood pressure as it does increase the chances that you could have either a stroke or heart attack or other disorders associated with diseased arteries.

I usually prefer to see a person with high blood pressure improve his or her living patterns first if that can be done. If you have any amount of fat at all under your skin, go on a sensible diet and exercise daily. At least try to walk 30 minutes to an hour a day. Walk in two sessions if you need to, in order to not be uncomfortable.

The weight loss often lowers a person's blood pressure, and when it is successful it is far better for you than any medicines available for moderate elevations of blood pressure.

Also you should avoid coffee, tea and colas, as well as cigarettes.

None of these measures should conflict with your faith. I know of no Christian religion that is against a good healthy diet program, exercise and avoiding cigarettes, coffee and tea.

To give you more information I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Do you have any information pertaining to appendicitis and how to prevent it? Also I would like to know if an operation is the only answer if a person has an appendicitis attack?

DEAR READER — We have no definite information on how to prevent attacks of appendicitis. Dr. Burkitt and others who have studied the effects of cereal fiber bulk in the diet believe that appendicitis is rare in people who have sufficient cereal fiber in their diet. These investigators believe appendicitis is just one of many diseases that we suffer because of our modern bulkless diet that leads to poor colon function.

Appendicitis may be confused with several other medical conditions. These include the pain a girl may have related to ovulation, or inflammation of large lymph nodes inside the abdomen in either sex.

Once a case of appendicitis is definitely diagnosed most doctors agree that the only treatment is surgical. If the patient is severely ill for any reason, a period of patient preparation may be required. This can be required if the appendix has already ruptured. Otherwise, one of the few conditions for delaying surgery would be a very recent heart attack or similar severe illness.

In general doctors do not think trying to abort the attack with antibiotics is acceptable. The risks are too great.

Alarms May Improve Escape Chances

BY ANNE JUNAK
Register Staff Writer

It is the middle of the night and the family is soundly sleeping. Unknown to them a fire is smoldering in the kitchen. Flames suddenly burst forth and flicker through the house, toward the bedrooms.

The family may or may not escape safely, depending on how much warning they have before being overcome by smoke or flame. That warning is much more available nowadays with the mass manufacturing of home smoke alarms.

There are basically two methods of detection—photoelectric and ionization. The photoelectric type relies on a beam of light that shines into a photoelectric cell. When smoke particles reach a point where they interrupt the light, an alarm is triggered. Many of the brands state that an obscuration level of two per cent must be achieved before the alarm goes off.

The ionization method utilizes a chamber in which an ionized electrical field is established by a harmless radioactive substance. Combination particles disrupt the electrical balance and cause the alarm to sound.

The photoelectric type must run off house current, either by being wired directly into a junction box, or by being plugged into an electrical outlet. According to Inspector Greg Lanza of the Orange County Fire Prevention Department, the wired-in models must be inspected by a city or county building and safety department representative to insure correct installation. Most communities also require an installation permit.

"If the devices are not wired in properly, they can cause a fire themselves," he commented. He also suggested that the device be wired on a separate circuit with its own breaker so that it may remain functional in case some other circuits short out.

The ionization-type detectors can also be wired or plugged into household electricity, or may be battery operated. The battery devices usually emit a warning noise when batteries begin to go weak. They may also display a visible warning sign which pops out and cannot be reset until the batteries are replaced.

There are advantages and disadvantages to each type of device, according to fire and insurance authorities. Battery operated alarms are usually designed to function about a year between changes, but some owners may procrastinate in adding new power, even when the low battery warning has sounded. They can, however, be installed immediately and relatively easily, usually requiring only a few screws.

Electrical devices function without further care after installation, but a power outage renders them useless.

Lanza urged that buyers check the device they wish to purchase to see that it has the California state fire marshal's seal of approval. It is also suggested by insurance firms that the device have the Underwriters' laboratory (UL) seal.

The devices have gained such favor with fire and building authorities that all new homes and apartments in the county must be built with one by law, according to Floyd McLellan of the Orange County Building and Safety Department. Some communities have waived the usual electrical installation license and inspection fee to promote having the detectors added.

The California state fire marshal's office has set guidelines for installation locations which will best serve the devices' purpose. The bedroom area is most important, since many fires start at night while residents are asleep. It is suggested that an alarm be installed at the head of the hallway leading to bedrooms, in a place where there is a free flow of air.

If bedrooms are upstairs, the ceiling at top of the staircase is the best place. Another device may be placed downstairs in a central location. Homes with basements should also have a device at the top of the stairs, since many combustible or heat producing elements such as furnaces or clothes dryers are often located below the home.

It is suggested that alarms not be installed exclusively in a kitchen, unless it is one of several in the house.

Many of the devices have a test button which allows the alarm to be triggered so that family members will know what to listen for, and to test the alarm mechanism. Fire authorities suggest planning family drills so that persons will know where to go and what to do in an emergency.

Smoke devices are usually available through most department or hardware stores, and start at about $25.

An average price is in the $40 range.

While manufacturers of the devices do not claim that the alarms are absolutely guaranteed to save someone's life or property, the few extra minutes provided for escape have already averted many potential tragedies.

American Medicine Chests Full of Useless Products

By Darrell Sifford
Knight News Wire

Does the "extra ingredient" make Anacin worth asking for?

Should you give your cold to Contac? Will you sleep better tonight if you've taken Somnifex?

Can you say good-bye to a stopped-up nose if you squirt Sine-Off according to the instructions on the box?

Does the $1.50 aspirin get into the bloodstream and bring relief more quickly than the 28-cent aspirin?

Can tonight's Alka-Seltzer prevent tomorrow's hangover?

Well, a pharmacologist — somebody who earns his living by studying how drugs work — says that if you answered "Yes" to any of these questions, you're mistaken — and the victim of what he describes as slick advertising.

The pharmacologist is Joe Graedon and his just-published book, "The People's Pharmacy," attacks the drug industry, physicians and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for what Graedon says is their failure to do their jobs.

In an interview he said: "If they'd done what they're supposed to do, there would have been no need to write this book."

What's the problem? Is it that the drugs don't work?

Graedon: "Some are ineffective and others are dangerous, and people should know about them. Since doctors and the FDA haven't done it, then it's up to the patient to find out for himself."

Question: Mr. Graedon, if a lot of over-the-counter drugs don't work, why do people buy them?

Answer: For years doctors used leeches in treating their patients. But this blood-letting was no cure. What they really were doing was helping to kill their patients. Why did doctors use leeches if they didn't do any good? Because doctors expected the treatment to work. If a patient got better coincidentally, doctors gave credit to the leeches.

And that's how it is with today's buyer of drugs. If you take Somnifex and expect to get a good night's sleep because of it and then if you do sleep well, you give Somnifex the credit. You may even tell your friends: "Hey, that works like magic."

But the truth is that studies have shown it works no better to bring sleep than a sugar pill would. It's the suggestion that makes it work — if it does work.

Or take Contac. You can't give your cold to Contac. The amount of active ingredient in it isn't enough, spread over 12 hours, to give you any effective relief. It also contains a decongestant, and if you have high blood pressure, you could be in trouble.

If you have glaucoma and take Contac your eyes could be irreparably damaged. That warning is on the box, but it's hidden in fine print.

It's the same with Alka-Seltzer. In the fine print it says it is not to be used if you're on a sodium-restricted diet. It doesn't say anything about a salt-restricted diet. Don't you imagine that many people who are on a salt-restricted diet don't know that salt and sodium mean the same thing?

If you take Alka-Seltzer and if you have high blood pressure, you will get over your salt-restriction level quickly and your blood pressure could shoot up to dangerous levels.

Sometimes the proper warning isn't even in fine print. Sine-Off nasal spray's directions say you can use it twice within 10 minutes and then repeat this every three hours. Hell, if you did that for an 18-hour day, you'd have rebound nasal congestion and you'd be worse off than before. Why don't they tell you about that?

Q. What do you do when you have a headache?

A. I buy the cheapest aspirin I can find. Aspirin is all the same — and don't let anybody tell you anything else. But there is one caution: Before you buy, remove the cap and smell the aspirin. If it smells like vinegar or acid, then the aspirin is deteriorating and losing its potency. So keep smelling until you find a bottle without this odor. You also should check the aspirin in your medicine cabinet at home.

The makers of the $1.50 aspirin like to say it dissolves faster in your stomach than the 28-cent aspirin. I don't agree with this. But no matter what aspirin I'm taking I take it this way:

Either mash it up and dissolve it in orange juice or some other liquid or else chew it up with a mouthful of milk and swallow it. This increases the aspirin's efficiency, introduces it into the bloodstream faster and reduces the side effect of stomach irritation.

Whatever you do, don't take aspirin after you've been drinking alcohol. Your stomach will bleed significantly if you take aspirin after drinking because the alcohol changes the integrity of the cells in the stomach lining. This is why people who take Alka-Seltzer the night before to try to prevent a hangover are fooling themselves — and taking a chance. You can't prevent a hangover in advance.

Q. What about the "extra-strength" and "extra-ingredient" claims by Anacin?

A. To get extra strength they put in a few more grains of aspirin. The extra ingredient is caffeine. You could get the same effect if you drank aspirin with coffee.

I can't believe the American public is so gullible. There's a feeling that if you take two tablets for a little headache, you should take 10 for a big headache. But there's a level of maximum effectiveness, and when you reach that you get nothing more — whether you've taken two aspirin or 20 aspirin.

So in most cases extra strength gives you no extra benefit.

The nonaspirin pain relievers contain an ingredient almost as effective as aspirin, but this ingredient doesn't help if your pain is caused by, say, arthritis or some other inflammation. Aspirin does.

Q. If you could only have one drug in your medicine cabinet, what would you choose?

A. A lot of doctors may disagree, but I'd have codeine. It's a great pain reliever — one of the best and cheapest — and it's also good for coughs and diarrhea. People worry about getting addicted to it, but if you have a prescription for only a dozen tablets, you don't have to be concerned about addiction.

What Is Needed For Plant Lover To Keep A Date?

BY LYNN AND JOEL RAPP

Dear Mother Earth: Last winter I decided to see if a pit from a date would root and grow. After many months of waiting, it finally did grow, and at the moment I have two "leaves" on it. Could you give me any information at all on date palms? It doesn't seem to be doing anything any more and I'd hate to lose it after all these months. — Scared of Being Dateless.

Dear Dateless: The natural habitat of the date palm is in the hot, dry desert climes, so your first step is to try to approximate those conditions, at least when it's young. (As it ages, the date palm can hold up under extremely cold temperatures.)

Give it a home in the sunniest spot you can find and feed often and you should be rewarded with a good, healthy date palm indoors. If you happen to live in the right climate zone, you can plant date pits (organically grown ones do best) outdoors, and if you live long enough can expect trees as high as a hundred feet tall.

Incidentally — and this is a book we've recommended before but it's worth recommending again — if you'd really like the lowdown on growing everything from papaya pits to date palms, get a copy of "The After Dinner Gardening Book" by Richard W. Langer. It's filled with information on how to grow beautiful house plants from the seeds and pits of fruits and vegetables. Happy growing!

(Now available, the Mother Earth Plantasia album of warm earth music for plants. Send checks or money orders for $5.50, including postage and handling, to Western International Premiums, in care of The Register, P.O. Box 80817, Los Angeles, Calif. 90080. ## Diet Clubs Offer Help To Penitent Holiday Revelers

By BARBARA GIBBONS

This is the time of year when the diet clubs are industriously unfolding extra chairs for the heavy hordes of penitent holiday revelers who will beat a path to their doors, seeking absolution from too much eggnog and too many mincemeat pies. Should you be among them?

According to some expert evaluations, the self-help groups are the most strikingly successful weight control method to come along. According to others, their memberships are exceeded by their drop-outs. Since only attempts — and not failures — are recorded, there's no way to really know. Anyway, the only success or failure that really matters is yours!

Before you invest the time or money in diet club memberships, you should give careful consideration to whether you're a team-player-type of person. Will you blossom beautifully as another daffodil at the base of the tree? Or are you a lone pine, seeking your own way to the sun?

Today we offer profiles of some of the better-known groups. The personality of any local club depends, of course, on its members and leadership. The real test of whether a group works for you is to try it.

NONPROFIT DIET CLUBS:
OVEREATERS ANONYMOUS AND TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) are two of the biggest; both are patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous and Gamblers Anonymous. In OA, members don't know each other's last names. They view compulsive overeating as an incurable disease, but one that can be controlled by drawing strength from each other and/or from God. (Though the approach is non-sectarian, obviously the appeal of the latter works best with those whose orientation is more spiritual than secular.)

Members follow either their doctor's diet or a no-nonsense three squares...no frill foods or between-meal snacks! And if the urge to binge is imminent, they're encouraged to phone each other at any hour for stiffened resolve. Anyone who wants to join is welcome regardless of financial means; there are no dues and the program is supported entirely by contributions.

For many, OA is a supportive fellowship of other like-minded people working together to defeat a common temptation.

TOPS is also nonprofit, existing solely on small annual dues and voluntary contributions. Members weigh in weekly in private and report only pounds lost (or gained) amid an atmosphere of friendly competition. Each chapter determines its own program to best suit its members, but an agenda might include a guest expert, or discussions on how to cope with common stresses, games, skits, sing-alongs.

Midwestern in origin, its programs is very much down-home, friendly and welcoming...just the sort of support some people need. But others find the rah-rah, yay-team, summer-camp ambience uncomfortable.

Local chapters of OA and TOPS are listed in the phone book. Or you can write their national headquarters for the location nearest you or for advice about starting your own chapter: OA, 3730 Motor Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90034; TOPS, 4575 S. Fifth St., Milwaukee Wisc. 53207.

OTHER NONPROFIT CLUBS are operated by many local health departments, colleges, universities, hospitals or community groups. Ask your health officer or local Community Chest for help in locating one. Or approach a local university, hospital or health organization about sponsoring such a group, and volunteer to help organize it.

COMMERCIAL DIET CLUBS:
WEIGHT WATCHERS is the original. And most commercial diet clubs are patterned after it, even using their original diet, a protein-heavy regime originating in the New York City Obesity Clinic. But there's no quibble now about the nutritional soundness of the current WW diet, computer-programmed in accordance with the National Research Council's recommendations, plus the recommendations of the Heart Association and the Diabetes Association. The biggest source of discontent is its relative strictness. Certain foods MUST be eaten, including fish meals.

We don't understand the logic of wasting calories on foods you really hate, on the other hand, we also don't understand people who categorically hate all seafood. (Some people hate everything except Big Macs and thick shakes, so maybe a program that forces wider sampling does have merit!) And, speaking of calories, WW doesn't believe in counting them, although the diet is geared towards 1,200 calories a day for women, 1,600 for men.

At weekly meetings members pay their dues, ($2 to $4 depending on the franchise) listen to a paid lecturer, and with group discussion and socialization.

Many behavior modification techniques have been incorporated into the lectures and a skilled national staff monitors local franchises and keeps them up-to-date on new methods.

THE DIET WORKSHOP, nationally franchised, also relies heavily on the behavior modification approach and a similar, if somewhat freer diet.

OTHER DIET CLUBS operate for profit in nearly every region of the U.S. and many pattern their diet plan on Weight Watchers, but with their own variations. Commercial diet clubs generally advertise their meeting times and locations in newspapers.

For more details on diet clubs (including their diets) plus scores of other popular diets detailed and evaluated by the Editors of Consumer Guide Magazine, send $2.50 for "Rating the Diets," in care of The Register, Diet Bookshelf, Sparta, N.J. 07871.

'MAY I CUT IN?' — Junior Cotillion members Lori Biel, 12, and Tim Pawsat, 13, practice their dance steps as Royce Sharf, 12, asks to join Miss Biel. Junior Cotillion members are seventh and eighth graders from Tustin, Santa Ana and Orange schools. There is also a Matinee Cotillion group for fifth and sixth graders. The groups, which emphasize good manners, posture, attitude and grooming, are under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. G. Robert E. Gollatz of Pasadena. A live band at each meeting provides ballroom and disco dance music for instruction. The last three meetings for the season will be held at 5 p.m. for fifth and sixth graders, 6:30 p.m. for seventh graders and 8 p.m. for eighth graders. The groups will meet the first Monday of each month, Jan. 3, Feb. 7 and March 7, in the Santa Ana Ebell Clubhouse, 625 French St. Invitations for interested young people to become members will be extended in April. Visitors may attend the meetings to observe. The groups are chaperoned by over 60 parent patrons. Patron chairpersons are Mrs. Michael Immel, Mrs. Ronald Russell, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Biel and Mr. and Mrs. Don W. Schmid.

Bad Credit Rating Plagues All Areas Of Family Finance

By SIDNEY MARGOLIS
Women's News Service
NEW YORK — Consumer debts recently have been rising at the highest rate in three years. Already such debts are running 10 per cent ahead of a year ago and many of the Christmas bills are still to be tallied.

Large debts, of course, may spell danger to your credit rating. Sometimes a poor rating may result even from a misunderstanding or obsolete information in a credit bureau's file.

Short of having plastic surgery and dyeing your hair, what do you do if your credit rating does go bad?

While you might be able to get along without credit, and might save money since many families overuse time payments, other aspects of your welfare may depend on a satisfactory credit rating.

In an emergency or for a large purchase you may have a genuine need for credit. A "D" rating — the worst — even when unfair or obsolete often, leads to denial of credit by conservative lenders and stores.

Even your ability to get car insurance at normal rates can be affected by what your file at the credit bureau says about you since insurance companies also use credit bureau reports.

Working people have another concern about their credit ratings. Employers also often use credit reports for hiring.

Always keep in mind that if you are ever denied credit, insurance or employment because of a bad report, or have received a notice from the credit bureau's collection department, the credit grantor or employer must tell you so, and tell you what credit bureau furnished the report. At your request, the bureau must tell you what data it has on your record.

There is no fee for the review if you were denied credit, insurance, etc., because of the report, and if you ask for the review within 30 days after the denial.

You don't have to wait until you have been turned down for credit to review your file. But in that case you do have to pay a fee, usually $5 to $6. A credit bureau that issues a report about you must show all the information in your file and tell you where it got it.

The bureau also must reveal what companies have received employment reports about you within the past two years, and credit reports about you within the past two years, and credit reports about you within the past six months.

You can't be charged a fee if you merely ask whether the bureau has a file on you but don't ask for a review.

The procedure for getting a review is fairly simple. You can arrange to visit your local credit bureau and bring someone as a witness or counsel as well as your spouse.

You also can make a written request for a phone interview if you can be properly identified over the phone by Social Security number and other personal data, and pay any long-distance charges.

Say you really had defaulted or have a record of slow pay or of a court action. Credit bureaus do accumulate court records of all suits, judgments and similar legal incidents in their areas. There even may be other reasons for a "D" or "doubtful risk" rating, or for a denial of credit.

The bureau or credit grantors may feel your income is too low or you have too many dependents to handle the requested credit, or that your residential or work history is "unstable."

In that case your goal would be to re-establish your rating. You may be able to show that the problem has been remedied; for example, that your earnings have improved or become stabilized, or that a particular incident was due to temporary circumstances such as family problems, illness, etc.

Farrah Fawcett-Majors Is New 'Pin-Up Queen'

By DAVE ZURAWIK
Knight News Wire

The Farrah Phenomenon. That's the term professors, printers, poster salesmen and pop art collectors are using to describe a wall poster of TV star Farrah Fawcett-Majors, which may not be worth a thousand words but has generated more than $4 million in over-the-counter sales in a 3 1/2-month period. It is reportedly already the best-selling poster of all time, and the end is nowhere in sight.

Move over Ann Miller, Betty Grable and Marilyn Monroe. America has a new pin-up queen.

Fawcett-Majors, co-star of ABC-TV's "Charley's Angels," is pictured in the 20 X 28 inch color poster in a one-piece bathing suit. There is no other way to describe the rest, except to say that she is smiling the wide-open, Farrah smile; her long, blond loosely curled hair smother the shoulders in that natural, almost matted, Farrah hairdo. The tone of the $2 poster is modest, even by 1940s pin-up standards.

It is the only modest thing connected with the Farrah phenomenon.

"It's gross, staggering, unbelievable, mind-blowing," Richard Mihalik, national sales director of Pro Arts Inc., said. Pro Arts prints the posters through a licensed and exclusive arrangement with Miss Majors' management agency. Mihalik is not trying to hype sales.

"You have to understand our situation, we just can't keep up," he said.

Pro Arts' situation is that it is a "nice, little company" in Medina, Ohio, that did a nice solid business in posters, calendars and other printing jobs for the last 10 years.

"Then," Mihalik said, "we released the Farrah poster around the end of September. We have a total press capacity of 800,000 posters a month. That means we can print 800,000 of these a month if we print nothing else. Usually, we have a bunch of posters and other things going. The last three months, we have stopped everything else and printed only Farrah posters. And we can't keep up."

"Do I sound like I'm complaining? I shouldn't. We've got this thing exclusive right now. But who knows how to handle something this crazy? We've got to get our catalogs out, but you want to cry to have to slow down the Farrah presses to do it."

Mihalik said the Fonzie poster, which pictured Henry Winkler of ABC-TV's "Happy Days," sold almost two million posters, but that was in two years. Pro Arts was one of many companies involved in that operation.

"In the last 10 years," he said, "we've been involved, in one way or another, with all of them. The Farrah number is without a doubt the leader."

There are a lot of seat-of-the-pants instant analyses of the poster's success being offered. Prof. Ray Browne, of Bowling Green University's Popular Culture Department, said he's been looking at the Farrah phenomenon and the poster for a couple of months.

"It's got to be the hair," he said. "It's sort of wind-blown and free-spirited. This may be a little subtle, but it's a safe sort of free spirit because of the role she plays on TV. She represents law and order. So, it's that free-spirited, wind-blown, sexy look in the context of that law and order image that makes it work."

"It's definitely the hair, but damned if I can explain the whole Farrah phenomenon. And that's what it is — a pop phenomenon. The poster captures it."

The poster has captured the mass market. Some say it has captured "the look, the face of the '70s."

Fawcett-Majors, through a flock of spokesmen, said she thinks the whole thing "is neat." But, she added, "I don't see myself as anybody special. And I don't really understand all the interest."

She has to be the only one who doesn't.

Hadassah Plans Conclave Of Western State Leaders

Highlighting the two day sessions will be a dinner on Tuesday featuring Zvi Brosh, consul-general of Israel for the Southwest U.S. Brosh, a veteran of 16 years in the Israel Foreign Service, has had a versatile career in the fields of journalism and the media, defense and economic development, the arts and international relations.

Al Mellman, executive director of Temple Beth Am in Los Angeles, will also speak to the assembled Hadassah board members and presidents Tuesday on "Don't Sell Zionism Short."

SNOW-CAPPED, CLOUD-SKIRTED MOUNTAINS DOMINATED ORANGE COUNTY SCENE TODAY AS CLEAR SKIES RETURNED

Rain May Return On Thursday

The first storm of 1977 moved into Southern California Sunday, dumping more than an inch of rain on Orange County.

The storm followed closely on the tail of the last storm of 1976 which began Thursday and ended early New Year's Day.

Although the recent rain caused some flooding in Santa Barbara, Orange County escaped relatively unscathed. The rain stopped early today.

Some mudslides were reported in the hill areas. However, state highway crews cleaned them up during the night.

Some street flooding was reported and there were numerous stalled vehicles, but no major traffic accidents were blamed on the rain.

The California Highway Patrol said the rain snarled freeway traffic Sunday evening when the highways were already crowded with returning holiday vacationers, but only minor accidents were reported.

The 17th Street bridge over the Santa Ana River in Santa Ana washed out during the storm and was closed to traffic about 2:30 a.m. today. The bridge remained closed this morning.

45 Miners Believed Dead; Rescue Efforts Abandoned

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Rescue work has been stopped at a northern Moravia coal mine hit by a gas explosion, and 45 miners trapped in the blast Thursday are believed dead, informed sources said today.

No further information on the explosion has been released officially since a dispatch Friday by the official Czechoslovak news agency CTK. That report said a government commission led by Deputy Premier Josef Simon had been sent to the disaster site at Chlebovice, in the Ostrava coal basin, where another mine gas explosion in 1975 killed 11 men.

The mine in which the explosion occurred last week was equipped several years ago with a computerized system to monitor all gas emissions and related hazards, experts said. They said it was not known yet why the system did not warn of the impending explosion.

felt the shipping cost was not part of the agreement and refused to pay it.

Mrs. Charles flew to Augusta, hired an attorney and swore out a possessory warrant. Accompanied by Columbia County sheriff's deputy Alex Shumaker, she went to the Ingram residence.

Mrs. Ingram and her husband, Walter, said they did not have the dog. Shumaker searched the premises: no dog.

After a court hearing the next day, Mrs. Ingram, at the suggestion of the court, wrote a check for the full balance, including the disputed shipping cost. Mrs. Charles re-didn't have the police escorts and we would have to wait. They assured us they would get us there on time."

He said the floats' tardiness ranged from seven minutes to an hour and 15 minutes. Herbeck admitted some of the floats were not fully decorated, but said, "We were ready and willing to move."

Milt Wilson, chairman of the float instruction committee, said the nine floats "were definitely not ready to move out."

"We went ahead and moved them anyway," he said. "The Occidental float was not only late but incomplete. It had boxes of flowers on top." He said all the other four main floats were ready to move at the given time.

Wilson said tournament officials have a complete set of records and plan to hold meetings on the matter.

"We have nothing to hide," Wilson said. "The question is how did we get 52 floats out there on time under identical conditions? Festival Artists was decorating late."

The parade itself went off smoothly, and the rain that had threatened to spoil it stayed away.

Statehood Issue Ignored At Puerto Rico Ceremony

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Ignoring President Ford's statehood proposal in his inaugural address, Puerto Rico's new governor says his first priority is still revival of the island commonwealth's sagging economy.

After he was sworn in Sunday as Puerto Rico's fifth elected governor, Carlos Romero Barcelo pledged to work to eliminate "the intolerable conditions in which thousands of Puerto Ricans are still forced to live."

Romero, a longtime proponent of statehood, did not mention the issue once in his address despite Ford's announcement on Friday that he would submit a statehood proposal to Congress.

The 44-year-old governor said in an interview that Ford's announcement was "a complete surprise, to say the least."

Romero, during his successful election campaign, said his first order of business would be to improve the economy and the question of statehood would be deferred. Asked whether Ford's proposal would result in a change in his priorities, he replied:

"We have a commitment to get the economy moving. I haven't made any decision on this proposal. It's a new ingredient that has to be studied."

"I think the President's intentions are well meant, and I think they definitely help to dispel the false allegations that have been made by the commonwealth and independence people that Puerto Rico would not be granted statehood if it asked for it."

Romero during his speech was applauded longest when he said "luxurious trappings" in government were offensive in view of Puerto Rico's current economic situation and should be eliminated.

The unemployment rate on the island is 20 per cent and the economic growth generated by the Operation Boot-

NY Pair Charged In Blaze Deaths

25 Killed In 'Revenge' Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Revenge against a young woman was the motive behind the Bronx social club fire that killed 25 people two months ago, a prosecutor said in announcing the arrest of two men on arson and murder charges.

Police said Sunday that Jose Cordero, a 40-year-old unemployed salesman, and a teenage accomplice set the fire after Cordero had a "lover's quarrel" with 19-year-old Diana Sanchez. They said at least one other person was being sought.

Police said Miss Sanchez was Cordero's girlfriend and that the fight was caused by her attending the party at the Puerto Rican Social Club in the South Bronx against his wishes.

However, the family of Miss Sanchez, who was killed in the blaze along with her sister, Evelyn, 22, said Cordero was just a friend of the family and denied that any romance had existed between the two.

Cordero and Lopez were arraigned before Criminal Court Judge William Holland. They are being held without bond for a hearing Wednesday. The case was to be presented to a grand jury today.

The district attorney's office also requested that both defendants be "segregated from the rest of the prison population" because friends and family of those who died in the blaze might seek revenge.

The 16 women and nine men who died in the Oct. 24 fire made it the worst death toll in a building here since 1958, when 27 were killed in a textile factory fire in Manhattan. In addition to those killed in the Bronx fire, 18 others, including Angel Louis Sanchez, a brother of the Sanchez sisters, were injured when they jumped to the street from the top floor of the two-story building.

According to police and the Bronx district attorney's office, Cordero left the party "enraged" and returned with friends to throw a liquid accelerant, believed to be gasoline, on the stairwell.

Police said Cordero was married had two sons and a previous police record. Lopez, who was arrested on his way to a National Guard meeting, was unemployed and had no prior record.

After police delivered news of the arrests to Provenza Felix, the mother of the Sanchez sisters, the sobbing woman described Cordero as a frequent visitor to their apartment.

"Everyone, they are saying he is Diana's boyfriend. That's not true. He was a friend. He said she was like a daughter he had told us," she said. "He was a friend of us."

He was godfather to Evelyn's baby. I just can't believe he could do this."

Angel Sanchez, 18, said, "The day of the party, Cordero came here and said he would take all of us. Later Diana told me he was angry because she was going, but she did not understand why."

Cordero was supposed to return sometime between 3 and 4 p.m. (Please Turn To Page A2, Col. 5)

"He took us there, and he was laughing in the car. He gave us money and I asked him 'What's this for, I have money.' But he said for us to keep it and have a good time."

Weekend Fires Leave 45 Dead

By The Associated Press
Fires in seven states claimed at least 45 lives during the New Year's weekend and damaged an historical landmark. Officials said at least one of two fatal fires in Chicago may have been arson.

The suspicious fire broke out in a Southwest Side apartment building early Sunday morning, killing five persons and injuring at least seven others. Police said two partly filled gasoline cans were found on the fourth floor of the building, where the fire apparently began.

The victims included a woman and her three children, ages 5 to 16.

On Saturday, another Chicago apartment house fire claimed nine lives on the Northwest Side. The cause of that blaze was undetermined.

The fire on Sunday was about a block from the site of a Christmas Eve fire in which 12 persons, including 10 children, were killed.

Nine persons were killed in a Shamokin, Pa., motor hotel fire which broke out about 2 a.m. Sunday. One of the victims was the owner-operator of the Walnut Towers Motor Inn in the central Pennsylvania community about 50 miles northeast of Harrisburg.

John Luckens, 44, died of smoke inhalation while trapped in an elevator between floors of the four-story hotel, fire officials said. His widow, stepson and a hotel employee were treated for hysteria and released from a local hospital.

Ford Planning Busy Schedule Before Exiting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, back in the White House after his last scheduled flight on the presidential jet Air Force One, is planning a busy final 17 days as the nation's chief executive.

The President and Mrs. Ford returned to Washington on Sunday night after a two-week Christmas and New Year's vacation at Vail, Colo.

During the flight from Vail, Mrs. Ford told reporters aboard Air Force One that she feels a "sense of relaxation" now that Ford's two-and-one-half year term is coming to an end.

"I am just very happy to have a well, happy husband to spend a few years enjoying life together," she said. "I would have been very happy if he had won but I wasn't completely distraught over the outcome of the election," she added.

The President, who skied nearly every day at the Mountain resort, promised reporters before he left for Washington that he would be an active leader during his final days in office. "Because I'm President until Jan. 20," he explained. Jimmy Carter is inaugurated Jan. 20.

During the closing weeks, Ford will:

— Direct the end of government controls on gasoline prices. The move, expected Tuesday, probably will meet strong opposition in Congress.

White House officials said decontrol would have little or no general effect on gasoline prices. But opponents contend

Erroll Garner, Jazz Pianist, Composer (Misty) Dead At 53

ERROLL GARNER
'Most Distinguished'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Famed jazz pianist Erroll Garner, who made his debut at age seven and later wrote "Misty," died of a heart attack Sunday. He was 53.

Garner, frequently described as one of the world's most distinguished jazz musicians and composers, had been suffering from emphysema for several years and died en route to Cedars-Sinai Medical Center here, according to his doctor. He had been discharged from the hospital last Wednesday.

A prolific composer, Garner's works also included such titles as "Dreamy," "Gaslight," "Solitaire" and "That's My Kick."

Garner was born in Pittsburgh in 1923 and was a professional pianist seven years later.

His professional career brought him international fame. He conducted numerous concert tours in this country and abroad, making his debut in Carnegie Hall in 1959.

He received the French Prix du Disque for jazz recording in Paris in 1957 and the same year was chosen best pianist by the International Jazz Critics Poll of Downbeat Magazine.

He had been living here for about the past year.

He is survived by a twin brother and three sisters.

His body was to be flown to his native Pittsburgh for burial.

Dispute Dogs Woman To Jail

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Linda Ingram's troubles started more than two years ago with a legal squabble over her purchase of a puppy. Today, the dog is full-grown, and Mrs. Ingram is in jail.

Court records show that in April 1974, Mrs. Ingram, 33, answered an ad and agreed to purchase a Rottweiler, a popular breed of German cattle dog, for $200 from Sherri Lee Charles of Cincinnati. She sent a check for $100 as down payment.

The dog arrived by air freight on May 23, as did a notice that a shipping charge of $50.45 was due, along with the $100 balance. Mrs. Ingram felt the shipping cost was not part of the agreement and refused to pay it.

Mrs. Charles flew to Augusta, hired an attorney and swore out a possessory warrant. Accompanied by Columbia County sheriff's deputy Alex Shumaker, she went to the Ingram residence.

Mrs. Ingram and her husband, Walter, said they did not have the dog. Shumaker searched the premises: no dog.

After a court hearing the next day, Mrs. Ingram, at the suggestion of the court, wrote a check for the full balance, including the disputed shipping cost. Mrs. Charles refused it, saying she wanted the dog, not cash.

That same day, Shumaker obtained a warrant and searched the property a second time. Again, no dog. This warrant charged Mrs. Ingram had perjured herself by denying knowledge of the dog's whereabouts.

The deputy returned later with two arrest warrants: one alleging perjury, the other charging Mrs. Ingram with theft by deception. Shumaker charged that while he was attempting to serve those warrants, Mrs. Ingram pointed a shotgun at him. He swore out a third warrant charging aggravated assault.

Four months later, a grand jury indicted her. She pleaded guilty to assault and no contest to the other charges on Oct. 16.

Superior Court Judge Edwin D. Fulcher sentenced her to five years probation on each charge, to run concurrently. As a condition, she was fined $250 and instructed to pay $500 to Mrs. Charles.

Fulcher ordered Mrs. Ingram to return the dog within 30 days or to submit evidence she didn't have the dog and couldn't deliver it.

The case lay dormant until April 1976, when Mrs. Ingram was arrested on a petition to

Patrolman Saved In Burning Car

CASTAIC (AP) — A California Highway Patrol officer was rescued from his burning car Sunday after it rolled over and burst into flames during a high-speed chase.

A patrol official said Robert Welch was rescued from the burning car by fire department paramedics. He was listed in good condition at the Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital in Valencia.

The patrol said Welch was chasing a reported stolen car when his car went out of control and crashed here. Officials said speeds during the chase reached up to 110 miles an hour.

They said the other car continued down the Golden State Freeway for 50 miles before it crashed. The driver of that car sustained minor injuries and was being held for investigation, a patrol spokesman reported.

He was not immediately identified.

Guerrillas Kill Police Officer

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Black nationalist guerrillas have attacked a police post on a main highway, destroyed a black village and killed a police officer, security officials said today.

They also said security forces have killed four guerrillas since New Year's Eve and shot to death eight other blacks, including four women, who were "breaking the curfew at night."

Insurgents killed seven black civilians and another was fatally injured when a land mine blew up his car, officials said.

The dead police officer was the 220th security force member reported killed in fighting between government troops and black nationalists trying to topple the white minority government.

A communiqué said insurgents inflicted superficial damage and no casualties in a raid on a police post at Inyazura, a town about 80 miles east of Salisbury on the main road to the eastern garrison town of Umtali.

Vorster Meets Rhodesia Negotiator

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — British envoy Ivor Richard met for three hours today with Prime Minister John Vorster to discuss the deadlock in negotiations for a black takeover of power in neighboring, white-ruled Rhodesia.

The talks were "useful, helpful and constructive" and "I hope we may meet again within a week or two," Richard said after emerging from Vorster's vacation home near this southern coastal city.

The Briton is chairman of the stalled Geneva negotiations between white and black Rhodesians on the political future of the breakaway British colony where blacks outnumber whites 25-1.

He arrived here Sunday after a weekend meeting with Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, who reportedly rejected Richard's proposals for a direct British role in an interim Rhodesian government leading to black majority rule.

Pakistan Continues Nuclear Plans

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan said today it will go ahead with plans to purchase a nuclear reprocessing plant from France despite opposition from the United States and Canada.

Aziz Ahmed, minister of defense and foreign affairs, told a news conference the transaction involves only Pakistan and France. "No third country has any right to demand that Pakistan should abandon the reprocessing plant," he said.

The plant, expected to cost about $150 million, is intended to reprocess nuclear fuel by extracting plutonium from spent reactor fuel rods.

The United States and Canada are opposed to acquisition of such reprocessing facilities by Pakistan and other third world nations because of concern that the plutonium extracted could be diverted to production of nuclear weapons.

New Year Death Toll Passes 300

By The Associated Press

Snow made driving conditions hazardous through much of the nation's midsection over the New Year weekend, and the number of traffic deaths passed 300 by early today.

The Associated Press counted 301 fatalities on the nation's roads between 6 p.m. Thursday and midnight Saturday.

The National Safety Council had predicted that 350 to 450 people would die in traffic accidents during the three-day period.

Over last year's four-day New Year observance, 416 persons were killed in traffic. The worst New Year holiday was in 1965, when 564 persons died.

Study Of Oil Transit System Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union, called Sunday for a comprehensive examination of America's oil transportation system.

Hall made his request to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, who has said his panel will hold hearings on tanker safety in the wake of recent accidents involving Liberian tankers, including oil spills.

He said, "approximately 96 per cent of the oil transported to the United States is carried aboard foreign built, registered and manned vessels." He said owners of the vessels, "especially American oil companies, register the vessels under the Liberian, Panamanian, or other such flags in order to escape American taxes, American labor, American safety standards and American control."

Land Mine Kills Thai Newsmen

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A land mine explosion killed a Thai newsmen Sunday and blew off the leg of Joseph Lee, a veteran television cameraman who has covered wars in Indochina and the Middle East, police said.

Lee is a South Korean working for the American Broadcasting Corp. Officials said he was wounded while filming a government operation against Communist insurgents in southern Thailand.

Police said Thai newsmen Anant Chomchoun, who was working with Lee, stepped on the mine and was killed instantly.

The blast reportedly sheared Lee's left leg off below the knee. He was taken to a local hospital in satisfactory condition.

revoke probation. It was based on affidavits alleging that she possessed the dog in violation of her probation.

At a probation revocation hearing that month, a Greer, S.C., man testified that in late 1975 he had paid Mrs. Ingram $700 for the dog.

Mrs. Ingram was confined in the Richmond County jail and has been there since. Her attorney filed a habeas corpus petition to have her freed on bail, but a state court denied the motion.

Mrs. Ingram, who becomes eligible for parole in February, has asked the Georgia Supreme Court to overrule the lower court and grant her habeas corpus petition. She also has filed a $100,000 civil rights complaint against Mrs. Charles and Deputy Shumaker, contending that they "acted in concert... to deprive the plaintiff of liberty and property" when they obtained the warrants.

Sanity Hearing In Rape-Slaying Case Postponed

SACRAMENTO — The state Supreme Court this morning ordered a continuance in the start of the sanity hearing for accused rape-slayer Kenneth R. Hulbert to allow time to consider a motion filed by Hulbert's attorney.

The sanity hearing for the 24-year-old Fullerton man had been scheduled to begin this morning after a long series of delays.

Public defender Walter Zech is seeking an order closing the courtroom to the public because of his belief the publicity from the hearing would jeopardize Hulbert's right to a fair trial later.

That motion already has been denied by Superior Court Judge William S. Lee, who is slated to preside over the hearing, and the Fourth District Court of Appeal. Zech filed his motion with the Supreme Court just before Christmas.

Hulbert is charged in a 14-count Orange County Grand Jury indictment with rape attacks on three women, including the rape-slaying of a Whittier housewife on Jan. 2, 1976.

He also faces a later trial in Los Angeles County on an indictment accusing him of rape attacks on six women there.

kept out of the American mainstream."

Ferre told a reporter there was a growing trend in Puerto Rico to support statehood. He said the wording of the Democratic platform plank on statehood was intended to dispel fears that Puerto Rico's Spanish language and heritage might be weakened if statehood is achieved.

"It can be a state without losing its identity or culture," the mayor said.

Ferre was represented at the inauguration by Carla Hills, secretary of housing and urban development. She read a message in which the President expressed his "strong and continued friendship" for Puerto Rico but did not mention statehood.

Rep. Herman Badillo, a Democrat from New York City who was born in Puerto Rico, criticized Ford's statehood proposal and said "it would never come up in Congress."

Deadline Passes On Kidnap Execution

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The fate of royal adviser Antonio Maria de Oriol, who was kidnapped three weeks ago, remained unknown today after a deadline set for his execution passed.

Police sources said privately they believed a note setting a Sunday midnight deadline for the death of the 63-year-old ex-judge minister was a fake. It was delivered to the newspaper El Pais Wednesday and declared Oriol would be executed unless all of Spain's political prisoners were freed.

Another message received Sunday by the Madrid newspaper Informaciones said Oriol would be held captive until the government releases 15 political prisoners and sends them to Algeria. It contained no threat to kill Oriol and was accompanied by a letter in Oriol's handwriting, the newspaper said.

Informaciones, which has received other notes believed to be from the left-wing kidnappers, said it had authenticated both the new ransom note and the accompanying letter from Oriol to his family.

An anonymous telephone caller gave the location of the latest message, which was found under the doormat of a commercial building near the newspaper.

A royal amnesty by King Juan Carlos in July resulted in the release of about 400 political prisoners, leaving 200-250 still serving jail terms for terrorism.

Oriol is president of the Council of State and a member of the king's Council of the Realm.

Oriol was taken from his Madrid law office by four

Man Stabbed In County Jail

SANTA ANA — A Laguna Beach man remained in good condition at UCI Medical Center today after being stabbed in the chest in Orange County Jail New Year's Day, sheriff's officials reported.

Investigators said Byron J. Detweiler, 30, currently standing trial on suspicion of rape and parole violation, was stabbed about 7 p.m. Saturday.

Deputies said no arrests had been made in connection with the stabbing, although there are "eight or nine suspects." No weapon was found.

Slain Policeman Jeered By Onlookers

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — A police officer who died after being beaten as he tried to break up a street fight was jeered by onlookers who shouted at police to "lay off" because the fight involved a family dispute, police said Sunday.

Patrolman James Gatzounas, 29, died at a Holyoke hospital about an hour after he and two other officers attempted to break up a New Year's Day fight in a residential neighborhood.

Three men — Roberto Rivera, 29, Ramon Nieves, 19, and George Guzman, 17, all of Holyoke — were held for Holyoke District Court arraignment today on murder charges in Gatzounas' death.

Police Chief Francis Sullivan said Gatzounas and Patrolman David Johnson, responding to a disturbance call, attempted to break apart Rivera and Guzman, who were fighting in the street "like they were ready to tear someone apart."

He said 15 to 20 persons looked on, yelling at the officers to stay out of the fight such a move could increase prices by as much as six cents a gallon. Congress has 15 days to override such a presidential order.

— Send to Congress his recommendation for a tax cut, expected to total about $10 billion for individuals, plus tax breaks for corporations.

Congress is not expected to go along, instead leaving any tax cut decision to Jimmy Carter when he takes office.

— Decide whether to reconsider granting blanket amnesty to Vietnam-era draft evaders and military deserters. He is unlikely to alter his previous stand against such a blanket pardon or amnesty.

Mrs. Ford indicated aboard Air Force One she opposes blanket amnesty.

— Introduce legislation proposing that Puerto Rico be admitted as the 51st state. This proposal, made Friday, has been met by considerable opposition both in Congress and in Puerto Rico.

— Decide whether to recommend significant pay raises for members of Congress and 2,500 high federal officials. Ford has indicated he might leave this decision up to Carter.

The President also must complete three documents: the State of the Union message to Congress by Jan. 12, the fiscal 1978 budget to be sent Jan. 17 and an economic message to be sent a day or two later.

Republican politics also will figure prominently on Ford's agenda.

The Republican National Committee will meet late this month to select a successor to Mary Louise Smith, who is resigning as chairman.

Injuries Fatal In Cliff Plunge

SAN DIEGO — A San Juan Capistrano woman died Sunday of injuries she sustained New Year's Eve when she fell off a cliff while attending a party at the Sunset Cliffs area here.

Police said Diana Jean Denzel, 21, was attending a party with William G. Secrist, 31, of Santee. The couple was sitting on the edge of the cliff overlooking the ocean when she apparently lost her balance and grabbed Secrist's leg. Both toppled over the edge.

Secrist was pronounced dead at the scene.

NEWS AGENCY SAYS

'Hundreds' Die In Red China

BONN, West Germany (AP) — "Many hundreds, if not thousands," have died in an uprising by supporters of Mao Tse-tung's widow in Red China's rice-bowl province of Szechwan, the West German news agency DPA reports from Peking.

DPA said Red Chinese sources reported fighting in at least 10 provinces, mostly in south China. The armed forces crushed the centers of the rebellion but bloody disturbances are continuing, the report said.

According to DPA: The sources said no new pockets of resistance developed after the arrest in October of Mao's widow, Chiang Ching, and the other three ultra-leftists on the Politburo. This indicated that the rebellion broke out before the purge.

But the sources stressed that "the government and army still have the task of liquidating the widely dispersed rebellion."

The stronghold of the rebellion was in Szechwan, a province in southwest China with a population of 68 million. There "many hundreds, if not thousands, of persons have died in civil war-like disturbances," the DPA report said.

The rebels reportedly fought with handmade spears and stone axes as well as some guns provided by militia units controlled by Chiang Ching's radical supporters.

"Problems" are also continuing in Paoting, 90 miles south of Peking in Hopeh province, where rebels are holding positions and destroying factories, the German dispatch said.

Unrest was also reported in Hangzhou, on the central coast, and Wuhan, the industrial metropolis 250 miles west of Hangzhou.

IRA Ambushes British Patrol In N. Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Irish Republican Army guerrillas ambushed a British Army patrol in the heart of "bandit country" in southern Armagh county on Sunday, killing one trooper and wounding two others, military headquarters reported.

The killing was the second of the new year. A 15-month-old baby in a terrorist bomb blast Saturday in a Belfast suburb. The deaths brought to at least 1,688 the number known killed in more than seven years of sectarian warfare in Ulster.

An army spokesman said the soldier was gunned down in Crossmaglen, a small town on the border with the Irish Republic. The guerrillas fled with no apparent casualties, he said.

Two of the 11 registered guests escaped in their nightclothes. A third guest, Brenda Miller, 33, of Winchester, Va., was in satisfactory condition with injuries suffered when she was pushed from a window of the burning building by her husband, Theodore, 38, who died in the fire along with seven other guests.

Fireman David Diltman, 21, was in stable condition after falling three stories down an elevator shaft while trying to rescue Luckens.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

In Boston, historic Old North Church sustained smoke damage when a four-alarm fire burned out a nearby apartment house in the North End.

It was from the steeple of Old North Church that Paul Revere arranged for a friend to hang the two lanterns — the "two if by sea" of Longfellow's poem — on April 18, 1775, to warn patriots that British troops were rowing across Boston Harbor. Then Revere set off on his famous ride through the countryside.

The Rev. Robert W. Gollidge, vicar of the church, said smoke spread through the church from the burning apartment house and caused minor damage to the basement, which contains the tombs of 1,100 persons, including victims of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

In Tennessee early Sunday, two fires killed eight persons, including three children.

In Springville, Pat Childs and her three young daughters, Teresa, Mimi and Sandy, died when their split-level frame home was destroyed by a blaze that erupted in a dry Christmas tree, police said.

And four people died in Union City when an apartment was destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin.

Richard Cradeur, 41, and three of his daughters, aged 13 to 4, died in a house fire in Duxon, La., about 10 miles west of Lafayette early Sunday. Police said the four were killed when a burning wall collapsed as the father attempted to rescue the girls. Cause of that fire was unknown.

In Michigan, six children died in a blaze that swept a two-story frame house on the southeast side of Grand Rapids early Saturday.

Teen's Brave Fight With Cancer Ends

But She Enjoyed One Last Wish — Home For Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the very end her mother was at her side, sleeping beside her in the same hospital bed, holding her hand when she died.

After a three-year fight with brain cancer, 15-year-old Melinda Darnell of suburban Alexandria, Va., died quietly in her hospital bed, without awakening her mother.

"She waited until I was asleep," said Mrs. Darnell. "I was only asleep for a few minutes. She waited on me to go to sleep and she waited for me to be there by myself with her. She knew when all those people left, we could be alone," she said.

Throughout the day the teenager was visited by relatives and friends. Several had come New Year's Eve to stay at her bedside as she grew critically worse through the early morning hours.

Doctors said Melinda had lived longer than anyone else with her type of cancer. Her fight for life during those three years had drained the emotional and financial resources of the Douglas Darnell family.

Then came a series of news stories about their struggle and Melinda's faith in God and the Darnells found themselves flooded with cash donations and offers of help from strangers.

Comedian Jerry Lewis was one who came forward with an offer to help. He agreed to star in a recent benefit that had been organized to raise money for Melinda's medical bills. Instead, he remained by her hospital bedside throughout the entire show. Since then he has often called the family to check on her condition.

The singing group, The Platters, also came to visit Melinda New Year's Eve.

Doctors, expecting her death almost momentarily over the last several weeks, had not expected Melinda to live to see Christmas and her family gave her small presents to open each day until the holiday.

But she was alive Christmas Day and she got her biggest wish when doctors allowed her to go home to celebrate with her family.

Then it was back to George Washington University Hospital, where the brain cancer continued to take its toll, continued to weaken her.

In the end, it was her grandfather who noticed she seemed not to be breathing when he came into the hospital room one last time. Nor was her body jerking from the muscle spasms that had wracked her in her last hours.

Doctors and nurses were called and only then did Mrs. Darnell wake from her sleep, still holding her daughter's hand.

Morality Issue Mars Diplomacy

U.S. Ties With Dictatorships Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter's pledge to add a moral dimension to U.S. foreign policy has raised questions about the future of American relations with countries that repress political dissent.

The State Department says six nations for which $3.7 billion in U.S. military assistance and sales have been earmarked this fiscal year have violated human rights. But it recommends that aid to the countries be continued.

Argentina, Haiti, Indonesia, Iran, Peru and the Philippines were the countries dealt with in the report prepared at the request of the House International Relations Committee and released over the weekend by the panel. A committee spokesman said the committee singled out the six countries because there had been widespread reports of human rights violations in all of them.

In recommending continued aid to the nations, the State Department cited such reasons as strategic importance and the maintenance of constructive relations.

Amnesty International, the London-based human rights organization, says it has evidence on political prisoners in 70 countries. It acknowledges, however, that the degree of repression varies widely from country to country.

The organization further concludes that more than 40 countries engaged in the torture of dissidents over the past year.

Until recently, the United States had refrained from taking an activist position on the human rights question, preferring to accept foreign governments as they are.

Over the past year, however, amid worsening repression abroad and under prodding from Carter, the Congress and public opinion, the Ford administration has become increasingly outspoken on the human rights question.

In June, shortly after an informal State Department poll showed widespread support for greater emphasis on human rights, Kissinger said in a speech to the Organization of American States, "A government that tramples on the rights of its citizens denies the purpose of its existence."

Carter outlined his own position two weeks later before a New York audience: "We and our allies, in a creative partnership, can take the lead in establishing and promoting basic global standards of human rights.... By our example, by our utterances and by the various forms of economic and political persuasion available to us, we can quite surely lessen the injustice in this world."

Some officials question the propriety of Carter's proposal that the United States use its economic leverage to obtain improved human rights performance.

Israel Jailers Force-Feeding Arab Inmates

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli jailers are force-feeding about 370 hunger-striking Arab prisoners from Israeli-occupied Arab territories, government officials said Sunday.

The prisoners, in Ashkelon prison near the Gaza Strip, are protesting what they consider intolerable conditions, including overcrowding, poor food and lack of exercise. They have been fasting for 23 days.

Andrew Tschiffel, head of the International Red Cross mission in Israel, visited the prison last week. He said the physical condition of the striking prisoners was good, and "they are fed a good number of calories each day through a tube."

Dozens of wives, sisters and mothers of the prisoners protested violently last week in the Israeli-occupied city of Gaza, demanding visits with the prisoners. A delegation led by Gaza Mayor Rashid al-Shawa inspected the prison and reported to the women.

"The conditions are terrible," al-Shawa told a reporter. "They (the prisoners) are kept 16 men to a cell and are locked up 22 hours a day."

Oil Slick Driven Into Gulf Stream

BOSTON (AP) — The spreading slick of the Argo Merchant oil spill could be drawn into the Gulf Stream within two days, the Coast Guard reported Sunday.

The teardrop-shaped slick, 215 miles long and 100 miles across at its widest point, was being driven toward an eddy of the warm water current by gale force northwesterly winds.

Once into the Gulf Stream, the oil would be carried in a generally northeast direction. But the current splits into several branches in the far North Atlantic, and where the oil actually might end up remains uncertain.

At Trinity Cathedral in Newark, the Rev. Nancy Hatch Wittig, who was ordained with 10 other women in Philadelphia July 29, 1974, in defiance of church law, was accepted as a priest when Bishop George Rath of the Newark Diocese took her hand and said, "I affirm and recognize" her as a priest.

She said she didn't feel any more of a priest after the brief ceremony, which she termed a service for the institution of the church.

Selection Of Longet Jury To Be Lengthy

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, whose trial on charges of killing her lover was to open today, may learn within as little as two weeks whether she goes free or faces up to 10 years in prison, her judge predicts.

But the defense says extensive publicity will prolong the task of picking an unbiased jury to try the 34-year-old singer-actress.

The first 75 in a group of 300 potential jurors were due in court for questioning today in Miss Longet's manslaughter trial in the March 21 death of professional skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich.

Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker said many potential jurors in this Rocky Mountain ski resort may be disqualified because they knew Sabich, Miss Longet or both.

Miss Longet, former wife of singer Andy Williams, is accused of shooting Sabich, 31, who was killed with a .22-caliber pistol in the $250,000 home they shared on a mountainside above Aspen.

Miss Longet contends the gun she was holding fired accidentally.

Among possible witnesses is Noel Williams, 12, one of Miss Longet's three children by Williams. The girl reportedly was in the house when Sabich was shot.

To obtain a guilty verdict, the law requires prosecutors to show Miss Longet "consciously disregarded a substantial and unjustifiable risk" to Sabich in the shooting.

Defense attorney Ronald D. Austin said Andy Williams, who has remained friends with his ex-wife, would attend at least part of the trial. He was at her side during earlier court appearances.

Jury selection in the 70-seat courtroom was scheduled to last until the middle of next week. Potential jurors were to appear in groups of 75 today, Wednesday, Friday and next Tuesday.

Pitkin County District Court Judge George E. Lohr estimated over the weekend that the trial would last two to four weeks. But Austin, sharing duties with Charles V. Weedman, said he feared heavy prior news coverage could make the trial take "longer than usual." Austin said he believed Miss Longet could get a fair trial.

The French-born Miss Longet, who is free on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond, stayed with friends in Aspen, including singer John Denver, after the shooting. She later moved into a $153,000 house she purchased last spring, Austin said.

If convicted, she faces a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Lohr ordered certain material withheld from the trial, but prosecutors maintain that won't weaken their case. Tucker wanted to use a diary and results of medical tests given to Miss Longet the night of the shooting.

The diary reportedly showed that her relationship with Sabich had become strained. Miss Longet said at a June hearing that for at least the month before the shooting, she was seeking another place to live.

Lohr said Miss Longet's rights were violated when the diary was seized and when she was ordered by authorities to submit to blood and urine tests. Tucker said he was trying to determine whether Miss Longet had been drinking the day of the shooting.

Arms Superiority Target Of USSR?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld and Central Intelligence Agency Director George Bush suggested on Sunday that the Soviet Union may have abandoned an arms policy of parity with the United States to seek weapons superiority.

They declined direct responses on separate broadcast interview programs as to the content of the latest National Intelligence Estimate compiled by the CIA. Unattributed press reports concerning the document prepared for the President said the Soviets are working toward arms superiority.

Rumsfeld on the ABC program "Issues and Answers" was asked if the CIA's survey was in agreement with the Pentagon's Defense Intelligence Agency, which had been saying for some time that the Russians were seeking superiority.

"I can say this much that it is true that the judgments within the entire U.S. intelligence community have closed and come closer together and that is good," he said. On the CBS program "Face the Nation" Bush was asked for his personal assessment as to whether the Russians were seeking superiority or that the United States may be inferior in view of current trends.

"There are some worrisome signs that are being looked at very, very closely, worrisome signs that are being reviewed with a ferocity or intensity this year that perhaps weren't examined with the same intensity last year," Bush said.

Rumsfeld said it was his own opinion that over the past 15 to 20 years the Soviet military trend has been adverse to the United States. "If those trends continue and are not arrested and reversed, it would have the effect of injecting a fundamental instability in the world," he said.

Rumsfeld added that it is a fact the Russians have steadily expanded its military capabilities, providing them with more options, while the United States has been decreasing its military spending.

NY Magazine Purchase Blocked

NEW YORK (AP) — Australian press baron Rupert Murdoch has been blocked at least until Wednesday from purchasing a major share of New York Magazine.

At the request of Clay Felker, president of the magazine, U.S. District Judge Thomas Griesa signed an order blocking the purchase.

Murdoch, who recently bought the New York Post for a reported $31 million, was not at home when the judge's order arrived.

Neither was the man who wants to sell his stock — Carter Burden, a socialist, politician and former son-in-law of CBS Chairman William Paley. He owns 24 per cent of the magazine's stock.

Felker, owner of about 10 per cent, submitted to the judge a 1974 agreement which he claims gives both him and Burden first refusal of each other's stock in case of a sale.

New York Magazine owns the weekly Village Voice newspaper and the Los Angeles based New West Magazine.

China's Press Sees Rosy, Red Future

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's leaders have promised a completely new situation of political "liveliness" and economic prosperity in the aftermath of a foiled bid for power by Communist radicals.

"The situation is steadily improving, and will develop faster and better than people can now anticipate," said a New Year's editorial in the newspapers People's Daily and Liberation Army Daily and in the party theoretical journal Red Flag.

The editorial stressed stability and unity and said production would expand and the lives of Red China's 800 million people would improve accordingly.

It re-emphasized the goal declared by the late Premier Chou En-lai to make Red China an advanced nation by the end of this century. It said this year's central task would be to thoroughly expose and criticize the radical leaders, vilified in the press as the "Gang of Four."

The four are Chiang Ching, widow of party Chairman Mao Tse-tung; party Vice Chairman Wang Hung-wen; Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao, and Politburo member Yao Wen-yuan.

They were arrested a month after Mao died Sept. 9 and have been accused in the Red Chinese media of hampering production, ignoring the people's welfare and creating chaos and confusion. Their aim allegedly was to create so much disorder that they could easily seize control of the Communist party and the government.

The Red Chinese media have been calling for greater efforts to make up for production loss because of the radicals' "sabotage."

The editorial suggested that intellectuals henceforth be encouraged to contribute their talents to boosting production or enriching the arts, without fear of the kind of political harassment they faced in the past.

Boy Gives $5 To 'Street Walker'

DALLAS (AP) — Tony and Joanie Hernandez, already unhappy because their 8-year-old son was growing up in a prostitute-ridden neighborhood, became really irate when they learned the boy had given $5 to a woman who was soliciting money from a group of men.

Mrs. Hernandez said she sent her son Jimmy to a grocery store last week and he came back with no change. The Cedar Springs area where the family lives has gotten a lot of attention recently as a place where hookers work in high concentrations.

"Jimmy said he gave it to a lady who was walking the street near the grocery store," Mrs. Hernandez said. "He said he saw some men give her some money and they started teasing him for watching. So he felt he had to give her some too."

"I blew up," she said. "The neighbors all came over and we agreed to get up a petition. We had to do something. This was going to far."

But the father didn't wait for a petition and took Jimmy back to the scene. "I wanted to find that woman," he said. "I couldn't believe she was soliciting money from a child."

Hernandez and three angry neighbors also went to the hooker hangout and sure enough, Jimmy spotted her right away.

"It was the Salvation Army lady," said Hernandez. "I almost died. We all gave her money and went home."

Few Attend Service Of First Woman Priest

By The Associated Press
Two Episcopal women have been ordained priests in official church ceremonies, and a third, ordained against church rules 2½ years ago, has been officially recognized as a priest.

But not all the congregations were happy.

The Rev. Jacqueline Means, the first woman priest ordained under the Episcopal Church's rule change that went into effect Jan. 1, faced an Indianapolis congregation only two-thirds its usual size when she celebrated Communion Saturday. The Rev. Mrs. Means, 40-year-old wife of a truck driver and mother of four, said the discord in the church over her priesthood troubles her.

But she added, "We've been comfortable for an awfully long time... Nobody ever said it was easy to be a Christian."

Church members estimated that 75 persons attended the service. Usually 90 to 125 worshippers are in church, they said. "We have lost some members," said Shirley Bradbury, a member of the vestry. "Some today are missing for the first time to my knowledge. Some have not come since Jackie came."

Commenting on the absence of some regular churchgoers, the Rev. John Eastwood Jr., rector of the church, said, "What they're saying is that the faith as they have understood it is not the faith being practiced here."

"I assumed that they all agreed (with the ordination). But now some people are saying 'I disagree.'"

Patricia Merchant Park became the first ordained woman priest in the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia without protest Sunday.

Friends rang bells and 800 supporters watched as her bishop, the Rt. Rev. Robert Bruce Hall, officiated in Alexandria.

The Rev. Ms. Park was co-director of the Coalition for the Ordination of Women, an organization that worked for three years to change church rules. The rules were changed at the church convention last September.

PAM NEAL IN WAIKIKI CAPS A MOUNT FUJI SNOWMAN
Real Snow Was Flown From Japan For New Year Stunt

Katane, who served as Sato's interpreter and aide-de-camp. "So many old men who came from Japan, they were happy to see it."

The project was equally entertaining for local people, who seldom if ever see snow, and for tourists, who presumably spent their hard-earned money to flee the white stuff. Kids nibbled happily on stolen handfuls of snow.

Sato brought the snow for one special old man he had met on the same beach last April. The old man, who had come to Hawaii from Japan decades ago, confessed a wish to see the snows of Fuji once more.

Although Sato never asked the old man's name, he determined to grant the wish. Katane wrote to Gov. George R. Ariyoshi last week, informing him that the snow was coming and asking his help in finding the old man.

Katane's letter was duly publicized but the old man was not among the crowd that kibitzed as the snowman was built, which proved to be no easy task. It took an hour to move the snow 50 feet from a sidewalk to the beach. Another hour later the sculpture looked like a big slab — a frosty tower of babel.

Working with table knives and fists, Sato and his friends hacked out a crude head, complete with eyes and nose. But with the sun hot and high and the snow melting, they gave up before adding arms.

The project, Katane said, cost about $9,000.

Was it worth it?

He didn't answer, but he and his cohorts linked arms in front of the snowman, smiled broadly and Katane yelled, "Hey, everybody, take a picture."

Sadat's Youngest Daughter Weds

President ANWAR SADAT'S 16-year-old daughter, JIHAN, and her bridegroom celebrated their wedding Sunday at a modest reception of tea and sandwiches, Cairo newspapers reported. The reception, though considered a big social event in Egypt, was described as modest because of the country's poor economic condition.

The Rev. BILLY GRAHAM has entered the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., for treatment of phlebitis, an aide said. T. W. Wilson, an official with Graham's evangelistic association, said the gospel evangelist will undergo tests today. He did not disclose any details concerning Graham's condition. Graham has suffered from phlebitis in the past. The disease is an inflammation and clogging of a vein, often in the leg.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

MICHELE CARDINAL PELLEGRINO, considered one of the most progressive Roman Catholic cardinals, has announced his resignation as archbishop of Turin for reasons of bad health. The 73-year-old Italian cardinal was said to be one of the closest followers of the late Pope John XXIII's policy of liberalizing the church. Cardinal Pellegrino said during a New Year's mass in Turin Cathedral that his health was poor and he had submitted his resignation to Pope Paul VI, who made him a cardinal in 1967.

Millionaire press magnate EMILIEN AMAURY, publisher of the strike-bound daily Parisien Libere, died at his home Sunday of injuries suffered in a riding accident. He was 67. Police said Amaury, riding in Chantilly Forest earlier in the day, suffered fatal head and throat injuries when his horse bolted and threw him against a tree trunk. Amaury, who also published numerous other dailies and periodicals, was one of the most powerful and controversial figures in the French press.

Communist party chairman HUA KUO-FENG and other Red Chinese leaders staged a lavish welcome in Peking Sunday for the military strongman of Bangladesh, Maj. Gen. ZIAUR RAHMAN, Peking's Hsinhua news agency reported. Rahman and Hua reviewed an honor guard at the airport and were cheered by dancing children and crowds waving bouquets and shouting slogans, according to the Hsinhua broadcast monitored here.

Publisher RALPH GINZBURG said Sunday in New York that he is launching a "hell raising" national monthly tabloid called Extra! Ginzburg, publisher of the consumer-oriented monthly Monesworth, said the new publication will be sent to subscribers next month. Its first press run will be 85,000.

Robber, 72, Blows Heist In Argument

SEATTLE (AP) — When the 72-year-old customer pulled out a gun and demanded money, the drive-in restaurant waitress thought he was joking.

When she smiled and ignored his demand, the elderly bandit fired.

Fortunately, the pistol carried blanks, police said, and waitress Karen Dain was uninjured. But realizing the man wasn't joking, she began to hand over money from the cash register.

A coworker, Loren Cole, pointed out that since the gun hadn't fired real bullets, there was no need to cooperate. The bandit demanded money, anyway.

"I kept pulling the money out of the cash register and putting it back in," the waitress said.

When Cole and the man began to struggle with each other, the waitress fled to summon police. Cole and the bandit were still arguing when police arrived.

Buried Arsenals, Hate Literature Leave Probers Guessing

By RICHARD SALTUS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although buried weapons caches of unprecedented size have been dug from the Mojave Desert recently, authorities say they would be surprised if the trail led to active paramilitary groups of any magnitude.

A decade ago in Southern California a few small bands of men preached hatred of Jews, blacks and Reds, and gathered weapons for the day when they would have to repel Communist invaders.

At their collective peak, they probably comprised no more than a few hundred active "soldiers."

Today, they are largely gone — dead or scattered to the four winds, or keeping the lowest of profiles.

Yet huge buried arsenals — tons of rifles and bombs and machine guns — recently have come to light when desert sands shifted in the wind. Among the munitions were training manuals and aged hate literature, anti-black, anti-Jew, anti-Communist.

Are they the abandoned armories of one of the paramilitary groups such as the Minutemen, the California Rangers, the Christian Defense League that apparently dissolved long ago? Or is Donald Grove Wiggins, an Ontario foundry operator on whose land in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties the caches were found, a link to a still-active private army?

If the latter is true, "Probably in reality we are not talking about great numbers of people" said Pat Casey, assistant director of the organized crime unit of the state attorney general's office. He said his office has seen little evidence of ultraconservative groups holding maneuvers or mounting any public activity in recent years.

Howard Jarvis, a long-time conservative politician who knew many of the leaders of ultra-right groups in the 1960s, recalls, "They were always trying to get my support, and they sent me their literature. But I don't even hear of a damn one of them any more."

"It's all conjecture at this point," said Sheriff's Detective Ron Moya, a leader of the massive investigation. "There is nothing that ties Wiggins to any particular organization."

Wiggins, his mother, his halfbrother and stepfather (who has since died) have been charged in connection with the weapons finds that began Dec. 5 when shifting desert sands in northwestern Los Angeles County revealed a concrete arms storage bunker.

The only link — and a very tenuous one — to any organization whatsoever, say authorities, is the discovery that Wiggins once attended meetings held by the late Rev. Wesley Swift, a former Ku Klux Klan organizer who was a key figure in several paramilitary racist groups.

The groups in general had the same purpose: to get ready for the day when Communists or civil rights activists would have to be fought to save the country.

But investigators say Wiggins claims he and Swift were not like-minded, and that he never joined any such group, although Swift formerly owned land near the desert plot owned by Wiggins, where some of the munitions were buried.

In the rundown house in Ontario where Wiggins lived, there was found a huge amount of literature on flying saucers, gold mining and other esoteric subjects.

Also found was a book by Wiggins called "A New Attack on Freedom; Don't Let Them Take Our Guns Away." That kind of declaration, however, is common to many groups and individuals.

Wiggins claims he was keeping the arms for a mysterious "Jeff Martin" to whom he was obligated by reason of a $17,000 loan. Authorities are still seeking Martin, so far in vain.

Investigators say they currently believe there is no connection between the arsenals found on three sites in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties owned by Wiggins and two hauls of arms seized in a mountain cabin and at roadside dumps in San Bernardino County.

The Wiggins caches, which authorities say included weapons buried as early as 1963 and as late as 1971, in some ways fit information contained in a 1965 state attorney general's report on paramilitary groups. Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess said at a news conference that copies of "The Thunderbolt" were found in the caches. The attorney general's report mentions "The Thunderbolt" as an organ of the National States Rights Party, an antiblack, anti-Jewish group that urged its members to attend Rev. Swift's churches.

A Minuteman manual quoted in the attorney general's report said "the mortar is one of the best light weight heavy fire weapons available to insurgent or guerilla forces..." and also recommended stockpiling bazookas (rocket launchers), real and practice hand grenades and submachine guns. Some of each of those weapon types was found in the caches.

However, detective Moya said no Minuteman manuals were among the literature discovered in the bunkers.

The Antelope Valley, Ontario and western San Bernardino County, where the caches were uncovered, were all known areas of paramilitary activity.

Nevertheless, authorities say it will take extensive tracing of the weapons, searching for fingerprints and questioning of persons possibly involved before the puzzle can be solved — if it is possible at all.

Why did the groups fade away, and where did their members go?

The attorney general's report notes that maintaining interest of members was difficult, and many fell by the wayside.

Also, notes Tom McDonald of the Los Angeles County District Attorney's office, who worked on the report, "Some of their people were arrested and put away. Local authorities came to know them and it was difficult for them to go on maneuvers. Federal enforcement got tougher; some members had trouble with the law in other matters."

Robert DePugh, national head of the Minutemen, was convicted on firearms charges in the late 1960s and vowed that henceforth the organization would go underground. Troy Houghton, California head of the group, also was convicted but then disappeared from view. The convictions of both men were later reversed.

But even if a lingering few of the private soldiers remain, says Casey of the organized crime unit, "15 or 16 dedicated people can cause a lot of havoc with guns and explosives. We shouldn't play the importance down too much; it doesn't take very many."

But even if a lingering few of the private soldiers remain, says Casey of the organized crime unit, "15 or 16 dedicated people can cause a lot of havoc with guns and explosives. We shouldn't play the importance down too much; it doesn't take very many."

Price Ceiling On Dowries Set

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The inflation-stricken Bellemeir tribe has imposed a ceiling on bridal money.

The English language daily Arab News said dowries for virgins are now limited to $2,900 and for widows and divorcees to $2,300.

The newspaper said the move was prompted by a decline in the number of marriages due to the high cost of brides, which had reached 20,000 Saudi riyals, or $5,800.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will print this suggestion for people who spend more money in bars than they can afford:

Since you cannot refrain from drinking, why not start a saloon in your own home? Be the only customer and you will not have to buy a license.

Give your wife $55 to buy a case of whiskey. There are 240 drinks in a case. Buy all your drinks from your wife at 60 cents a drink, and in 12 days (when the case is gone) your wife will have $89 to put in the bank and $55 to buy another case.

If you live 10 years and continue to buy all your whiskey from your wife and then die in your boots, your widow will have $27,085.47 on deposit—enough to bring up your children, pay off the mortgage on the house, marry a decent man and forget she ever knew a bum like you.

THINKING MAN

DEAR THINKING: You sound more like a "drinking" man than a thinking man. What man is going to give his wife $55 to buy a case of whiskey, and then pay her 60 cents for a drink?

The way I figure it, the man will be out $55 every 12 days, and when he goes on Social Security, he'll either die of starvation or cirrhosis of the liver—whichever comes first.

DEAR ABBY: I am a male who has just read an article written by a woman who uses the word "macho" to describe men who have an exaggerated sense of male pride.

What would you call a female who has an exaggerated sense of female pride and delights in making men feel like little boys?

In other words, Abby, what word can be used to describe the female counterpart of the "macho" male?

AROUSED

DEAR AROUSED: How about "machete"? (An ideal weapon for castration.)

DEAR ABBY: I swore, like everyone else, that a grown man writing to you had to be the silliest thing in the world, but I have no one else to go to for a solution.

I head a department where I work, and a coworker of mine who has an eye for the ladies is my problem. He's having an affair with one of the secretaries here, and not only is this guy married, she is, too. Plus, she is one of his wife's best friends.

He has had other affairs, but I've always looked the other way, figuring it was none of my business. But this time, the work in my department is affected. He cuts his working hours short and makes excuses to be around her instead of tending to his business.

I like this guy, but I am responsible to my higher-ups. Do I look the other way again, talk to him, blab to the boss or wise up the wife?

WHAT NOW?

DEAR WHAT: Tell your friend that his lapses on the job are beginning to show—for reasons that are no secret around the office. Furthermore, if he doesn't shape up he's likely to be shipped out.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

your horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, JANUARY 4

Your birthday today: From an active phase of reorganization early this year, you settle into a steady quest for prosperity. Much success is promised. Relationships require reconsideration; adjustments are fairly easy. Today's natives are good at mathematics, economic theories, planning and management. Those born this year have vivid imaginations, will need a stable environment, opportunity to check their concepts against reality without undue criticism or uncritical praise.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Build momentum by added effort. If you carry others' responsibilities, make it part of the record. Reasonable reaction to provocation pays.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Adopt new work methods, extra equipment. Resolutions are reinforced to the way you reply to social invitations, temptations.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Finances favor people who owe you payment. Your own budget is tight as unplanned expenses soar. Evening brings an opportunity for negotiation.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Take full initiative in any area open for free movement, just hold revisions on money until afternoon. Your persuasive powers run near maximum.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Reflect on what you're about to change in daily living habits. Accurate communication isn't automatic, results from keeping the message simple.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Bring your achievements to attention. The personal touch is important; vicarious experience offers little joy. Tonight promises lively romance.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Work takes a better turn; others will pitch in once you get rolling. Don't suggest ideas to people in authority; their hands are full already.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Pursue legal matters, refinancing, bids for new work, all in the open. If it's a secret, something is wrong with the project or the timing.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Your business is nobody's but your own, although friends try to get involved. Connections make a difference, but expect nothing of a new contact.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Accept promises with grace, but definite reservations. Speak your deeper feelings; if you find yourself corrected, don't take it personally.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Seek a pilot-project approach to problems. You see more than suspected once experiments start. Ask no favors, stick to the practical aspects.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: People who fancy they're important assert themselves. Distance protects you from misunderstandings. Taking the familiar for granted upsets progress.

PLO Chieftain Endorses Arab, Jew Homelands

TEL AVIV (AP) — A Palestine Liberation Organization chieftain has endorsed an Israeli peace group's manifesto that declares both Jews and Arabs have the right to independent homelands, the leader of the Israeli group said Sunday.

But an Israeli government spokesman said the Palestinian guerrilla group's charter still calls for the destruction of Israel and "everything else is propaganda." Israel opposes even informal contacts with the PLO.

Matityahu Peled, a reserve general in the Israeli army who heads the Council for Israeli-Palestinian Peace, told reporters his group held a series of about two dozen meetings in Paris with members of the PLO, an umbrella group headed by Yasir Arafat. He did not identify the Palestinians.

"This is an historic development," said Peled, who added that the meetings began in September and resulted in a joint statement Jan. 1.

Peled said a member of the PLO leadership affirmed in the statement "that the PLO is dedicated to the policy of striving for a peaceful solution of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict on the basis of mutual acceptance of the principle of freedom, sovereignty and security for both people."

He said the PLO leader endorsed the council's manifesto that states both Jews and Palestinian Arabs have national identities and rights to independent homelands in Palestine. It also says Israel's borders should be the lines that prevailed before the 1967 Middle East war, with changes as agreed among the combatants.

Jim: "Dick Miller's new book 'More Bridge Brilliance and Blunders' might give us a chance to show a few of each."

Oswald: "Remember the story about the man who started a rumor and wound up believing it himself. Today's West decided to fool declarer, but he fooled his partner at the same time."

Jim: "South slam-banged his way into six notrump in a match-point game. West opened the eight of spades. East took his ace after dummy played the queen and led a spade back. South could count 11 easy tricks and normally would gather in the 12th by means of a heart finesse to make his notrump slam and beat all the players who wrapped up six diamonds."

Oswald: "Anyway, South started to run off the diamonds and on the first diamond West threw the seven of hearts. South noted this and assumed that West was showing the king of hearts. Maybe a squeeze would develop. South ran the diamonds while discarding two hearts. Then he came to his hand with the king of clubs, cashed the last high spade and entered dummy with the ace of clubs. He thought a while, led a heart with every intention of trying to drop West's unguarded king when lo-and-behold East played the king. He had believed his partner's signal and chucked two of his hearts."

The answer is that it makes no difference, although in most games the first defender to win a trick keeps it and all later tricks.

Israeli Peace Sailor Allowed In Canal

ISMAILIA, Egypt (AP) — Israeli peace sailor Abie Nathan finally made it Sunday, guiding his 400-ton "Shalom" through the Suez Canal.

It was a symbolic move at the start of what Egyptian President Anwar Sadat says will be a year of peace in the Middle East. Officials said the decision to let the former Tel Aviv restaurateur and peace promoter through the waterway was made at the highest levels of the Egyptian government.

Nathan's ship, normally stationed in the Mediterranean, has a pirate radio station that propagandizes for peace in the Middle East.

It was not known in this town at the canal's midpoint whether Nathan would be allowed to sail back from the Red Sea once he made his north-south passage.

Technically he could have sailed in the canal because his Panamanian-registered ship does not fly the Israeli flag and Nathan is not officially its captain. But he was rebuffed on four occasions and arrested once in previous attempts to cruise the Suez.

Nathan cabled Sadat asking for permission to sail through the canal on New Year's Day.

"It will be a happy day indeed if peace can be brought closer this way," Nathan said over his floating radio station as he anchored off Port Said, at the northern end of the waterway.

He said he received no answer from Sadat.

ABIE NATHAN ALLOWED BY EGYPT TO SAIL SHALOM THROUGH SUEZ CANAL
 Move Seen As Symbolic Gesture For Start Of Sadat's 'Year Of Peace'

Nathan did not get the glorious peace trip he envisioned.

The antiwar crusader had said he wanted to distribute candy and flowers to Egyptian children along the banks of the Suez. He also told his radio listeners he wanted to pick up a load of Egyptian reporters and take them to Eilat, in Israel, for a tour of the Jewish state. He also wanted to bring back a group of Israeli reporters to visit Egypt.

The "peace ship" was searched in Port Said, just like any other vessel passing through the canal, and additional security measures were in effect, Egyptian officials said.

An unarmed Egyptian policeman was aboard the Shalom as the small white ship chugged into Lake Timsah at Ismailia. Egyptian security officials stood on the canal's banks.

As the ship sailed past, a member of Nathan's 16-man multinational crew waved at the onlookers — a few soldiers, five civilians and two foreign reporters. No one waved back.

The Shalom was 31st in a convoy of 32 ships. The last vessel was an Egyptian navy warship escorting the peace ship as it moved beneath Egyptian military positions on the sandy banks.

The crossing was not the first time an Israeli-connected ship has been let through the canal since Egypt and Israel signed their second Sinai disengagement agreement in 1975. Other third-country vessels have carried cargo to and from Israel without stopping at Egyptian ports.

"But frankly Nathan is a special case. He is a pain in the neck," one Egyptian official here said. He and other sources declined use of their names.

"Things have changed," since Nathan first tried to see the late Egyptian President Gamal Abdul Nasser in 1966, said one Egyptian source. He was referring to Sadat's current drive to open peace negotiations with Israel.

Carter's U.N. Envoy Rips Moynihan

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Carter's choice to represent the United States at the United Nations said Sunday that a predecessor, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, demeaned "an entire continent's leadership" when he blasted Uganda's Idi Amin and other black African leaders.

Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., answered "my view is that I shouldn't comment on any national leader" when asked on NBC's "Meet The Press," what he thought of the Ugandan president.

The Senate, where Moynihan was recently elected from New York, will be voting later this month on Carter's nomination of Young.

Moynihan called Amin a "racist murderer" and added that "it was no accident" that the Ugandan headed the Organization of African Unity.

The then-ambassador was replying to a call by Amin for the extinction of Israel.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger publicly disassociated himself from the extension of Moynihan's criticism of Amin to the other African leaders in the OAU.

"I do not consider him a typical representative of that organization," Kissinger said.

He added that he shared Moynihan's displeasure with Amin.

Young's view was similar to Kissinger's in that he said Moynihan "went too far" in extending his criticism from Amin to other Africans.

Later in the program, Young said, "I don't approve of any of the policies of Idi Amin" and said he would support use of American power to "rectify policies" in black Africa as well as in white-ruled countries of southern Africa.

"I see the United States moving towards a very aggressive policy to bring about majority rule in southern Africa," he said. "I don't see sanctions, but I see an arms embargo, of course."

An arms embargo has been in force since 1964.

Young said the United States has not recently been a U.N. leader and added, "What I hope to do is assume a leadership role in the United Nations. In the Carter administration, you will get leadership from the United States."

The ambassador-designate said when nominated that he would play an independent role in the job and not merely parrot instructions from Washington.

Asked about that statement, Young said, "If I participate in the decision-making process, I'm willing to be influenced by other members of the Cabinet and certainly by the president."

He said he expected to take part in such Cabinet meetings once a week.

Uganda replaces jets wrecked by Israelis in Entebbe raid.

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — President Idi Amin has commissioned a squadron of Soviet fighter planes to replace those destroyed in last July's Israeli raid on Entebbe airport, Uganda Radio said Sunday.

The government-controlled radio said the commissioning ceremony took place Saturday at Entebbe Airport and that Soviet-trained Ugandan pilots put the supersonic MIG21 jets through their paces before an audience of diplomats, military officers and government officials.

Amin "paid glowing tribute to the Soviet Union for having trained Ugandan supersonic pilots to such high standards," the radio said. The Uganda leader said the planes "will not be used for aggressive purposes," the radio reported.

Ugandan officials have said 11 MIGs were destroyed last July 4 when Israeli commandos rescued more than 100 Jewish hostages held at Entebbe by pro-Palestinian guerrillas. The hostages were aboard an airliner hijacked by the terrorists and flown to Entebbe.

Uganda Radio said Amin announced that Moscow has replaced "all the military equipment" destroyed in the raid. The radio added that the raid interrupted the air force's training program because its few trainer planes were destroyed.

Amin, whose 49th birthday was Sunday, ordered a "crash program of military training ... in the army, air force and marines" after the raid, the report said. Amin said that program "is still continuing," but the radio gave no details.

5 Italy Leftists Demand Control Over Vatican

ROME (AP) — Five leftist members of the Italian parliament demanded Sunday that the government stop the Vatican's "massive capitalistic operations."

In a parliamentary motion, the five deputies deplored the Vatican's business deals and the Roman Catholic Church's huge real estate holdings, reportedly amounting to at least one-fourth of all property in Rome. The Vatican makes "scandalous use of its own property," they said.

The motion by four members of the leftist Radical party and one Socialist came after an investigative report in an Italian weekly last week called the Vatican "a real empire" in land holdings in and around the Italian capital.

The magazine, the independent L'Europeo, said the Vatican and its religious orders seem to have embarked on a policy of divesting themselves of old religious buildings at windfall profits and without paying taxes.

Some historic buildings have ended up as modern hotels and office complexes, the magazine said.

The Vatican has withheld comment on the magazine report, which was headlined "Vatican Inc."

Property owned by the Vatican and the Roman Catholic Church's religious orders range from buildings in the heart of Rome's historic center to more than 5,100 acres on the outskirts of the city, the magazine said. "To give a commercial value to this empire is impossible," it added.

The Vatican's wealth has long been a matter of speculation and has been one of the world's best-kept secrets.

Supermarkets Ring Up Price Hikes As Year Ends-Survey

The old year ended with a sharp round of price hikes for supermarket shoppers who found that increases in the cost of coffee during 1976 wiped out savings on other items, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood products, checked the prices on March 1973 at one supermarket in each of 13 cities and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The increases during December were predictable. The cost of a pound of chopped chuck went up at the checklist store in seven cities, reflecting smaller supplies of cattle. Coffee prices continued to rise, topping $3 a pound at the checklist store in one city, but still lagging behind the wholesale prices.

The AP survey showed that the marketbasket bill rose at the checklist store in 12 cities last month, up an average of 1.1 per cent. The only decline, 0.9 per cent, was in Boston — which also reported the only drop in coffee prices. On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores went up 4.3 per cent in December.

During November, in contrast, prices remained stable on a nationwide basis. The marketbasket bill was up at the checklist store in six cities, down in six and unchanged in one for an overall decrease of a tenth of a per cent.

Comparing prices at the start of January 1977 with those a year earlier, the AP survey found the marketbasket bill was up at the checklist store in 10 cities and down in three, for an overall increase of 3.5 per cent. The government had predicted that food prices alone would rise 3 to 4 per cent last year.

The key factor in the increase was the cost of coffee, which has been rising ever since a frost damaged the crop in Brazil in the summer of 1975. Coffee prices went up at the checklist store in 12 cities over the year. (The requested size and brand of coffee was not available for comparison at the checklist store in the 13th city.)

If coffee is removed from the Jan. 1, 1976 and Jan. 1, 1977 marketbasket totals for the 12 cities where it was available, the AP survey shows there was an overall price decrease during the year instead of an increase. The average drop was 3.4 per cent.

The National Coffee Association said recently that wholesale prices for beans have risen 218 per cent since July 1975. Wholesale prices for ground coffee have followed. Folger's, the nation's second largest processor, recently raised its price to retailers to $3.08 a pound for regular ground coffee; General Foods, the number one processor, boosted its wholesale price to $2.91.

Special promotions and the time lag have protected consumers from the full impact of the coffee increases. But the latest AP survey showed that the average increase in coffee prices over the year was 63 per cent. In Salt Lake City, the price at the checklist store for a pound of coffee went from $1.54 at the start of 1976 to $3.19 this January. Prices elsewhere currently range from $2.09 to $2.79.

Some people, including New York City's commissioner of consumer affairs and the heads of two supermarket chains, have urged a boycott of coffee to force the price down. Coffee consumption has been declining steadily for several years, but there has been no indication so far that the call for a boycott has had any impact.

The higher prices for chopped chuck were an indication of things to come. Cattle supplies were abundant at the start of 1976 and beef prices declined through much of the year. The price paid to ranchers for their animals also declined and the cattlemen cut back production. Beef prices started rising again and the Agriculture Department predicted that the cost of a pound of beef would go up an average of 10 cents next year.

A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed more increases during December than during November. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

Nov. Dec. Up 22,636.9 Down 29,711.3 Unchanged 44,648.7 Unavailable 3.13.1

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what per cent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not attempt to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that cookies cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease — saying a particular item went up 10 per cent in one city and 6 per cent in another.

The USDA marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of statistics. It includes 65 retail items of U.S. farm-produced foods in amounts that theoretically could supply a household of 3.2 persons for one year. The department, which draws on information from 1,500 supermarkets in compiling its report, says the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in costs.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar. The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Regulation Of Pesticides 'Chaotic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional staff study concluded Sunday that federal regulation of pesticides is in "a state of chaos."

As a result, it said, "the American people cannot be reasonably assured that the federal government is protecting them from pesticides that pose a serious threat to their health." The report accuses the Environmental Protection Agency of relying heavily on safety test data submitted by manufacturers as long as 25 years ago and failing to take corrective action in the face of warnings that the data may be faulty and incomplete. "EPA's failure to validate testing data for purposes of re-registering pesticides has caused needless and costly delay in determining to what extent pesticides currently on the market cause such adverse effects as cancer, birth defects and interference with biological reproduction," the report said. The report was based on a

10-month investigation by the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on administrative practice and procedure.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., subcommittee chairman, said in a foreword that he recognized the "constraints" under which EPA was operating in trying to meet an October 1976 deadline set by Congress in 1972 for re-registering some 50,000 pesticide products currently on the market. EPA was unable, he said, to obtain the personnel and resources to accomplish this "enormous task."

"But," he said, "EPA must shoulder the major share of the blame. Not until very recently did EPA inform the Congress and the public that these constraints forced the agency into the untenable and dangerous decision not to evaluate and validate much of the safety testing data in the re-registration process."

He said it is "most encouraging," however, that EPA has now taken steps to improve the regulation of pesticides.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train, in a Dec. 23 letter to Kennedy, denied misleading Congress about personnel problems.

He said the strategy of concentrating on the most suspect chemicals was announced publicly when it was adopted in 1974. Currently, he said, "we have screened out 140 compounds, representing approximately 15,000 products, for our most thorough evaluation," which is underway.

The staff report said that although the re-registration deadline has now been extended to October 1977, EPA estimates that it will take three years to complete the task. And, it said, the agency has not yet begun a systematic review of more than 4,000 tolerances previously set for accumulation of residue on agricultural products.

Carter Invites Blacks To Plains church

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter evoked memories of his childhood in a nearly all-black community Sunday as he brought the son and daughter of a black bishop to worship services at the Plains Baptist Church.

They were accompanied by two bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal Church and together with their families and other blacks attending comprised the largest number of blacks to attend services here since the church was integrated officially late in 1976.

The Rev. William D. Johnson, who with his sister, Mrs. Fannie Johnson Hill, grew up with Carter in the hamlet of Archery some four miles from Plains, said they had been invited to attend Carter's inauguration. They are the son and daughter of the late Bishop William D. Johnson of the AME church.

"They were the most distinguished family in our neighborhood," said Carter. "I kind of grew up with them," he said.

Mrs. Hill credited Carter's mother, 78-year-old "Miss Lillian" Carter, who was once a local nurse, for having saved her son at childbirth when doctors had despaired of his life. She said her son grew to manhood and is now a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Air Force. Carter introduced his guests before the morning lesson in the church's men's Bible class. They included Bishop

William Reed Wilkes and H.I. Bearden. Late Sunday, the President-elect and his wife, Rosalynn, visited the hospital room of his mother, 78-year-old "Miss Lillian" Carter. "She's feeling real good today, the best I've seen her yet," Carter said

Mummers Hold Gala Parade Despite Freeze

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia's never-say-die Mummers were out in force Sunday, braving subfreezing temperatures to parade up Broad Street in their extravagant regalia.

The freezing cold and blustery winds had forced postponement of the annual New Year's Day Mummers Parade on Saturday. The parade has been a Philadelphia institution since 1901 and Mummers say it traces back to the Middle Ages.

Clear skies brought warmer temperatures, and police estimated that 100,000 persons lined up along the parade route as the long-awaited bands marched into view.

Crowds were slow to gather Sunday along the estimated 20-block parade route, but some spectators came early with blankets, chairs and flasks. By 8 a.m. the first comic divisions, the original Mummers, could be seen headed toward City Hall from South Philadelphia.

The comic marchers were dressed as African warriors, spacemen, chorus girls, angels, devils, clowns and every type of character, both real and imagined.

One man-turned-belle strutted head high as the spirit of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, the "grand old lady of Broad Street." Women are not allowed to march in the parade.

Dancing to tunes blared from car-mounted speakers, several comics occasionally danced to the sidelines, where they shook hands with policemen and spectators and wished each a happy new year.

derground communications system would be compatible. White Sands is one of three sites under consideration for the communications project, which would require between 1,800 and 2,500 miles of underground antenna cable spread in a 3,000 square mile-area. The installation would serve as a massive antenna that would beam signals to submerged submarines.

Maj. Fred Shirley said recently officials aren't sure how Seafarer would fit in at WSMR, which has vast batteries of equipment designed to monitor testing.

"Naturally the Army wondered what effect, if any, such a vast communications system would have on the weapons testing program at White Sands," said Shirley. "The concern was legitimate."

He said the Army still doesn't know whether the project would have an unfavorable impact on weapons testing.

And Shirley said the uncertainty runs both ways. "Instead of the project interfering with the testing, the testing might interfere with the project," he said.

White Sands and Nevada's Tonopah Test Range were included because they have vast expanses of federally-owned land. The Navy was instructed to locate the project on federal land if feasible. The Navy says it would prefer to install the antenna in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, but residents of eight counties in the area recently rejected the proposal in separate referendums.

Navy officials, however, say they hope residents will change their view after reading an environmental impact statement they contend shows the project is environmentally and biologically safe.

It would cost an estimated $570 million to place the system in New Mexico, while estimates for a New Mexico or Nevada installation are between $800 million and $900 million. Reservations expressed concerning the project have ranged from concern the buried antenna cables would sterilize cattle to the disruption of wildlife.

Japanese To Boost Defenses Facing Korea

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government is studying ways to boost its defense forces in areas facing Korea, the Japanese news service Kyodo reported on Sunday. Kyodo said defense agency leaders believe that under the new administration of President-elect Jimmy Carter U.S. ground forces in South Korea may be withdrawn completely by 1980. Japanese defense leaders consider those troops important in maintaining a balance of military power on the Korean peninsula, the news agency added. Kyodo said these leaders also feel that Japan's security would be affected if a conflict breaks out in Korea. The defense agency, therefore, will attach more importance in new defense buildup plans to the southernmost main island of Kyushu, 125 miles south of Korea across the Korea Strait, Kyodo said. It said possible measures include expansion of the 7,000-man division of defense forces in Kyushu to 9,000 men.

"In fact, we urged all consumers to transfer their savings from banks because they give savers lower yields, often have outrageous and unnecessary charges. On the other hand, most savings and loans offer higher yields, have fewer charges, and often have generous service packages."

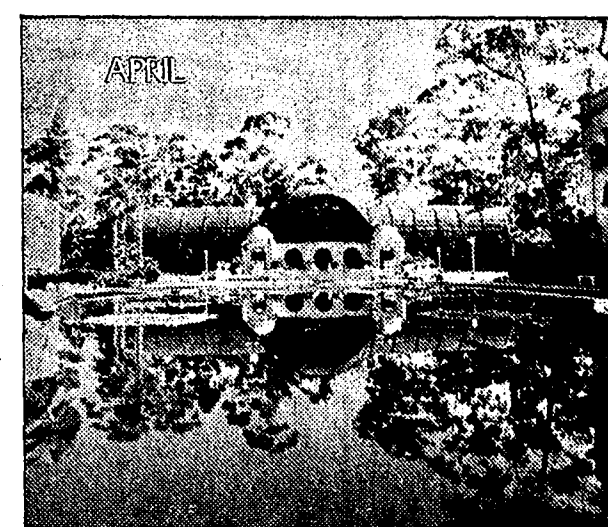

This statement is from an interview with a spokesperson for San Francisco Consumer Action about their new book... "It's In Your Interest." It points out just what we've been telling you for years... that money in a bank isn't doing the job it should be.

M.A.S.

Santa Ana
The terms are interchangeable, podnah, and nobody knows exactly which one came first. There is written reference in Malayan to "catsup" back in 1690 and the word comes from the country's native word for "taste."

On the other hand, "ketchup" is derived from a Chinese word which originally meant "a brine of pickled fish or shell fish."

H.J. Heinz calls its product "ketchup." Some of the other condiment manufacturers call theirs "catsup."

Reckon it's toss-up.

SPARE LEAVES?

Dear Trouble Shooter

My aunt is very ill. The doctor has said her only hope to get well is to take fresh comfrey leaves and brew the juice out of them. She must drink one-fourth cup of this brew three times a day.

We have used all our fresh leaves. Our only hope is that one of your readers has a plant in the house that has not gone dormant and will give us some fresh leaves.

E.W.

Buena Park
Let's ask anyone who can help to give you a jingle at 522-2520. Meanwhile, check with a local health food store to see if dried leaves are available.

YOU HELPED!

Dear Trouble Shooter

Thank you very much for helping me find the autoharp for my autistic son. I just want you to know that many of your readers responded and called me right away.

Please thank all of them for me, too.

L.R.

Placentia
Folks who read the Ol' Trouble Shooter's column are the warmest-hearted folks in the world, Ma'am. He's not one bit surprised to hear that things worked out well.

VOLUNTEERS

Dear Trouble Shooter

The YWCA of North Orange County is in need of ladies to volunteer to work with groups of junior high and senior high school girls. The volunteer time required is a minimum of two hours each morning (Monday through Friday) for one week per month. An initial program training workshop is also required.

We are interviewing women with background in teaching, counseling, home economics, recreational leadership, etc.

There is a great deal of satisfaction in contributing to the lives of teen women. Will you ask your readers to help?

L.R.

Fullerton
You betcha!
Interested ladies can call the YWCA at 871-4488 for full details of the program.

DISNEY TICKETS

Dear Trouble Shooter

My daughter goes to the Gill Development Center for the Handicapped. I am wondering if any of your readers have leftover tickets to Disneyland that they might give these "special" children so they can enjoy an outing there.

Also, when we go to Disneyland, we could use quite a few volunteers so the kids can ride the rides on a one-to-one basis.

M.F.T.

Huntington Beach
Almost everyone who goes to Disneyland brings back some unused tickets, Ma'am. Chances are folks will be more than happy to unload them on you. Let's ask them to mail the tickets to: Gill Education Center, 15252 Victoria Lane, Huntington Beach 92647.

PORCELAIN POSIES

Dear Trouble Shooter

A friend of mine had some beautiful porcelain-finish flowers given to her by somebody who did them herself. Originally, the flowers were plastic. Can you find out what sort of paint they were dipped into?

I'd like to make some, myself. They're beautiful.

B.H.V.

Fullerton
Mix one pint turpentine, one pint clear varnish and one fourth pint high gloss white enamel. Dip the plastic flowers into the mixture and hang by their stems to dry. You can store the left-over mixture for use at a later date.

CONCRETE BOWL

Dear Trouble Shooter

What's with the big concrete bowl near Citron and Vermont in Anaheim where all the kids are skateboarding? Who paid for it and who's running it, we taxpayers?

T.T.P.

Anaheim
"The Concrete Wave" is a partnership between the City of Anaheim and a concessionaire who's using previously undeveloped city-owned land to provide a place for youngsters to ride their skateboards. The aim is for both the concessionaire and the city's taxpayers to reap a profit.

Special safety precautions are imposed upon youngsters using the facility. They must wear helmets, knee and elbow pads and gloves. If they don't have such equipment, they can rent it.

Each session is 10 minutes short of two hours and costs $2, a good hunk of money for skateboard enthusiasts, many of whom are mowing lawns, and doing extra chores to finance their fun.

The skateboard park is located at 950 S. Citron, Anaheim. It's open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekdays, from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekends.

TOO LATE?

Dear Trouble Shooter

My home was sold at a trustee sale and we are to vacate the premises Jan. 10.

I have lived in my home for 19 years and was caught up in the second and third trust syndrome five years ago. Now I have ended up with absolutely nothing and no place to go. I put my complete trust in some real estate people who led me to believe I had nothing to worry about. I could have sold my home and got something out of it, but I believe them.

Is there any recourse I can take to redeem my home?

V.C.

Anaheim
It may be too late, Ma'am. You had 90 days notice before the sale took place in which to sell the property or come up with the money due on the mortgages.

However, an attorney may be able to find some irregularity in the proceedings. If the Trouble Shooter were wearing your boots, he'd take all of his papers to a good lawyer and ask for an expert opinion.

SMALL SHOES

Dear Trouble Shooter

I am writing on behalf of my mother, recently widowed, a senior citizen who still enjoys dressing up and attending social functions with friends.

Her problem, which may not be significant to some, is a dilemma to her. She wears a size two and one-half shoe and cannot find any woman's dress or high heeled shoes to fit her. She is forced to buy shoes at a children's store and does not find them attractive for her age or style of dress.

Can you be of any help?

H.N.

Westminster
There's a Cinderella Slipper Shop in Beverly Hills that specializes in very small fashion shoes. The address is 8433 Wilshire Blvd.

SCHOOL PROJECT

Dear Trouble Shooter

I need two old pink flamingo lawn ornaments for a school project. I have not been able to find them anywhere.

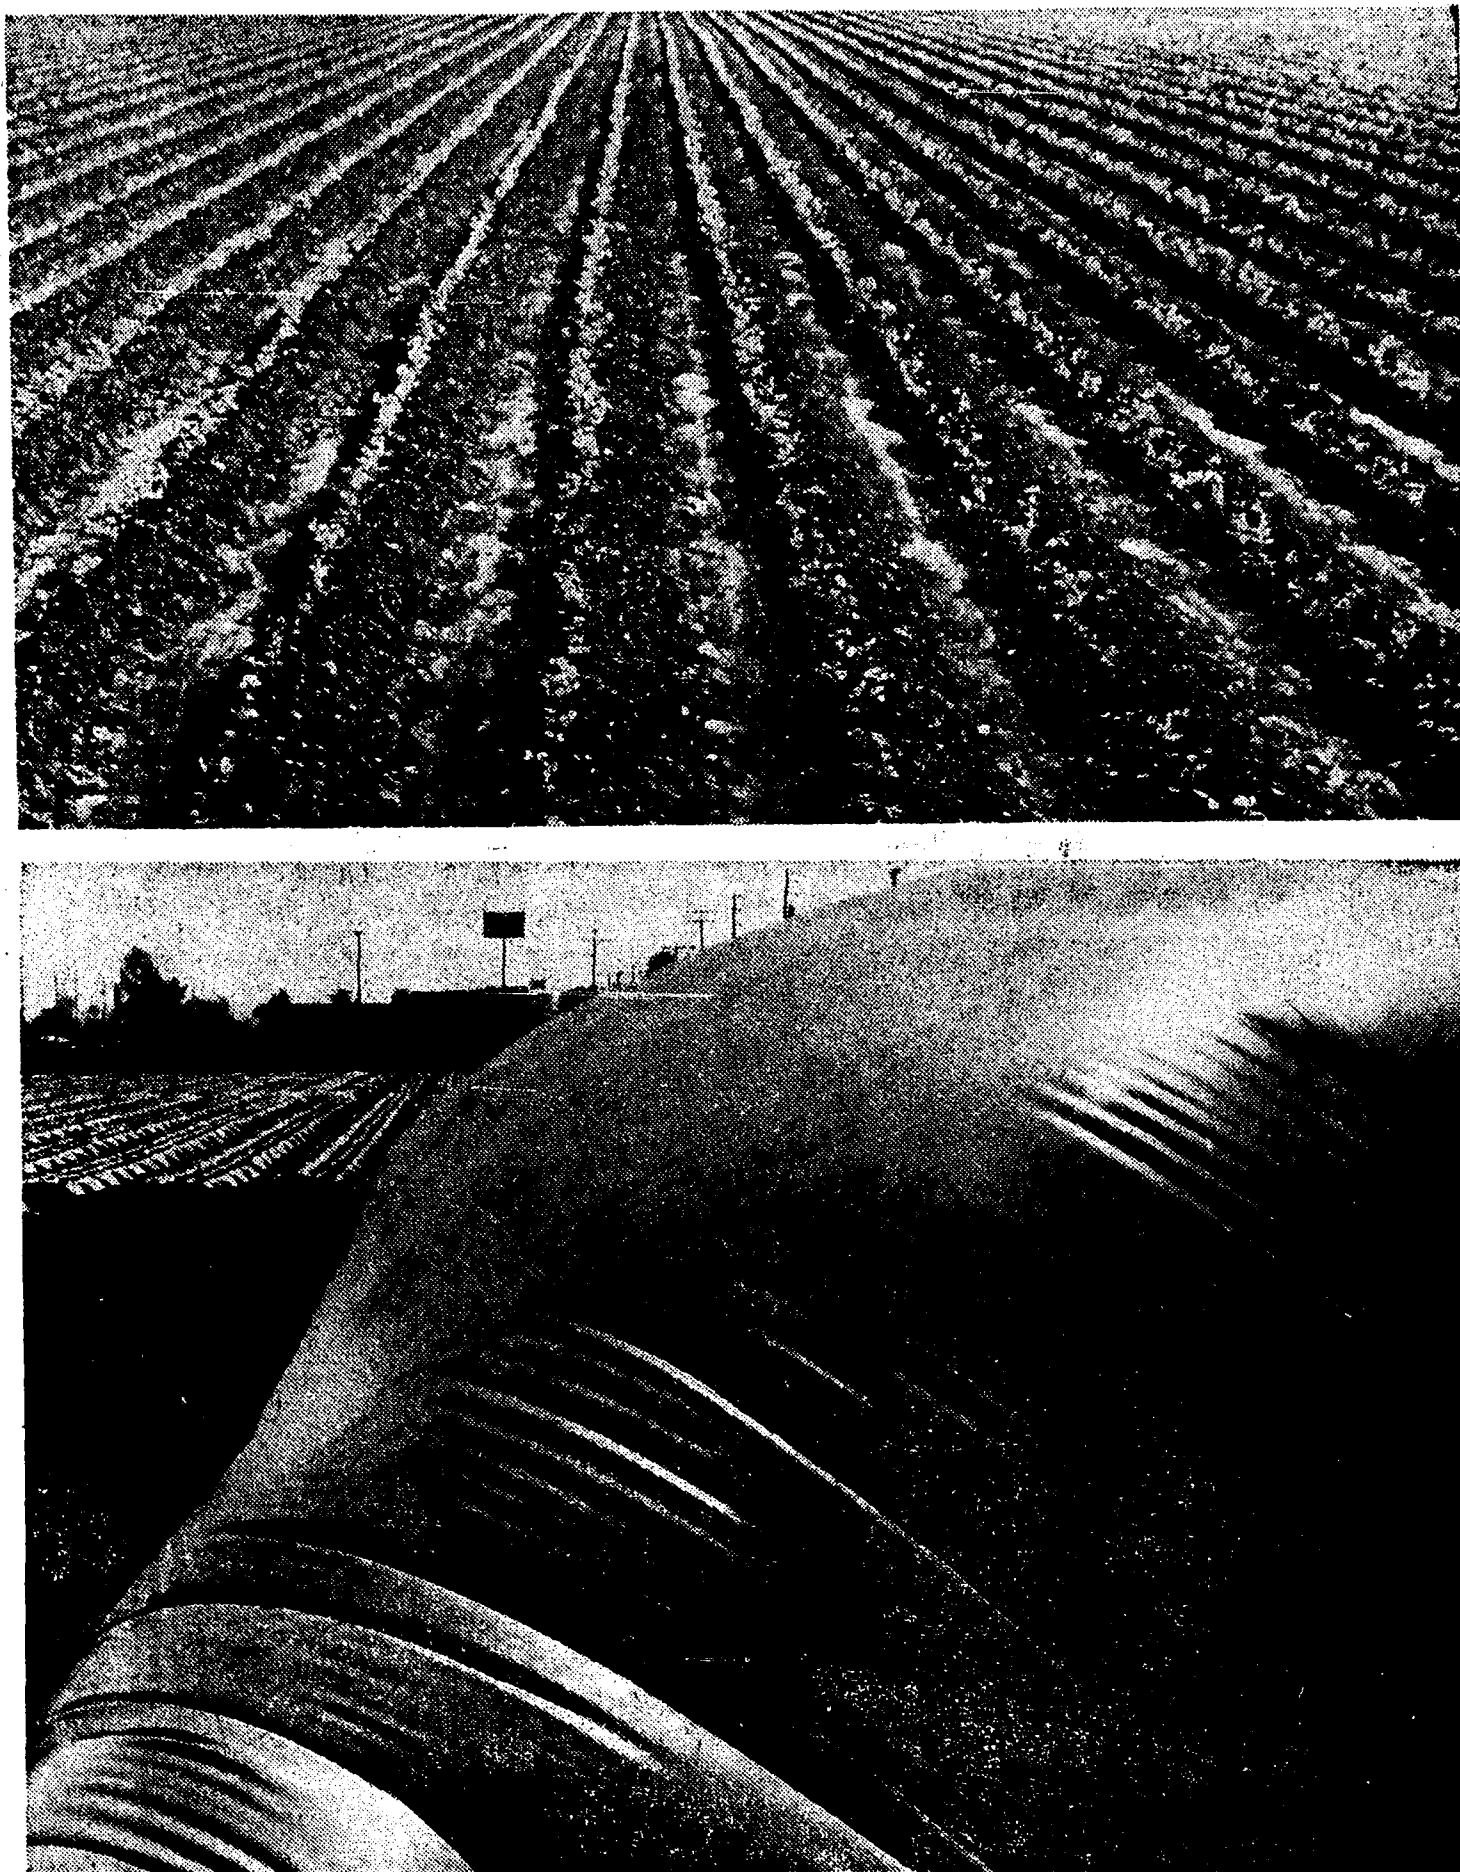

Do you suppose some of your readers have one they no longer want?

R.K.

Santa Ana
Doesn't do any harm to ask, does it, podnah? The phone number, for anyone who can help, is 834-1235.

Got a Problem? Write The Trouble Shooter, P.O. Box 11626, Santa Ana, Calif., 92711.

PLEASE DO NOT TELEPHONE YOUR PROBLEM TO US. Due to the volume of mail, not all letters can be answered or acknowledged. Those published will be signed with initials only, but you must include your name, address and telephone number.

OC Fields Skip Long Winter Nap

Elsewhere across the country, the fields lie sleeping under sheets of frost, blankets of snow and comforters of winter barn manure, dreaming of the resurrection of spring, the kiss of the plow, the fertility of the seed, the embrace of the sun and the pulse of life-giving rain.

But here, here in Southern California, the rich soil glistens and new crops are already pushing their heads above the warm, moist soil.

Workers walk through fields of strawberries sheathed in plastic. Sun rays make the fields look like shimmering lakes and the workers seem to be walking on water as they seek out the weeds.

But the miracle is at their feet, and harvest is but a few weeks away.

Watering and weeding go on in every scrap of ground not yet claimed by industry or housing. Herbs grow under huge, air-inflated plastic tents. Squeezed between the protective bubbles are fast ripening rows of table onions and radishes.

Stretching nearly to infinity, the row crops of celery and other vegetables bask lazily in the sun and stretch their stalks and green their leaves.

Social Security's Tax Bite Gets Bigger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans will pay as much as $70.20 more in Social Security taxes in the new year.

By law, the maximum annual tax payment increases from $895.05 in 1976 to $965.25 in 1977. Forty years ago, in 1937, the maximum tax was $30 a year.

But only the 19 million or so Americans earning more than $15,300 will pay a higher tax in 1977. The tax rate on a worker's income will remain at 5.85 per cent, so persons who earn less than $15,300 will not pay any more than they paid on the same amount of earnings last year.

In 1976, a worker had paid all Social Security tax obligations by the time he reached the $15,300 salary level, and income over this was not subject to additional tax. Persons for whom tax deductions stopped in 1976 after they reached the cutoff point will find the tax is being deducted from their checks longer.

The cutoff for wages and salaries in 1977 has been raised to $16,500, above which no additional Social Security tax will be collected. About 16 million workers earn more than $16,500.

The increase in the tax is automatic in the year after which there has been an increase in Social Security benefits, which rose 6.4 per cent in 1976.

The maximum Social Security tax on self-employed persons will rise from $1,206.70 to $1,303.50 in 1977.

The increases, which have to be matched by employers, will produce an estimated $2.3 billion for the Social Security system. However, this will not close the gap of benefit payments over income which amounted to about $4.3 billion last year.

Although the Social Security tax bite has been rising sharply since the early 1960s, it still has not kept pace with the flow of benefits. There is concern that the system's reserves will be eroded and that it may have to turn to general tax revenues to keep going.

The maximum tax was just $30 a year between 1937 and 1949. Then it rose slowly to $174 in 1963. Additional benefits for Medicare for the aged and disabled pushed the maximum tax to $277.20 by 1966.

Increases became even steeper in subsequent years, rising to a maximum $290.40 in 1967, $343.20 in 1968, $374.40 in 1969, $405.60 in 1971, $468 in 1972, $531.60 in 1973, $772.20 in 1974, $824.55 in 1975 and $895.05 in 1976.

Also in 1977, out-of-pocket payments for Medicare hospital insurance are to increase 19 per cent on Jan. 1, meaning that elderly or disabled persons entering a hospital will be responsible for the first $124 of their initial bill for a two-month period, up from $104 in 1976.

Monthly premiums for supplementary medical insurance will be increased by 50 cents for 25.4 million Medicare beneficiaries beginning in July. The increase will raise the monthly premium to $7.70.

Persons receiving Social Security benefits can gain from another change this year. The limit on earnings they can make without losing the retirement benefits has been increased from $2,760 to $3,000.

After earning $3,000, a person loses $1 in Social Security benefits for every $2 outside income.

Brown Sees Fair Shake For Farmers

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says President-elect Jimmy Carter has assured him that he will work to make the federal government more responsive to California's agricultural needs.

Brown said some California

farmers feel they have not received a fair shake from the federal government when foreign trade agreements were negotiated in the past. Although Brown did not endorse that complaint personally, he said he relayed it to Carter and received promises that California agriculture would not be shortchanged. "We're looking to make sure that when America negotiates its trade policies that the farmers in California get a fair shake," Brown said.

"Exports of California crops must be given the kind of assistance at the federal level that the Midwest has been generally entitled to. The fruits and vegetables that come out of California are different in their markets than corn and soybeans and wheat and things that come out of the Midwest," he said.

"Therefore, in the trade negotiations that will take place under the Carter administration, it is extremely important to California that, as the compromises and agreements are entered into, that California's interests be recognized."

Brown said Carter responded by promising that he "would help us in obtaining a strong voice in the department of agriculture."

The Democratic governor said that when Carter phoned him two weeks ago on another matter, Brown took the opportunity to convey California farmers' dissatisfaction to the former Georgia governor.

WORRY CLINIC

Prof. Ajax shows how newspapers pioneer in many educational fields. They also expose crime and even immorality among Congressmen! Jefferson felt newspapers are even more essential than public schools!

CASE J-691: Prof. Ajax, aged 34, teaches psychology but also does consulting work on the side.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I have been using your 'Psychology Applied' textbook with my university classes for several years."

"And recently I have developed some good consulting fees by means of your 'Test of Horse Sense' and the 'Introvert-Extrovert' tests in the appendix of that text."

"For I am now asked to analyze prospective salesmen for an insurance firm."

"And a couple of medical schools are also realizing that mere straight 'A' scholastic averages don't make successful private practitioners."

"Indeed, within 30 minutes I can weed out the introverts vs. the extroverts."

"And then suggest that the introverts will prefer to specialize as research doctors, and accept salaried jobs with Sloan-Kettering or other research foundations."

"Those who lean toward extroversion, like to deal with people, instead of microbes, so they are far more successful in handling human patients."

"They also are more inclined to mingle happily with their fellow townsmen, as in civic affairs, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, etc., and be active in church, plus the YMCA and Scouting projects."

"Dr. Crane, you have often mentioned that the daily newspaper is America's most valuable educational agency."

"Well, I agree, for the AMA is even now sponsoring research in keeping with your 'Introvert-Extrovert Test,' though the latter has been available to the reading public for a generation!"

NEWSPAPER PIONEERS

The newspapers pioneer in many realms of vital education and actually were the main weapon that helped checkmate the zooming venereal disease epidemic.

HOUSING ASSISTANCE FOR LOW & MODERATE INCOME FAMILIES

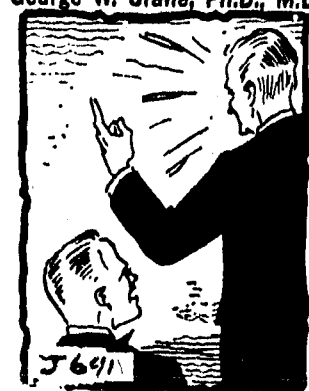

The Santa Ana Housing Authority (SAHA) announces that it is taking applications for housing assistance to low and moderate income families under the Section 8 Rent Subsidy Payments Program. This application intake period will be for one day only on January 5, 1977 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Interested families who wish to apply for subsidy assistance are urged to apply at the main lobby of the City Hall at 20 Civic Center Plaza, Santa Ana, Calif.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

For in the 1940s, the newspaper teamed up with the medical profession to tear away the prudish secrecy attaching to syphilis and gonorrhea.

Up till that time, physicians had trouble trying to warn the general public about such diseases for a "hush-hush" attitude prevailed and victims even refrained from going to medical clinics for such treatment.

A painful tooth soon drives a dental patient to the dental office.

But venereal diseases don't always alarm their victims, so the spread of such ailments was zooming to a frightening degree.

In fact, a recent medical report here in Illinois stated that 80% of women victims of venereal disease still don't know they are infected!

In this column we have not only alerted you readers to the likely benefits of the ocean's water-soluble trace chemical elements in combating deficiency ailments, but have warned you wives against the premonitory symptoms of the WORST social disease, namely, divorce.

If you keep a scrapbook of this column, you will find it also stresses scientific "Horse Sense" in many realms, including the unnecessary amount of surgery and expensive hospital care.

For I cited the data proving 40% of a long series of hysterectomy cases were totally unmerited and that Dr. Walter Alvarez showed 58% of appendectomy cases showed no inflamed or pathological appendix condition to warrant such surgery!

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Merrill, Indiana, 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25¢ to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Body Of Black Activist Found

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) The body of black activist Adam Rogers was found last weekend stuffed head-first into a sleeping bag near the San Francisco Bay.

Police inspectors Carl Klotz and Ronald Schneider said Rogers, 32, had been strangled.

Two stadium employees discovered the body Saturday about 15 feet from the Bay near Candlestick Park. Police said he had been killed that day.

At one time Rogers held the No. 3 position in a poverty program for residents of the Hunters Point area of the city, and later he served as a commissioner of the Economic Opportunity Council.

YMCA Recovering From 102 Youngsters

SACRAMENTO (AP) — One hundred and two youngsters have participated in possibly the wildest pajama party ever held.

It was a New Year's bash for kids too old for babysitters or too young to be left at home while their parents rang in 1977 with parties their own. Station wagons arrived Friday at the YMCA, bearing sleeping bags, sneakers, food, games, swimming goggles, bathing suits...

And the 102 kids. Parents returned Saturday and gathered up their broods. And one of the 25 devastated counselors, Dee Anne Finken, summed up the previous 22 hours:

"I'm drunk with little kids. I'll tell you. It's a zoo here. Thank God nobody threw up and we didn't have much blood."

Dee Anne said there wasn't even much blood from Ginny Perkins' tooth.

Eight-year-old Ginny twisted out a molar during the night. There were other episodes to keep Dee Anne and other counselors busy, as she said "they stayed up and played until midnight, and then they started screaming."

Frank Gomez, 10, said he put a live mouse in some girl's sleeping bag about 2 a.m.

Somebody took somebody else's flashlight. A few boys started an early morning fire in the fireplace. A few others had fun taking baked beans from dinner and stuffing them in a few empty sleeping bags.

"I was lucky," said another counselor, Tim Merill. He called himself the "fight referee."

"I got about three hours of sleep. It was one of the longest days I ever spent in my life trying to get these kids to sleep."

Parents paid $9 if they were YMCA members, $12 if they were not. It covered three meals, snacks and services of the 25 counselors.

Health News... Nerves, Nerves, Nerves... Maybe That's Your Problem

"Your trouble is nerves, just nerves, that's all" many have been told.

But according to Dr. Carl E. Remelin, D.C., your nerves are too important to your body to be dismissed so easily.

"You must remember," he says, "that every function taking place in your body is under control of the nerve system. I call it the Master System of the human body."

A healthy nervous system gives you strength and energy for the day's work. It brushes aside sickness, shrugs off ordinary aches and pains. It fights off the usual deterioration of "middle age." All in all, it gives you that "isn't-it-great-to-be-alive" feeling day after glorious day.

And an unhealthy nervous system? "That's a different story," Dr. Remelin, D.C. says. "One that can be titled NERVOUSNESS."

"While a patient may complain that he is easily upset, often he cannot put into words what he means by feeling nervous," says Dr. Remelin, D.C. "To the patient, feeling nervous can be an unpleasant, sometimes frightening experience, making it difficult to work or concentrate and causing him to feel anxious and apprehensive. Often he will be restless, fidgety and easily startled. He may display mannerisms such as nailbiting and he may be irritable, show worry or act bewildered."

"Additionally," Dr. Remelin, D.C. goes on, "there can be palpitation of the heart, gastric distress, headaches, blurred vision and irregularity."

"You must remember, however, nervousness is not a disease in itself. It is symptomatic or a series of symptoms of some physical problem in the body."

"Left uncorrected," he adds, "nervousness can cause a multitude of serious, chronic conditions. And virtually all major psychotic disorders begin with the symptoms of nervousness."

Persons who suffer from nervousness or fatigue owe it to themselves and their families to have their nerve systems tested to find out for sure.

"Some of my most rewarding experiences with my patients have come following the freeing of a 'blocked nerve' and the release of nature's wondrous healing and sustaining power," Dr. Remelin, D.C. says.

"I sincerely hope that those people who find a relationship between the problems I've described and their own condition will look to the modern Doctor for help."

Violence Ratings System Urged

By MIKE GOODKIND
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's a real simple way to eliminate television violence from the home. People can turn their sets off — if their kids let them.

Now Dr. Thomas Elmendorf, past president of the California Medical Association, wants to help adults exercise their parental control by letting them know in advance if a particular program episode is going to contain any violence. He thinks parents have a right to know if "Starsky and Hutch," for example, are going to knock the teeth out of their prisoner.

Dr. George Gerbner, Dean of the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania, doubts that most parents have the authority to control their kids' viewings.

"In the average home, children control the dial. What we need is to change programming," says Gerbner.

But Elmendorf wants at least to give parents a fighting chance.

He believes that violent television "is an element in antisocial behavior."

Gordon Van Sauter, CBS' program practices vice president, is less sure. "There is no agreement on the effect of violence," he says.

Elmendorf and Sauter agree, however, that it's up to the parents to decide what kids should watch and that public opinion and pressure is a key to what you see on the tube.

And Elmendorf is quietly pressing for greater public awareness — not censorship or even a radical change in program format.

"We want the networks to have maximum of freedom and a minimum of government interference," says Elmendorf.

"I would really like to see the networks release something that would go into the TV listings which would assist parents in selecting appropriate viewing for their children," says Elmendorf, who practices emergency medicine at Davis, Calif.

At the American Medical Association's annual convention last month in Philadelphia, Elmendorf sponsored a resolution asking the networks to rate each program episode by a formula they would set up themselves. The AMA turned down the proposal because "the intent of the resolution was already being carried out."

In efforts to define TV violence, the AMA has forked over $25,000 to a Washington-based nonprofit outfit called the National Citizens Committee for Better Broadcasting to compile ratings of individual shows. The money, says an AMA spokesman, was directed as a first step to "encourage the TV industry to reduce the amount of violence."

The NCCB received widespread media coverage when it ranked each show last summer on its relative content of violence.

Over a six week period, the service recorded each instance of violence and how long it appeared on the screen. Then all 63 shows seen on each network were ranked from least to most violent.

The industry objected to rating all forms of violence — from slaps to knifing — equally. When a new study is released by the end of the year, says NCCB Executive Director Ted Carpenter, acts of aggressive violence will be rated separately from such things as pratfalls in comedy shows or natural disasters.

The wider definition of violence was used in the original study, he said, because Gerbner's research has indicated that all forms of violence, regardless of their context of severity, appear to affect small children equally.

The winner of the first study was the Bob Newhart Show, a situation comedy depicting the life and daily doings of a Chicago psychologist.

Ironically, the two most violent shows in the first batch of rankings, "SWAT" and "The Rookies," have been canceled. Network authorities agree violence per se doesn't bring ratings.

Carpenter believes a rating system may be helpful. "But what we're really trying to do is put the pressure on the industry itself."

Elmendorf thinks the ratings would lead to greater public awareness — hence public pressure.

Tom Kersey, ABC's West

Coast Broadcast Practices Chief, and Sauter are opposed to published violence ratings, even though both networks monitor the violent content of shows for their own use.

"I think it's naive to assume that someone watching Kojak in the fifth year of its existence does not know what Kojak is," says Sauter.

"I hope nothing ever comes of the idea" of publishing violence ratings of individual shows, says Kersey. He says the number of violent acts is meaningless unless placed in a creative context which he believes the average viewer couldn't understand.

Sauter insists that with millions of viewers "there is no feasible way you can develop a rating system that can be used by that incredible range of people."

"We apply a set of standards to all of our programming which we think represents the expectations, the tastes and the standards of the mass television audience."

Sauter notes that despite the objections of media researchers, and even powerful national groups like the AMA, "we get very few letters from viewers complaining about violent programming."

"If there is popular groundswell, things will change," he notes.

"I think we do children a disservice by not luring them to books" and other forms of educational entertainment, says Sauter.

"My children (now grown) could watch anything they want on television but they could only watch it for a limited number of hours each week."

A Poignant Story Of Vietnam

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dramas about the Vietnam war rarely appear on commercial TV. Conventional wisdom is that networks don't want to upset audiences with reminders of that tragic chapter in U.S. history.

But tonight ABC is airing "Green Eyes," a sad, warm, occasionally flawed TV movie about the tiny victims of that war, the thousands of Vietnamese kids fathered and left behind by American soldiers.

Paul Winfield, a fine actor, has the lead in the film. He plays a black ex-GI crippled in the war, disillusioned by the rejection he finds in his own country when he gets out of a military hospital on Guam in 1973.

The disillusionment leads to his return to Vietnam, to his search for the only thing that could give his life meaning — his illegitimate son, "Green Eyes," born to a bar girl with whom he lived in Saigon's black "Soul Alley" before he was wounded.

The two-hour movie was written by David Seltzer, 36, who spent several months in Saigon in 1973 gathering material for tonight's program. He very effectively shows the plight of the war orphans (two of whom he adopted) and Saigon's back-street squalor.

But he occasionally spoils it with stock, obvious anti-Vietnam war clichés.

Such as an early scene where Winfield visits parents of a pal killed in combat. The father bitterly remarks that Vietnam was "a totally useless war," that the dead GI was shipped home in a bag "like garbage."

Or a flashback scene where an officer addressing troops new to the war emits kill-em-all sounds, speaks of "gooks," says the Vietnamese "have no regard for life ... their own or anybody else's."

A tidy this-war-is-racist tableau, predictable, with no ambiguity. But such was Hollywood's vision of the Vietnam war — half the joint believed John Wayne, the other half Jane Fonda.

It's only when scripter Seltzer writes of what he has first-hand knowledge — the tiny victims of that long war — that the show becomes a mighty powerful, moving study of hopelessness and hope.

That begins the moment Winfield arrives in Saigon to search for his son, the half-black kid called "Green Eyes," and is exposed to the brutal realities of life for the children the GIs left behind.

He's aided by three persons — a British lady (Rita Tushingham) who runs an orphanage; a cynical pal from Army days (Jonathan Lippe) who now is a Saigon wheeler-dealer; and Trung, a tough, lively street urchin played by a remarkable young actor called Lemi.

Filmed in The Philippines, the movie does a first-rate job of recreating Saigon, from its sad backstreets of filth and shanties to the small, well-kept park on Le Loi Street in the center of town.

More importantly, it does a stark, realistic job of depicting those affection-starved kids whose American fathers left them, as Winfield aptly puts it, "to rot like apples that fell off a tree."

"Green Eyes," which ends on a note of hope, deserves a look. It has its flaws, but you'll need a soul of darkness to forget its moving look at the children of war. ABC deserves credit for airing it.

Questions,
Answers

Q. Tell me how NBC found Jane Pauley, their replacement for Barbara Walters on "Today." She talks so much like Barbara. Did they intend this? Did Jane train herself to imitate Barbara? E.S.B.

A. Let's hope not. The Walters lisp and tone is what turns off many people. Jane came to "Today" from NBC's Chicago station, which found her just over a year ago at an Indianapolis TV station which had hired her straight out of college with no reporting experience. She became a co-anchor less than a year later. Chicago critics were not enchanted with her. They said that she was pretty and read well, but recognized a news story only when it was in the script she was handed. NBC decided being pretty and able to read well were what counted, handed her over $250,000 a year to join "Today."

Q. Why don't they put "After School Specials" on more often? They are on only once a month. I think they are terrific. C.C.C.

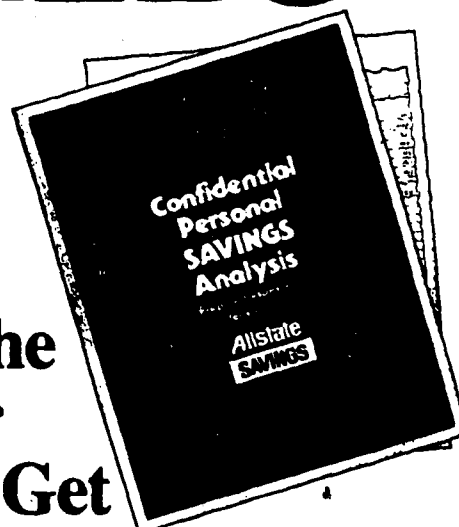

A. Yes, but while the series draws praise from people who usually blast TV shows for children, there's one important fault, at least the way ABC stations look at it. The network runs the show in station time, thereby cutting local revenues.

Q. Do studios hire people to laugh at programs such as "The Jeffersons" and "Bob Hope's"? I fail to see why all the mirth at these two shows. G.R.S.

A. No hiring needed. Most TV shows have people waiting to grab tickets, but sometimes an audience is needed fast for a last-minute taping. Then special groups are used in to fill the seats. Hope recalls with horror the time he did a whole routine and the audience never cracked a smile. He found out later he was talking to an audience of French sailors who didn't understand English, let alone his snappy brand of American.

'Panther's' Return Spells Fun For Everyone, Even Kids

By BILL COSFORD
Knight News Wire

"There are sinister forces at work here," says the Inspector — and he is right, up to a point.

But given that the Inspector, who has narrowly missed being vaporized by an assassin's bomb, missed death only by dint of accidental over-inflation of the helium-filled hump in his Quasimodo hunchback disguise, given that the Inspector is not just any continental detective of the French Surete but is in fact the illustrious Inspector Clouseau...you get the idea.

Clouseau — Peter Sellers in the ultrabomber role he has made a comic classic — is again the centerpiece of a new film. It is "The Pink Panther Strikes Again," and it is screamingly funny.

So it is that Clouseau has not quite said it all when he warns of sinister forces. Also at work here is a comic premise of genuine lunacy that has grown from a funny role into a thing of giant silliness. Once, back in 1963 in the original "Pink Panther," Clouseau was just a bumbler, easily upstaged by the suave jewel thief of the title.

With the addition of Herbert Lom as Chief Inspector Dreyfus in the following year's "A Shot in the Dark," however, Clouseau's slapstick ineptness became an instrument of comic torture. Pondering his ill fate at being saddled with the imbecile Clouseau, the Chief Inspector could easily prune his own thumb with a cigar trimmer. Eventually, he could become homicidal at the very thought of Clouseau.

Thus it should come as no surprise that for this year's sequel, we find poor Dreyfus chez L'Hopital Psychiatrique, where he has long been incarcerated, a hardened lunatic. Only recently has he begun to show progress. As "Strikes Again" opens, his doctor advises that a sanity hearing that could mean his release has been scheduled for that very afternoon.

Dreyfus appears healed; he is even able to take the news that Clouseau has supplanted him as Chief Inspector with a measure of calm. Alas, as he sits by a lake on the institution grounds, Dreyfus receives a visitor.

It is Clouseau, of course. Within minutes Clouseau has bumbled his victim into the water three times — by sea-saw, ricocheted croquet ball and misplaced rake — and changed Dreyfus' placid, Dale Carnegie chant ("every day, in every way, I am better and better") into shrieks of "Kill! Kill! Kill!"

All of this goes on even before the opening credits, which, incidentally, are as clever as ever. As luck and Blake Edwards, again the director of this craziness, would have it, Dreyfus escapes the institution. Now irredeemably mad, the former chief inspector assembles great criminal brains, kidnaps a scientist and repairs to a castle in Bavaria to build "a criminal organization so sinister it will make the Cosa Nostra look like the Vienna Boys Choir."

So much for the runaway premise. What follows is even less logically grounded than past "Panther" films, but one is quite quickly beyond caring.

Sellers is again, in this role that has nearly salvaged an apparently collapsing career, a comic master, able to inject freshness into a characterization that has changed little in more than a decade.

Sellers recovers easily from the occasional script slump with moments of great low comedy — lashing out at his butler, Cato; assaulting a stubborn drawbridge; or, in a scene that might well have been aimed at the grisly mayhem of "Marathon Man," as a dentist gone to work on Dreyfus after both have been into the laughing gas.

Though last year's "Return" of the Panther was disappointing, the evidence of "Pink Panther Strikes Again" is so clear even Clouseau could read it: This one is very funny indeed.

RATING: "The Pink Panther Strikes Again" is rated PG. It contains no violence or sexual material.

Year's Top Awards Freely Given

NEW YORK — These accolades are awarded to those whose love of humanity, self sacrifices and endless compassion in 1976 made the world a happier place — for themselves.

THE GILMORE DEATH SWEEPSTAKES to the trio who bid frantically for the TV, movie and book rights to the story of Gary Gilmore awaiting execution in Provo, Utah. Paul Anka offered $75,000; David Susskind got up to $150,000; but the prize went to a Larry Schiller, who had made deals for story rights with Marina Oswald, Jack Ruby and convicted murderer Susan Atkins. Schiller won the Gilmore sweepstakes by agreeing to divide $125,000 among Gilmore, his family, and his girl friend Nicole.

THE MERCY MEDAL, with three red leaves, to "Field Marshal Dr. Idi Amin Dada, life President of the Republic of Uganda, (That's the way he signs himself). According to Ali Sanji, a former Ugandan secret police officer, Amin ordered the execution of over 300,000 Ugandans since he came to power. Old Idi rates another red leaf for the Ugandan treatment of Mrs. Dora Bloch, one of the hostages not rescued by the Israelis from Entebbe, where he embraced the terrorists. At last report Mrs. Bloch was strangled and her body burned by Ugandan police. She was 74 years old.

THE WOMAN OF THE YEAR AWARD (Self-serving division). A difficult choice, so after much deep and sometimes painful thought the decision was to give it to two outstanding girls: Elizabeth Ray for her determined dedication to the arts as well as good government. Liz struggled as a correspondent for a porno magazine, appeared briefly in a suburban production of "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," where her only laugh came when she sat down at a typewriter, but did much better posing for the porno mag.

The other Woman of the Year has to be Marion Javits, wife of the U.S. Senator Jacob Javits. Marion insisted that she would certainly not quit her $67,500 a year job as a press agent for Iran Air, the Shah's airline, even though she disapproved of Iran's UN vote equating Zionism with racism. But 12 days later she admitted that the job might suggest the "appearance of conflict" with her husband's chairmanship of Senate's Foreign Relations Committee. Marion almost earned a cluster (tin) to her award when it was revealed that with her public relations firm she had made a bid to help Mexico which was very nervous about the effect of its anti-Israeli vote in the UN on its tourist trade.

THE EXQUISITE TASTE TROPHY to Jack White of Knightstown, Ind., whose contribution to the Bicentennial was the creation of a red, white and blue coffin with two American flags inside. White runs a casket company. "I dreamed it up," he proclaimed proudly. "You have to think of something new all the time."

THE PUBLIC CONCERN CROWN to the makers of the electronic game, Death Race. At 25 cents a shot the player manipulates toy race cars to run down little pedestrians. If they're killed, the player is rewarded with an agonizing scream and a tombstone pops up to pinpoint the exact death spot.

THE PROPHECY PALM to psychic Jeanne Dixon, whose predictions for 1976 included: The Republican Nominee will be Ronald Reagan. Another nut will try to assassinate President Ford; he will resign, and Nelson Rockefeller will fill out his term.

THE PEACE PROFIT LAUREL to Syria, which pays $25 a month to each of its 27,000 soldiers keeping the fragile peace in Lebanon, but gets $500 a month from the Arab League for each soldier for a neat monthly profit of over $12 million.

Jane Fonda Will Team With Caan

"Comes A Horseman Wild And Free" will be made as a Chartoff-Winkler production starring James Caan and Jane Fonda and directed by Alan J. Pakula for United Artists release. It was announced by Mike Medavoy, UA Vice-President in charge of West Coast production.

Caan and Fonda star as opposites brought together under tense circumstances in the dramatic love story set in the years immediately following World War II. The Alan J. Pakula film has been written by Dennis Clark. Gene Kirkwood and Dan Paulson will produce with Irwin Winkler and Robert Chartoff serving as executive producers. Pakula has scheduled principal photography for "Comes A Horseman Wild And Free" to begin in May, 1977, on locations in the western United States. He is currently represented on the nation's screens by "All The President's Men."

Chartoff-Winkler recently completed principal photography for "New York, New York," starring Liza Minnelli and Robert DeNiro, directed by Martin Scorsese and written by Earl MacRae and Mardek Martin; are currently filming Ken Russell's "Valentino," starring Rudolph Nureyev, and written by Russell, Mardek Martin and John Byrum; and now have in release the successful and highly critically acclaimed "Rocky," all of which are major releases for United Artists, a Transamerica Company.

BARBARA FAIRCHILD AND SON

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

A Country-Style Lullaby

Copley News Service
HOLLYWOOD — While lovely country-western songstress Barbara Fairchild was appearing in Las Vegas at the Frontier Hotel with Roy Clark, she decided to introduce her offspring to Las Vegas audiences in the Frontier's showroom, the Music Hall, during her onstage portion of the show. So her 6-week-old son, Randy Reinhardt III made his stage debut cradled in his mother's arm while she serenaded him.

Second generation: Patrick Wayne, John Wayne's second son, and Christopher Mitchum, Bob's second, are teamed in "Flight to Holocaut," an A.C. Lyles production for NBC-TV.

The drama is about a plane that crashes through the wall of a skyscraper.

Or you might say it's by "The Towering Inferno" out of "Airport."

Femme lead is Fawne Harman who played Ginger in the daytime series, "Some-

Streisand wrote two of the film's songs, "The Love Theme," with words by Paul Williams and "Lost Inside You," with an assist on words and music from Leon Russell.

If you're old enough to remember World War II, you must remember Bob Wills singing "Take Me Back to Tulsa."

In that case, you may be interested to learn that Ensemble Films has acquired rights to Bob Wills' life story and hopes to film it, possibly with Merle Haggard in the lead.

After his double chore of directing and starring in "Fire Sale" for 20th Century-Fox, Alan Arkin is relaxing with his family at their home in upstate New York.

Arkin, in his debut as a film director, brought his picture in exactly on schedule and on budget, which made Fox very, very happy.

When a Public Broadcasting System camera crew spent a day tagging around after Harold Robbins, crew members and their target discovered that neither of Robbins' favorite luncheon spots, Scandia and The Polo Lounge, would let the lensmen in during the lunch hour. The restaurants are too busy.

PBS was following Robbins in order to film a profile of the author.

THE FIRST THREE WEEKS AFTER AN ACCIDENT ARE CRITICAL!

SYMPTOMS AND THEIR MEANING WITH...

Andrew N. Burpee, D.C.

I would like to make as strong an appeal as possible to accident victims to make them aware of the importance of immediate modern chiropractic examinations for whiplash injuries. If individuals would only realize the need for immediate examination and treatment following an accident, in the three week period following an accident, proper care and treatment of a whiplash injury can often save a person a lifetime of pain and discomfort.

A whiplash injury doesn't always manifest itself until 48 hours after an accident and doesn't note any of the whiplash effects. However, after a night's sleep or even longer, he will usually experience a stiffness or soreness in the neck. This could be considered a positive tip-off of a whiplash injury.

Technically speaking, a whiplash neck injury is the involuntary thrust of the head and neck in any direction, and the resulting elastic recoil of the head and neck in the opposite direction, with injury to surrounding and supporting tissues.

Do you have a question? Call the Chiropractic Care and Information Bureau, 838-1190, and ask to speak to a Doctor of Chiropractic.

Treated daily at Burpee Chiropractic Offices are injuries resulting from home, work, auto or sports accidents and spinal related health problems as headaches, neck, shoulder and arm pains, chest and stomach pain, and low back, hip and leg pains and sciatica. For an appointment to see if you can be helped by modern chiropractic care. CALL THE NUMBER IN YOUR AREA:

Iranian Bakes 300 Loaves Of 'Custom' Bread

SAN LEANDRO (AP) — It cost Adam Morgan a lot of dough when Jimmy Carter won the November election.

The Iranian immigrant had vowed to follow a religious custom of his native land and bake 300 loaves of bread for friends, with a special one for the Georgian, if he won.

Morgan, a registered Republican, made news for three years straight when he sent "Christmas cards" measuring up to 10-by-15 feet to then-President Richard Nixon.

Morgan said the vow to bake bread is an Iranian tradition. "In the old country we always do that for something very important, very holy to us," he said.

As promised, Morgan sent off a loaf to President-elect Carter, and received a thank-you note signed "Jimmy." The other 299 loaves, each with Carter's initials on top, are being given to friends and to customers at his dry cleaning business, where he said people have been lining up five deep, hoping for a taste.

Lakers Away For 7

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lakers Coach Jerry West says the absence of center Bill Walton from the Portland lineup may have lulled his basketball players before they took a 104-99 win over the Trail Blazers.

"I think we had a tendency to be lethargic tonight because we knew Walton wasn't going to play and it took a while to get untracked," West said of Sunday's National Basketball Association victory. Walton is out with a bruised right kneecap.

The Lakers picked up a full game with the effort and trail Portland by one for the Pacific Division lead.

"I'm happy with this win," West said. "But I have to give credit to Portland for playing so well without Walton." However, the coach added that he is worried about an upcoming road trip.

"I'm not happy with a 7-game trip which takes us out of town for a couple of weeks. I believe it's bad scheduling, and my real problem is I don't know if I'll be able to pack enough clothes in my suitcase."

He said Lucius Allen, who missed the Portland game with a hamstring injury, would make the trip but might not see action.

On Sunday, after trailing by as many as 15 points in the first and second quarters, the Lakers roared back to outscore Portland 28-22 in the third frame. The game was tied at 72 going into the fourth quarter.

Kareem Abdul Jabbar led Los Angeles with 25 points, 17 in the first half. Cazzie Russell scored 16 points, all in the second half.

For Portland, Maurice Lucas scored 31 points — 23 in the second half — and Johnny Davis hit 25 despite playing with a broken nose suffered Saturday night against the Chicago Bulls.

On their longest journey of the 1976-77 season, the Lakers are at Philadelphia Wednesday, at New York (Nets) Friday, at Detroit Sunday noon, at Cleveland Jan. 11, at San Antonio Jan. 14, at Houston Jan. 15 and at Kansas City Jan. 18. They return to the Forum Jan. 21 against the New York Knicks.

Bartow Qualifies Bruin Praise

Gene Bartow says he knows the limitations of his UCLA basketball team. But would he please tell the Houston Cougars what they are?

Playing a self-appraised desultory game, Bartow's Bruins quite frankly beat the socks off Houston with a 96-83 decision Sunday on national television.

"We were tired — and UCLA was waiting for us," said Otis Birdsong, the only shining light among the Cougars with 42 points.

A 13-point loss might have seemed like a drubbing to Birdsong, but Bartow felt it should have been a lot worse for the Cougars.

"We weren't as sharp as we should have been against their full-court defense and that kept them in the game," noted the UCLA coach. "And with the gambling and trapping they were doing outside, we should have gone inside, even more fluidly than we did."

"But we had chances to blow them out, we just weren't polished enough to do it. I think we know our players, our team and our strengths now — and that's what you are supposed to know by conference time."

The eighth-ranked Bruins, who have won 10 of their first 11 games, will open defense of their Pacific-8 Conference title with a game against Oregon.

In other games Sunday, top-ranked Michigan defeated South Carolina 90-86 and Providence took Seton Hall 72-68 in overtime. In Saturday's games, No. 7 Wake Forest defeated Richmond 84-73; No. 19 Utah routed Utah State 102-78 and Long Beach turned back Illinois 84-70. On Friday night, 12th-rated Marquette trimmed Northwestern 66-53 and 15th-ranked Minnesota won the Pillsbury Classic in Bloomington with a 102-81 decision over Montana.

UCLA forward David Greenwood scored 26 points as the Bruins' front line combined for 67 points. Center Brett Vroman added 24 points, and UCLA's top-scoring forward, Marques Jonson, had 17.

Aggies Boot Florida

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The whiplash leg of barefoot placekicker Tony Franklin boomed three cross-country field goals and fullback George Woodard scored three touchdowns Sunday as the 10th-ranked Texas Aggies mauled the outgunned Florida Gators 37-14 in the 42nd annual Sun Bowl Classic.

Franklin, a sophomore who learned to kick soccer-style by watching television, ignored 55-degree temperatures and gusting wind up to 30 miles per hour to kick field goals of 39, 62 and 33 yards.

The 39-yarder was against the wind and the 62-yarder established a field goal record for bowl games.

The old bowl mark was 55 yards by Russell Erxleben of Texas in the 1975 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Franklin holds nine NCAA records, including a 65-yarder.

The Aggie defense, ranked fourth in the nation, smothered Florida's high-octane offense and the 240-pound Woodard rumbled 126 yards against the tiring Gator defenders.

The Southwest Conference Aggies finished the year 10-2 while the Gators of the Southeastern Conference compiled an 8-4 ledger.

A record crowd of 33,252 and a national television audience watched the Aggies build up a 16-0 halftime lead and limit the Gators to only two first downs in the first 30 minutes of play.

Aggie quarterback David Walker romped nine yards for a touchdown and Franklin kicked all three of his field goals in the first half.

Woodard barged one and four yards for second half touchdowns and caught a 15-yard touchdown pass from Walker in the final period.

Kuhn Suspends Braves Owner For 'Tampering'

ATLANTA (AP) — "I'm sure the baseball commissioner is trying to do what he believes is right," Ted Turner, owner of the Atlanta Braves said Sunday after hearing that he was going to be suspended from baseball for one year.

Turner's suspension was announced Sunday by a spokesman for the commissioner, though no starting date was set for the suspension.

"I'm thankful he didn't order me shot," said Turner, who was penalized for tampering with then San Francisco Giant outfielder Gary Matthews.

Turner said he doesn't believe he did anything wrong in connection with Matthews. "I'm a rookie and I've been more involved with this team than most owners, but I don't believe any wrong was done anywhere," the Braves owner said.

The commissioner's action was tied to a public statement that Turner made at last October's World Series involving Matthews. Turner, openly coveting the free agent outfielder of the Giants, told San Francisco owner Bob Lurie that "no matter what you offer Gary, I'll do better."

The mention of financial dealings at that time was illegal,

Sports Study Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Professional Sports said today that more study is needed to determine whether professional sports should receive special treatment under the nation's antitrust laws.

Minutes before the committee went out of business, the panel approved a staff report which said it does not believe baseball should have antitrust immunity but believed that a successor panel in the new Congress should continue to study the subject.

"During the brief lifespan of the committee, it was not possible to compile sufficient information to determine what need, if any, professional sports have for special antitrust modifications or treatment," the report said.

"Based upon the information available to it, the committee has concluded that adequate justification does not exist for baseball's special exemption from the antitrust laws and that its exemption should be removed in the context of over-all sports antitrust reform."

Danny Frisella Dies In Crash

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Brewer officials were shocked Monday by the news that veteran relief pitcher Danny Frisella died in a weekend dune buggy accident near Phoenix.

"Isn't that awful?" Bud Selig, the Brewer president, said when informed of the death. "That is a real shocker. I'm dumbfounded."

Frisella, 30, who led the Brewers in saves last season, suffered fatal injuries in an accident Saturday when the dune buggy he and another man were riding went out of control and rolled over, authorities in Arizona said. The other man was reported as escaping serious injury.

Frisella, a right-hander formerly with the New York Mets, Atlanta Braves and San Diego Padres, had started the past season with St. Louis but was traded to the Brewers in June.

The East displayed a strong running attack, led by Miami of Ohio's Rob Carpenter, who got 100 yards and a touchdown, but managed only two pass completions in 17 attempts through the frequent rain squalls.

West quarterback Mark Jackson completed 13 of 26 passes and said later, "We had the players to make both the running and the passing game go." Jackson was to have shared the quarterback role with Joe Roth of California, but Roth pulled a back muscle two days earlier and was unable to play.

There were more than 20,000 no-shows and the 45,000 fans who braved the storm to come to Stanford Stadium sat under umbrellas most of the day.

The East matched the West in offensive yardage, but its chances for victory on the since under baseball rules, no contract talks could be undertaken before the players were picked at the free agent draft on Nov. 4.

Kuhn heard Turner's case at a special hearing on the day of the free agent draft and handed down his decision to suspend him last Thursday, according to Bob Wirz, public relations director for the commissioner's office.

Meanwhile, Kuhn has lifted a ban against the Braves keeping Matthews. Matthews had been signed to an Atlanta contract, but the Commissioner had held up the signing pending an investigation.

In effect, this threw the ball back in the lap of National League President Chub Feeney, who was expected to approve Matthews' contract with Atlanta.

Kuhn's long holding action on the Matthews' contract became a source of annoyance to the Major League Players Association. Marvin Miller, association president, had called it "harrassment" from the baseball office.

At the effective date of Turner's suspension, he will not be able to participate in any operation of the team for a full year, Wirz said.

Turner was fined $10,000 last season by Kuhn for tampering with Matthews.

However, both Matthews and Turner denied any undercover work. Matthews, acknowledged as one of the best young centerfielders in the game, was chosen by the Braves in the Nov. 4 draft. Just before the draft, Turner and the player submitted sworn statements that no rules were broken in pre-draft conversations.

Green's Punt Return Sparks West In Shrine

STANFORD (AP) — Heavy rain held down the crowd but didn't stop Gary Green of Baylor in the 52nd Shrine East-West Game.

Green, one of five Associated Press All-Americans in the college football all-star contest, set an East-West record with his 81-yard punt return for a second-period touchdown which helped the West roll to a 30-14 victory.

"I thought I'd seen the guy next to me call for a fair catch, but I took the ball, almost got knocked off balance by a tackler and then found an open field ahead of me. I was kind of surprised," said Green, who also had a 54-yard punt return in the second half.

rainy day were killed by turnovers and Green's punt returns.

Rob Carpenter from Miami of Ohio rushed for more than 100 yards and scored an East touchdown on a one-yard plunge in the first period.

On the game's first play, Terry Robiskie of LSU fumbled at the East 13-yard line and the West's Robin Cole, a linebacker from New Mexico, recovered. Rick Kane of San Jose State scored the first of his two touchdowns five plays later.

Oregon State's Jay Loecey, whose grandfather played in the first East-West game in 1925, made two pass interceptions including one in the first period at midfield. Mike Michel kicked his first field goal, from 30 yards away, to make the score 10-0 soon after Loecey's interception.

Carpenter's one-yard touchdown run made the score 10-7. The other East touchdown came late in the second period on a 48-yard pass play from Northwestern's Randy Dean to Eastern Kentucky's Elmo Boyd.

More than 65,000 tickets were sold for the game, but only about 45,000 fans turned out to sit through the action and the frequent downpours.

Curtain Finally Falls On 'Bowlmania'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "We're No. 1, we're No. 1," exulted arm-waving Southern California football players after the clock had run down on their 14-6 victory over Michigan in the Rose Bowl.

In salty New Orleans, Tony Dorsett and his Pittsburgh mates, undoubtedly watching on TV, must have been bemused. Ranked No. 1, they had embellished their perfect season with an impressive 27-3 triumph over Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

Yet Southern Cal's coach John Robinson, when asked if he still thought the Rose Bowl America, an affliction that touches us all. Untold millions go bleary-eyed from unbroken hours in front of the television screen. Husbands put themselves in an invisible isolation booth, losing contact with humanity. Family harmony is fractured.

The tragedy is that when the great year-end drama has run its course, there is rarely a finality. Arguments over the relative merits of teams are intensified rather than settled. It's the only big-time sport where there is no script for determining a champion.

The bowl games are three-fourths pageantry and one-fourth football. They are

"let-em-have-fun" school. Observers in New Orleans were shocked to see Pitt's imposing beef trust meandering through sinful Bourbon Street. No bed checks. No rigid rules. The Panthers played it loose — and Georgia suffered.

Efforts have been made to set up a football playoff system enveloping the established bowls. Prime movers have been Ara Parseghian, former Notre Dame coach, and Joe Paterno of Penn State. The proposals never got off the ground. The current bowl structure is too heavily commercialized and deeply imbedded — the Rose dates back to 1902, the Sugar, Orange, Cotton and Gator have been around 30 years or longer. The college establishment, seeing millions of dollars roll in yearly, is fearful of offending the golden goose.

The most sensible idea is that of establishing a bracket of 16 top teams — champions of eight major conferences, four "wild cards" from these conferences and four leading independents. Let them start playoffs the first week in December, utilizing the various bowls — Fiesta, Astro-Bluebonnet, Peach, Tangerine, Gator, you name it — and tap the older bowls for the semifinals and finals.

It will never happen. The bowls have become the exclusive province of a handful of major teams — Alabama, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Notre Dame, etc. The same teams year after year.

It's a self-perpetuating society. The fat bowl checks buy more scholarships. More scholarships mean more good players. The rich get richer and who cares if nobody ever knows who is really No. 1.

By LARRY PALADINO

It was the same old story. The Big Ten's Rose Bowl representative, a stick-to-the-ground team for the ninth consecutive year, just couldn't cope with the versatility of the Pacific Eight Conference opponent.

Critics have blasted that situation time and again. But it was the same story Saturday when Southern California's football team, utilizing a fine passing attack to go with a good ground game, beat the run-minded Michigan 14-6.

Each year, it seems, people anticipate the Big Ten representative to open up some. But distain for the pass apparently hasn't lost its favor for Michigan, as it hadn't for both the Wolverines and Ohio State the last eight Rose Bowls.

Michigan's sophomore quarterback Rick Leach didn't throw a pass the first quarter and threw only four in the second. He completed one, to tight end Gene Johnson, and threw just once to All-American flanker Jim Smith.

For the game Leach was four for 12 for 76 yards. Five of those passes came in the Wolverines' last-ditch effort in the final three minutes.

Leach's counterpart, meanwhile, wound up the game's most valuable player. Trojan quarterback Vince Evans, who completed 14 of 20 passes for 181 yards, mixed his passes well and didn't forget to utilize the tough running of Mosei Tatupu, freshman Charles White and Dave Farmer. He also scored a touchdown.

White played in place of Ricky Bell, the All-American tailback who suffered a concussion early in the first quarter. "Let's just say his passes were incomplete and let it go at that," Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler said of Leach's performance. "Some of his passes just slipped out of his hands."

Schembechler praised Evans for making "the big pass plays. He did a great job. He played a tremendous game." "We played too much defense," he said. "The offense didn't play well enough and that was the problem... The long third down passes (by Evans) hurt. I didn't like that at all."

John Robinson, first year coach of the Trojans — who wound up with an 11-1 record to Michigan's 10-2 — said: "Evans is such a great leader, too. He ran for a touchdown and made a key first down at the end of the game to keep our drive alive. He was absolutely brilliant."

Although Robinson insisted Michigan "had the best pass defense we played against this year," Evans obviously found flaws in it.

"Michigan's secondary is coached not to get beat deep, so that enabled us to slip a man in front of them," he said, "and hit short passes."

Last year as a freshman Leach missed his first 12 passes and completed just one of 14 in the Wolverines' 14-6 Orange Bowl loss to Oklahoma.

Michigan has now lost three consecutive Rose Bowls, all under Schembechler, and has lost seven and tied one in its season finales over the last eight years.

Southern Cal, meanwhile, notched its fifth Rose Bowl triumph in eight appearances since 1967. The Pacific-8 team has eight of the last 10, but the Big Ten leads the series 18-13 since the Rose Bowl pact between the conferences was conceived in 1947.

Although coaches of both teams insisted that the winner of their contest should be national champion, top-ranked Pittsburgh's 27-3 romp over Georgia in the Sugar Bowl almost made the Panthers the obvious choice to retain the top spot in the final poll.

Southern Cal entered the Rose Bowl ranked third and Michigan second.

"One poll has already picked us No. 1," Robinson said, "We had a vote in our locker room."

Schembechler said, "I don't vote for a national champion, but if I did I'd vote for Southern Cal."

A one-yard dive by All-American Rob Lytle at 7:52 of the second quarter gave Michigan a 6-0 lead. It concluded a 50-yard, 12-play drive. Tackle Walt Underwood blocked Bob Wood's extra point kick attempt.

Evans' touchdown run came at 13:32 of the quarter on a sweep of left end after a fake up the middle to White, who had run the five previous plays. The drive consumed 80 yards in 12 plays, including passes of 9 and 30 yards to Shelton Diggs, who caught eight for 98 yards for the day.

The Trojans locked up the triumph with just 3:03 left when White took an Evans pitchout and went over from the seven. With Leach finally taking to the air, Michigan got to the Trojan 17 in its last try before running out of downs.

"We're going to have to get better and come back again," Schembechler said.

decided the best football team in the country, replied tartly:

"Damn right. We took a poll in our dressing room right after the game and voted USC No. 1. It was unanimous."

Then Bo Schembechler, the beaten Michigan coach, supported Robinson with the comment: "USC is the quickest and most physical college team I've ever seen. They have my vote for No. 1."

In Miami, Ohio State's Woody Hayes also entertained some grandiose notions after knocking off Colorado in the Orange Bowl. Nebraska, Oklahoma, Alabama and Notre Dame, not to mention Houston, winner of the Cotton Bowl — started campaigning for a recount after scoring notable post-season victories.

Thus, the curtain falls on another period of "Bowlmania," a little piece of three-hour parades, $60,000 floats, marching bands, pom-pom girls and halftime extravaganzas that would stun the Great Ziegfield. Held a month after the regular season, they are a 100-yard dash to decide a marathon. They decide nothing. They are not title playoffs. They are one big holiday bash.

Coaches who recognize this traditionally have been the most successful. Oldsters like to tell of the late Gen. Bob Neyland of Tennessee, molder of championship teams, who put his players on such a tight leash they were physically and emotionally drained at bowl time. His bowl record was one of the worst.

Bear Bryant of Alabama, an admirer of Neyland, in recent years went eight straight games without a bowl victory. The bowl record of Woody Hayes never matched his overall performance. Beaten in four of his last six Rose Bowl appearances, he melted at Miami — they say — and won.

Johnny Majors of Pittsburgh is the foremost example of the

Jets Threaten To Quit New York

Death of Phil Iselin could result in the Jets' departure from New York. New power is Leon Hess, oil magnate who has this oil spill: Unless Jets can crack Mets' tight leasehold on Shea, to gain exhibition game and early-season access, football club will move. Not to Jersey complex, as previously threatened, but to Memphis.

It's a muscle play on New York City and Mets' prez Don Grant, but no bluff. Hess does not take Iselin's nice-guy approach. "If you know Leon Hess, you know he means what he says, and right now he's talking Memphis," discloses Jets' source. "Hess will offer to pay installation cost of artificial turf at Shea as the inducement. Sharing New Jersey with the Giants is not an acceptable alternative because Hess feels the Jets would be exchanging one second-class status for another."

Al Ward, Jets gm, will be named acting vep in charge of operations, under restructuring, and Hess will make major policy...Head coach situation still up in air, with Walt Michaels given inside track. Club hungers for old-fashioned discipline Walt can provide.

Cosell Superb

Howard Cosell gave warm and moving eulogy at Phil Iselin funeral service. Said a football player's wife who was present: "It's the first time I didn't want to turn down the sound."...Admiration for Don Shula soars among NFL players on heels of his first losing season at Miami...Vikings will have to tighten up on tackling if they are to stop Raider runners. Movies of Minny win over Rams show that Purple People Eaters were fingertip nibblers when it came to holding runners...CBS-TV has mailed out fancy calendar datebook for 1977. There's only one problem; it lists only events televised by CBS. Example: Jan. 9 mentions Phoenix Open. (Super Bowl also happens on Jan. 9, but it's NBC's year, so CBS doesn't recognize existence of Super XI. Gold old media.)

Ever notice how many baskets and games, Knicks blow because they'll play for one shot in late-game maneuver. Invariably wrong guy winds up taking bad shot in order to squeeze last two or three seconds out of clock. Wouldn't it make more sense to work for the good shot, even with 12 or 14 seconds on shot-clock, get the two points and let other team kill time bringing ball down?

Scream you are about to hear will come from Paul The Punter Screvane, when New York trot tracks go to legislative for bigger bite of OTB take. Tracks want same 6 percent state cuts their mutes, instead of 2.8 (also 6 percent on exotics instead of 5.8)...Honeymoon over between Bill Russell and Seattle fans. They're burning his beard with boos...Larry O'Brien copying NFL TV format. NBA will go regional starting Jan. 16, and toss in a national game to make double-header on three different Sundays.

Everything Ted Turner does reminds me of early Charley Finley. Atlanta Braves owner is buying hockey club to go with his ballclub. Finley went that route, then gave it up when he found suing people in baseball was full time job...First of Don King's fat 1977 fight calendar to bite dust is Foreman-Middleton scrap. Larry Middleton's eyes won't get past doc. So, CBS will sub with Harold Smith vs. Ron Lyle from Lake Tahoe on Jan. 29. It's promoted by King's arch-rival, Bob Arum...What improvement there is in Rangers can be credited largely to hectic conditioning program John Ferguson instituted in camp...PFC Ricky Young writes column in Germany for "Echo," 5th Signal Command's publication. Calls it: Younger Ideas...Fresh kid.

'Play It Safe'

Randy Rasmussen, veteran Jet, hates to pick against AFC but favors Vikes because "they play it safe, and that's the only way to win...Games are not won on the big gamble, they are lost on the big mistake."...Can it be five years since Bobby Hull jumped to WHL. Yes it can, and it also can be he is headed back to Chicago. Hull's 10 year pact with Houston gives him right to terminate after five years. Hawks need magnet, even one 38...Funny bit: Dino Larry, called for charging during Holiday Festival, looks down at his Jasper shirt front to see if he's wearing the No. 14 he heard ref shout to scorer's table.

Most improved player in NHL Ron Greshner. Last year, his rating was minus-51, under league system which computes goals scored by and against team while specific player is on ice. Gresh's 51, third worst in NHL, has been converted to plus-12.

Bowl Coverage: How Did TV Do?

By HOWARD SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — The eyes are red and the brain is weary, but the images remain.

Tony Dorsett skittering off tackle with red shirts lunging at him from all angles. Paul Hornung, huddled up in an enormous fur coat, clowning along the sidelines, trying to keep warm. The injured Ricky Bell, dejected and motionless on the bench, watching the seconds of his college career tick away.

It was all part of the annual New Year's Day television feast, an orgy of college football that closes out the 1976 season. And after some 11 hours of touchdowns and tubas, balloons and blitzes, musical salutes and sideline interviews, everyone seemed to agree that maybe Pittsburgh should be No. 1, after all.

A glance at the four major bowl games and how they were handled on television:

—SUGAR BOWL: ABC got the first shot at the grid audience Saturday and, as usual, unloaded images rapid-fire on the viewing public. ABC's cameras were almost never at rest. Between plays we got an endless stream of crowd shots, gyrating cheerleaders, views from the blimp, closeups of the Mississippi River, grinning linebackers and peeing coaches.

Keith Jackson and Ara Parseghian were the commentators and Jim Lampley contributed sideline chatter. Jackson likes to take care of business early so he spent the first five minutes of each half talking nonstop, setting the offense, setting the defense, explaining why the game was important and so on.

After that, he settled down to do his usual admirable job with play-by-play. Parseghian still sounds hoarse but he's more relaxed these days. There is an engaging non-professionalism about Parseghian—"Gee, that was some play"—and you get the idea he's really enjoying the game.

One more note about ABC. The network continues to be shameless in promoting its upcoming shows. We counted 12 distinct plugs for "The Wide World of Sports" and even Lampley, apparently clean out of vignettes by the second half, plugged away for upcoming shows when contacted on the sidelines.

—COTTON BOWL: After ABC's slam-bang multi-image camerawork, the Cotton Bowl on CBS was downright peaceful. Veteran Linsey Nelson and Paul Hornung handled the action, with Hornung dashing down to the sidelines for half-time interviews. Lindsey kept telling us we were in "Big D Little A-double L-A-S" and Hornung was prone toward clichés where people were always "smelling paydirt" or "running to daylight."

The game got a little dull in the middle periods and Hornung had time to tell everyone that this was Lindsey's 17th Cotton Bowl. "If you do the next seven of them you'll have done half of them," he pointed out. "I never really thought of it that way," mused Nelson.

The action picked up in the fourth quarter and the announcers got excited. "He threw a mauler duck up the right sideline," exclaimed Nelson after a pass play. Hornung said it looked like a "wounded duck." Nelson said the Houston quarterback "pulled a Houdini escape trick" in avoiding a rush, and Hornung assured us the Maryland defense "was stunned by the play."

At halftime we got marching bands, the Kilgore Rangerettes and a pleasant, pointless chat with Kevin Dobson of "Kojak."

—ROSE BOWL: NBC had the best pre-game show Sunday with Larry Merchant taking an interesting look at the marketing of college football. Curt Gowdy and Don Meredith were the game announcers. It has become fashionable in some circles to knock Gowdy of late, but he did a fine job Saturday. He was right on the money with his facts and figures, he kept the thing in focus and he did it all unobtrusively.

As for Meredith, he manages to work in some statistics and background now and then, but his strength is still in his genial, laid-back style. Dandy Don is looking for a good time at a ballgame and if things get dull, he's the first to cry out for action. At one point Gowdy was talking about Michigan's tendency to plug away on the ground instead of throwing passes. "They must be more interested in winning than in having fun," observed Meredith.

With Pitt having won convincingly earlier in the day, it was evident that Southern Cal and Michigan were no longer playing for the national championship. "We may not have a national championship game," Meredith pointed out with admirable honesty, "but we should have a good game anyway."

Barbara Hunter was assigned to the sidelines but she didn't have much to say. After an injury to Michigan linebacker Jerry Zuver she reported "Zuver was removed from the game on a stretcher and he looked immobile." Ms. Hunter did not check in during the second half.

Despite the fact that neither Gowdy nor Meredith was able to master Southern California fullback Mose Tatupu's name, and they weren't sure if he is from Hawaii or Samoa, they probably turned in the best job of the day.

—ORANGE BOWL: By the time this game got rolling on NBC, even the most enthusiastic grid fans were getting bleary eyed. There was a noisy start with a filmed salute to Woody Hayes, discreetly omitting footage of his battle with fans and sideline markers, a filmed salute to Bill Mallory and a lot of "I'm just a flagwaving American" hoopla leading up to the playing of the National Anthem.

Then Jim Simpson and John Brodie took over and the game was allowed to begin. Simpson and Brodie are smooth, low-key operators and did a workmanlike, if uninspired, job. Simpson, NBC's dependable utility man, maintained an admirable restraint throughout the proceedings and Brodie had some worthwhile observations. With 10 minutes left, Brodie suggested that Colorado had better start flinging the ball around if it wants to get back in the ballgame, but the Buffaloes ignored the advice until it was far too late.

The Orange Bowl Committee, which seems to pride itself on bombast, put on the most lavish of the halftime shows, all the more remarkable since it was a Salute To Rain! The Orange Bowl spares no expense for these extravaganzas but one must ask, how important are halftime shows?

If you want the answer to that, try throwing a halftime show by itself sometime, without bothering to stage a football game, and see how many people show up.

Majors Claims Pitt Is National Champ

"All year long I haven't waved my finger in the air and I haven't worn a No. 1 button," said Pittsburgh Coach Johnny Majors.

"But after the game I told the team it was No. 1 and we all agree that we are."

It won't become official until The Associated Press' final poll Tuesday, but Pitt certainly staked a solid claim to the national title Saturday with an impressive 27-3 conquest of No. 5 Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett rambled for 202 yards on 32 carries and scored a touchdown, quarterback Matt Cavanaugh ran for one score and hooked up with Gordon Jones on a 59-yard pass play for another, and Carson Long added a pair of second-half field goals.

In all, Pitt ran up 490 yards in total offense, including 288 yards on the ground. And the Panther defense was outstanding, containing Georgia's running game and smothering the Bulldogs' aerial attack. Georgia completed only three of 22 passes and had four intercepted.

Pitt's convincing victory put a damper on the national title hopes of Rose Bowl participants No. 3 Southern California and No. 2 Michigan and Cotton Bowl visitor No. 4 Maryland. Southern Cal eventually outmuscled Michigan 14-6 and Southwest Conference champion Houston, No. 6, dumped Maryland 30-21.

Ohio State upended Colorado 27-10 in the Orange Bowl Saturday night.

Nebraska outlasted Texas Tech 27-24 in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl and Kentucky blanked North Carolina 21-0 in the Peach Bowl on Friday.

There were three more games Sunday. Texas A&M met Florida in the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Tex., East met West in the Shrine Bowl at Palo Alto, Calif., and North played South in the All-American Bowl at Tampa, Fla.

"I take my hat off to Pitt," said Georgia Coach Vince Dooley. "Without doubt they proved themselves the best team in the nation."

Georgia concentrated on stopping Dorsett in the first half but got burned by Cavanaugh's passing in the process. A 36-yard strike to Elliott Walker helped set up the first Pitt touchdown and the 59-yard play with Jones accounted for the second one. Cavanaugh's passes also helped set up Dorsett's TD, which came just before the half, made it 21-0 and, for all intents and purposes, iced the

Hula Bowl Next Stop For Dorsett

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tony Dorsett and Johnny Majors rode off into the sunset Sunday.

Actually, they left their hotel at 5 a.m. in a cold rain to catch a plane for Hawaii and the Hula Bowl, but it was just as surely their farewell to Pitt football.

"It's been the best four years of my life," said Dorsett, who wore his Pitt uniform for the final time as the top-ranked Panthers beat Georgia 27-3 in the Sugar Bowl.

"I don't know how four years like this could ever be repeated," echoed Majors, who'll coach Dorsett in the Hawaiian all-star game next weekend then turn full attention to his new job at Tennessee.

That doesn't mean all will be anticlimactic from now on for Dorsett and Majors.

"I'm just hoping I can get pro contract somewhere and make a living," Dorsett said after Saturday's victory, an understatement as whopping as his 18 NCAA rushing and scoring records.

Just how lucrative that living is remains to be seen. After the Hula Bowl and the Japan Bowl in Tokyo, Dorsett may leave school for at least the winter term and turn professional on the banquet and television circuit. He'll also be naming an agent to negotiate his pro contract, which could be one of the most lavish in sports history.

"Right now I don't have an agent. There is a man I'm considering, but I'd rather not discuss it," he said in a post-game interview room.

"Let's just say a lot of things are up in the air right now," Dorsett added.

Things are less up in the air for Majors, who has six-year contract to coach at Tennessee.

"This Pitt defense is the best defense I've ever been around, and the offense is the best I've ever been around. Maybe I ought to quit while I'm ahead," Majors kidded.

Then in his typical, rapid-fire style of speech, he added, "I just hope I'll never lose enthusiasm just because we don't do something like this."

Both Dorsett and Majors said the Pitt program would continue to prosper with new Coach Jackie Sherrill and players like quarterback Matt Cavanaugh.

Panthers Win Grantland Trophy

DALLAS (AP) — The Pittsburgh Panthers, who finished with a 12-0 record and a decisive Sugar Bowl victory over Georgia, Sunday were named the winners of the Grantland Rice National Championship trophy.

Regis McCauley, president of the Football Writers Association, announced the award here Sunday.

The Panthers, led by quarterback Matt Cavanaugh and Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett, defeated the Georgia Bulldogs 27-3 in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans Saturday to wind up their season.

Southern California, 14-6 victors over Michigan in the Rose Bowl Saturday, finished second for the trophy. Michigan wound up third and the Houston Cougars, who defeated Maryland 30-21 in the Cotton Bowl here Saturday, finished fourth in the balloting.

Hayes Says His Buckeyes Are Big Eight Champions

MIAMI (AP) — Woody Hayes, celebrating only his second coaching victory in his last six football bowls, said Sunday that his Ohio State team should be champion of the rugged Big Eight Conference.

"It's a consolation bowl in a sense," Hayes said of the Orange Bowl, where his Big Ten co-champions beat Colorado 27-10 Saturday night.

"But it isn't for the Big Eight," Hayes hastily added, "and we beat the Big Eight champion."

The 11th-ranked Buckeyes' ninth victory in 12 games in the 1976 season broke bowl streaks for both powerful conferences.

The Big Eight had won all three of its previous bowls this season, Nebraska in the Astro-Bluebonnet, Oklahoma State in the Tangerine and Oklahoma in the Fiesta.

The Big Ten had lost eight of nine bowls, including its last four in a row, before the Buckeyes resorted to a stingy defense and a switch in offensive strategy to handle Colorado.

"After seeing the statistics," said Hayes, "we played a little better ball than I thought. Our defense was superb."

Colorado, averaging almost 27 points and 354 yards a game, managed 10 first-quarter points.

"But the last three periods they didn't do much," said a beaming George Hill, Ohio State's defensive coordinator.

Hayes, borrowing from bitter rival Michigan and No. 1 Pittsburgh, inserted 182-pound tailback Jeff Logan at fullback, a strategy that reaped dividends. Logan ran for 79 yards, including a 36-yard touchdown that halted Colorado's 10-0 spurt in the opening quarter. His replacement at tailback, Ron Springs, piled up 98 yards.

"I believe their quickness in the backfield hurt us more than their strength," said Colorado Coach Bill Mallory.

Hayes said that he got the idea of switching Logan from watching Tony Dorsett operate from fullback against Penn State and from his defensive coaches. It was Logan's first time at fullback this season.

"Our coaches said we had to get somebody in there who could hit the inside holes faster," said Hayes.

Substitute quarterback Rod Gerald, voted the game's outstanding back, hurt Colorado the most, in Mallory's mind. "And I tried to recruit him," Mallory said.

Gerald replaced Jim Pacentra on the Buckeyes' third series and wound up with one touchdown and 140 of his team's 330 total yards. Colorado had 271 yards.

Besides Logan and Gerald, Pete Johnson ran three yards for a touchdown. Tom Skladany booted field goals of 28 and 20 yards to help the Buckeyes snap a two-game bowl losing spell.

Colorado's points came on Jeff Knapp's 11-yard pass to Emery Moorehead and a 26-yard field goal by Mark Zetterberg.

Nicklaus' Domination Of Golf Challenged

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

When Jack Nicklaus stepped off the plane at the Tokyo Airport, the blaring newspaper headline caught his attention.

"I don't read Japanese," Jack recalled of that January day, "but I sure could recognize 82."

It was the score he'd posted the day before in the final round of the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, the highest score of the pro career.

It was easily the most famous round of the year, one that's destined for a place in golf's lore and legends. It was difficult to believe. The golf world reacted with shock and, at times, some barely concealed glee from the hackers of the world.

Jack Nicklaus, the greatest player of his time, was leading the tournament through three rounds. He was playing at Pebble Beach, one of his favorite playgrounds, one where he'd won so often before.

Only this time Jack Nicklaus shot 82.

It was a hint of things to come in 1976.

Nicklaus' ironfisted domination of the sport relaxed. He spent much of the year fusing and fretting with preparations for his new Memorial Tournament on his life-time dream course at Muirfield Village, Ohio. The tournament was a great success. His season was not.

"I didn't win one of the majors," he said, "and I never consider it a good year when I don't win one of the majors. It wasn't a bad year, but it wasn't a really good one."

"Actually, I played pretty well at times. I just didn't win as often as I might have."

He did win the Tournament Players Championship again. And he won the new-look World Series of Golf, including a $100,000 first prize that made him the leading money-winner again, this time with $266,438. He gained a fifth Australian Open title.

Palmer's Worst Year

As Nicklaus' domination diminished, other familiar names struggled and failed. Arnold Palmer suffered his worst season ever and endured a personal tragedy, the death of his father. Lee Trevino encountered physical problems, resulting in a back operation that jeopardized his career. Gary Player failed to win. So did Bruce Crampton and Tom Weiskopf.

And the young ones, headed by Pate and Ballesteros and Crenshaw, moved to the fore. Eleven men scored first-time victories on the tour.

The tour changed, too. Purses went beyond the $9 million mark. More than two dozen events were televised nationally. Nicklaus' Memorial Tournament and the World Series, with its expanded format, became highlights. A record number of players won $100,000 or more. A new men's-women's tournament made its debut.

But 1976 will be remembered for the emergence of a new crop of stars and falling fortunes for those who set the pace for so long.

It remains to be seen whether Nicklaus can continue as golf's greatest performer against the gathering challenges of the Pates and Crenshaws, who are threatening to make the tour their own private playing.

Voted No. 1 Again

And he was named Player of the Year again, despite his own protestations that it was not one of his banner seasons.

He had a lot of competition, primarily from rookie Jerry Pate, that slender young man who destroyed John Mahaffey's dreams with a stiff five-iron on the 18th hole to claim victory in the United States Open. To add to his reputation, Pate then posted a final-round 63 that sent him blazing past the leading Nicklaus for the Canadian Open title.

Other major contenders included Ben Crenshaw, who finally fulfilled his bright promise with three American victories and the Irish Open title; Hale Irwin, who seemed to be in contention on a weekly basis; Hubert Green, winner of three consecutive events early in the year; Ray Floyd and his mastery of the par 3s that won him the green jacket in the Masters; and Johnny Miller, winner of two American titles and the British Open.

That British title came after the oldest of all the world's tournaments had been led for three rounds by Severino Ballesteros, a handsome, powerful, personable 19-year-old Spaniard who emerged as Europe's finest player and a force to be considered in the future.

In all, 1976 was a changing of the guard in golf.

Riot In Paris Survives With Shoes's Coaxing

Jockey Bill Shoemaker coaxed the best from favored Riot in Paris at Santa Anita Park and nipped Distant Land in a photo finish to notch his 689th career stakes win in the $56,500 San Gabriel Handicap.

"He ran real well today," Shoemaker said of the Charlie Wittingham entry which carried high weight of 125 pounds. "He showed a lot more speed today so I was able to get him clear then take a hold and rate him. I never asked him to run hard until about the eighth pole and he really dug in."

A crowd of 31,069 looked on Sunday as Shoemaker won his second race of the day in the featured handicap. Distant Land, piloted by Angel Cordero Jr. and carrying 115 pounds, circled Riot in Paris and Ribot Grande on the last turn and eased into the front.

But Shoemaker went to work, insistently urging his mount down the stretch to win by a nose.

The winner returned $3.40, $2.40 and $2.20 for his 1:50 effort over 1 1/4 miles. The track was labeled good.

Distant Land returned $2.60 and $2.60.

Hot Dogs In Hall Of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — The first hot dogs and baseball scorecards have made their way into the Hall of Fame and Museum here.

They are symbolized by a miniature trophy, long-treasured by the Harry M. Stevens catering family. It was presented to the Hall by Homer Rose, a Stevens executive vice president whose grandfather saw a game in Columbus, Ohio, in the 1880s.

When the English immigrant couldn't tell the players apart he devised the first score card.

Later, Homer Rose devised a tiny vendor of hot dogs. The frankfurter, however, got its start when a member of the Stevens family imported German sausages and soon ball park vendors were yelling "get 'em while they're hot."

Helping to attract fans to Loubriel was the appearance in relief of pitcher Ruben Gomez of the defending champion Bayamon team. Former New York Giant Gomez is 49 years old.

MacArthur Bowl To Pittsburgh

White Next Trojan Great?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Southern California's All-American tailback Ricky Bell, on wobbly legs, was helped to the sidelines after he took a hard shot to the head early in the Trojans' Rose Bowl game with Michigan, and he did not return to the game.

But while many teams would have suffered greatly by losing their top running threat, Southern Cal went to a young man apparently destined to be the next in a long line of great Trojan tailbacks—Charles White.

The freshman flash responded with 114 yards on 32 carries Saturday, and scored the Trojans' final touchdown in their 14-6 victory with a seven-yard run.

Bell, who like Mike Garrett, O.J. Simpson, Clarence Davis and Anthony Davis rose to national prominence as the Trojans' tailback, predicts great things for White.

"He's going to break all the records before he's through here," Bell said.

Called "Mr. Cool" by his teammates, White had an outstanding season as Bell's understudy. An ankle injury which sidelined Bell gave White much playing time; he responded with 744 yards on 124 carries during the regular season, averaging of six yards a shot.

His best outing was against Stanford, when he ran for 136 yards and two scores on 23 carries. He also had 120 yards against Iowa and 107 against Oregon State.

White Next Trojan Great?

"Charles is already one of the best breakaway runners I've ever been around," said Trojan Coach John Robinson.

"And he never makes the same mistake twice. You've got to feel good about the way Charles White played."

White's running—and the threat of his going all the way—gave balance to the Trojans' attack on a day when quarterback Vince Evans was lethal through the air.

The Trojans' senior quarterback hit 14 of his 20 throws for 181 yards, eight of those passes to Shelton Diggs for 98 yards.

"He was super," Robinson said of Evans. "He ran for a touchdown, and made a key first down at the end of the game to keep our drive alive. He was absolutely brilliant."

"Their quarterback played a great game," said Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler. "His ability to step up and avoid the rush made it very difficult for our defense."

There were few bright spots for the Wolverines as the Trojan offense controlled the game. Rob Lytle gained 60 yards in the first half at Michigan trailed 7-6, but was held to just seven yards in the second half.

And when the Wolverines' ground game turned cold, quarterback Rick Leach's passing was largely ineffective.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened the new year on Wall Street with an erratic showing today.

Trading was moderately active.

Analysts observed that the market was faced with periodic bouts of profit taking after a strong advance in the last 7-1/2 weeks of 1976.

At mid-afternoon it bounced back, however, when the government reported a 2.4 per cent rise in construction spending during November.

The Dow Average closed at 999.75 down 4.90 points. A report on earlier activity follows.

At 1 p.m. the Dow Jones Industrial Average was down 6.23 points to 998.42 on a volume of 12.24 million shares compared to 10.77 million at the same hour on Friday. The NYSE index stood at 57.64, off 0.24, and the Amex index was up at 110.05, up 0.21.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up some 80 points in the last 7½ weeks of 1976, was off 6.73 to 997.92 by nighttime today.

Losers drew even with gainers after trailing by close to a 2-1 margin earlier in the overall count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts found nothing in the economic news back on ground to disturb Wall Street's hopes for a more robust economy in the early part of the new year.

But they said some traders decided the time was ripe to cash in some profits, especially in blue chips, with the Dow having closed at New Year' at its highest level in more than three months.

Philip Morris topped the active list, down 1½ at 60½. A 250,000-share block of the stock traded at 60.

It's Time For A Turnaround

The new year has arrived and the stock market is in a strong upswing. The price of gold is still up.

This seeming paradox gives a picture of the schizophrenic economic conditions in this country and the world.

The gold price swings are considered as a contracyclical indicator. When stock prices climb, the price of gold is expected to fall.

The price of the yellow metal is a creature of governments during the short term. European central banks and the international agencies which have gold supplies can change the price of gold by buying or selling their gold stock.

heavy there will be a wave of protest to stop the entire program.

The tax load will increase until either the people call a halt or the country goes down the tube economically.

Most of these concerns are not front page news. But many persons know about them and have strong feelings that economic disaster is just around the corner.

But this may not be true. The paper will be paid. But the time of payment could be many years in the future.

Thus the prudent investor should structure his portfolio to take into consideration many things that could happen.

Chicago Board of Trade today.

Soybean meal rose nearly a ton, but soybean oil prices were mixed. Oats, corn and wheat were down from  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 2 cents a bushel. Icebergs traded in a narrow range for an hour, then advanced 2 points, or  $\frac{1}{4}$  cent a pound.

Grain and soybean futures prices had been depressed early. It was learned that China's wheat crop in 1951 was one of the best on record. This China might buy less grain from Canada, the United States and Australia. Also, snow and rain fell over wide sections of the country during the holiday, and much heavy snow was expected to

But in the long term, real world economics will determine the price.

Weak currencies, faltering economies in many countries, welfare statism all add to the uncertainty of what the marketplace will do.

At this point the U.S. economy is one of the strongest in the world.

Foreign investors are giving their respective countries a "no confidence" vote and placing funds in this country.

The specter of unfunded governmental obligations and the pension and fringe benefit load that private business must support weighs heavily on the economy.

The world monetary system is "real" and shocks to it mean shocks to our economy. Mexico has a large debt and there is concern that Mexico will not be able to meet its obligations. There are several other less developed nations which have the same problem. Commercial banks in this country have lent billions of dollars to these less developed countries and if default takes place on a large scale, the banks will have a reserve problem. The political government in this country could impose a number of inflationary programs for make work jobs or of the western mountains a possibly into the Southwest where the winter wheat crop needs moisture and cover.

After that selling had been satisfied as wheat and soybeans fell 4 to 6 cents, so light new selling trimmed losses. Later, a couple of commercial buying moves in soybeans ignited local support and as prices rose shorts added to the move. Meal and prices also improved and declines in wheat, corn and oil were halved.

Trade was mixed and active on this first session of the new year, in marked contrast to the volume of last two weeks.

It is estimated that governmental unfunded obligations and the debt of this country is more than $4 trillion. Someday this will have to be paid or eliminated.

To eliminate Social Security payments would cause a revolution among those dependent upon them. But someday in the future the tax cost for this program will become so

The economy can't adjust to double digit inflation now and should that happen, disruption would be the order of the day.

Whether there is still time to turn the situation around is anyone's guess. But we should try NOW!

Economy Never Recovers From Summer Doldrums

By GREGORY NOKES
WASHINGTON (AP) — After getting off to a promising start in 1976, the nation's economy sank into summer doldrums from which it never recovered, and Americans looked to a new president to get it going again in 1977.

Only in the closing weeks of the year, and after their man had been defeated by Jimmy Carter, did Ford administration economists finally admit that the economy would fall short of their predictions.

For Americans, the disappointing results were an unemployment rate above 8 percent, the highest since the previous December.

Economic growth struggled along at below 4 percent, too low to keep unemployment from rising further.

economic questions at year's end were:

- The direction of the U.S. economy. It wasn't yet clear whether the slowdown had ended, or would grow worse. Pressures on Carter for action will be less if the economy begins to pick up again, however slowly.
- The future of oil prices. Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates raised the price of crude oil by 5 percent, effective in January, while other OPEC nations boosted their prices 15 percent in two steps. The price hikes could add to inflation and further slow economic growth both in this country and abroad.
- The pace of inflation. While consumer prices have been restrained, wholesale

- Economic conditions in other nations. The list of nations with serious economic difficulties grew steadily in 1976 and included Great Britain, Italy, Mexico, Portugal, Argentina, and Australia.

All of them turned for help to the United States or to international agencies like the international Monetary Fund that get substantial financial backing from the United States. In the end, it is the American taxpayer that pays up much of the cash.

If economies should become bogged down everywhere which is threatening to happen, chances of the United States returning to a strong economic position on its own are dim.

An awareness of the interdependence of the economy

Inflation was much improved, down to a rate of less than 5 per cent by year's end, which was good news to consumers. But wholesale prices were threatening to get out of hand in the final months of the year.

Critics of the outgoing administration's economic policies said the lower inflation was bought with high unemployment, a trade-off that most Democrats, and many Republicans as well, found unacceptable.

prices have increased substantially in recent months and eventually could be passed along to consumers. The impact of the Dec. 1 increase in steel prices had not been felt.

Many of the nation's trade partners, and some of Carter's advisers, believe the three industrial nations — United States, Germany, Japan — all should stimulate their economies to help the rest of the world.

Some major economic questions clouded the outlook for the new year; too, and the outcome likely will shape Carter's economic policy after he takes office on Jan. 20. Already, the majority of his economic advisers were urging him to recommend a cut in taxes in early 1977 to get the economy moving again.

noted in either the corporate or tax-exempt sectors due to the lack of bellwether new issues until later in the week.

Dealers said the market was awaiting the key offerings of $85 million by Public Service Co. of Indiana on Wednesday plus $125 million by Massachusetts and $60 million in San Antonio, Tex., on Thursday.

Carter said at a news conference Dec. 3 that while he is sure the U.S. economy needs help, he will wait after Jan. 1 before deciding what help to recommend and how much. Any tax cut would have to be approved by Congress.

Carter has ruled out wage and price controls as a means against inflation.

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Bittersweet Sugar

All is not sweet in the Hawaiian sugar fields these days. In fact, one Honolulu newspaper ran a series the other day entitled, "Sour Times for Sugar."

The good folks on the island paradise are asking the politicians in Washington to bail out the sugar industry that only two years ago was enjoying undreamed of prosperity.

It was late in 1974 that raw sugar brought a peak price of 64 and one half cents a pound. Recently the price dipped below 10 cents, but now is somewhat higher.

Consumers who were crying at the unprecedented high price for refined sugar in the United States now are enjoying prices closer to their idea of what they can afford. And the producers are hurting, with costs of production exceeding the New York market price.

A few comments are in order. Hawaii has some of the most expensive labor costs anywhere. And the cost of labor in the sugar industry is higher because of the historically high market price for the product. When the companies took in more money, the unions demanded — and got — a bigger cut.

Apparently the feeling was that "we've got a good thing going." The producers apparently thought the public was willing to pay just about any price for their sweetener, so they gave in to union demands.

A Tax On Birth

Jerry Brown reaped a windfall of popular acclaim when as a candidate for the governorship he pledged not to raise taxes for a year.

In a way, he didn't quite keep that promise. He raised business taxes considerably. Now — that first year (1975) being long gone — the governor has cooperated with the legislature to bring working Californians a neat little surprise for 1977.

Starting last Saturday, a new law requires employers to withhold one per cent of the first $11,400 paid each associate each year. This withholding is in addition to the income tax. The revenues are earmarked for disability insurance. Currently the withholding for this purpose was one per cent of the first $9,000. So the change in the tax is the difference between $90 and $114, or $24 a year. Why the increase?

Well the governor and the legislature discovered that present law does not provide disability benefit payments for job interruption owing to normal pregnancy. So the law became effective Jan. 1, and provides taxation for such payments. Obviously, the taxation funds payments for only a fraction of the working force. Many working women are beyond the child bearing stage, so pregnancy-disability payments won't help them.

The governor and the legislature simply decided that they know how to spend $24 better than you do. And the irony is, the federal Internal Revenue Service won't even let you deduct the $90 and the $24 from your taxable income. All of it adds up to a pretty little New Year's basket on your doorstep.

The Russians' Odd Game

The Western news media have been worried about the possibility of restricted Olympic news coverage ever since the Soviet Union acquired the games for 1980, Copley News Service writes.

Few could have expected that the restrictions would take an economic form, or come so soon. Executives of the three major American networks, ABC, CBS and NBC, walked out of negotiations with the Russians after they demanded $50 million for basic facilities — in addition to payments for broadcasting rights. The networks have asked the Justice Department to waive antitrust laws so they may negotiate with the Russians as a pool.

In the meantime Satra, a New York group that apparently markets everything from Soviet autos to air time, says that it has negotiated a provisional "cooperation agreement" with the Soviet Union for coverage of the games.

The coverage and sums that may yet change hands are cloaked in mystery. But there is no doubt that the Soviet Union is milking the Olympics for all of the Yankee dollars that it can acquire. And it is obvious that the high cost of coverage will introduce the very commercialism that the Soviet Union said it wanted to avoid when it bid for the games.

It all looks very capitalistic from here.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Jan. 3, the third day of 1977. There are 362 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1777, General George Washington's ragged and hungry army routed British regulars in the Battle of Princeton, N.J.

On this date — In 1661, the English writer Samuel Pepys recorded in his diary that for the first time, he had seen women on the stage.

In 1870, construction began on the Brooklyn Bridge in New York.

Senator Soaper

By Bill Vaughan

A dirty trickster, trying to undermine Scoop's chances, says history students of the future might be further confused by having two Presidents named Jackson. As if they hadn't enough trouble already with two Johnsons, two Roosevelts, two Adamses, two Harrisons and three or four Nixons.

In 1919, Herbert Hoover was selected as director-general for the relief of European nations liberated in World War I.

In 1935, 90 per cent of the people in the Saar voted for reunion with Germany.

In 1959, President Dwight Eisenhower signed a proclamation admitting Alaska to the Union as the 49th state.

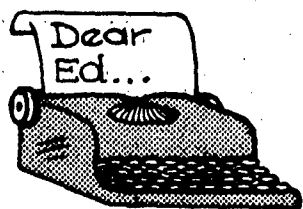

In 1967, the slayer of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, Jack Ruby, died of cancer in a Dallas hospital.

Ten years ago: Federal agents rounded up 70 armed men in the Florida Keys and accused them of plotting to invade Haiti as a prelude to war against Cuba.

Five years ago: The Pakistani government said it was willing to release the captured leader, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh.

One year ago: Hundred-mile-per-hour winds and flooding in a storm in Western Europe cost at least 30 lives.

Today's birthdays: Hockey star Bobby Hull is 38. Actor Ray Milland is 70. Thought for today: "Curses are like processions. They return to the place from which they came." — Giovanni Ruffini, Italian writer, 1807-1881.

Revolution

If I am to understand our Constitution correctly, I must believe the real government (on paper) is we, the people. If this concept is true, then I must also believe that those minimum security asylums we call Washington and Sacramento have revolted against us, the people, the government of the U.S.

I am also to believe we are within our Constitutional right and duty to try and take back control of our country.

We have voted twice on the death penalty in California and our state employees have revolted against our wills and have shown us that they don't want to do the job we pay them for.

The problem is, how do we seize control of the runaway bureaucracy? I suggest that for 134 years the people were actually the government, because they controlled their incomes. For 63 years now, since the Federal Reserve Act and the Income Tax laws, we have steadily lost control of our own affairs. So, simply reverse the procedure.

Our foreign policy is a shame. Anyone who calls for an "America first" attitude is quickly branded as an isolationist. I don't favor isolationism, but I do favor neutrality as advised by our founding fathers.

The alleged conflict between us and the Soviets is a cruel hoax. I say this because of the obvious contradictions between what is said and what is done. Example: we are told the Soviets are an enemy, resulting in justification for heavy taxation and defense spending. Contradiction: Americans have been forced against their wills, to build and support the Communist Party, plus pay for our own defense systems, (IBM, Nike, etc.) which are in turn negotiated away and dismantled. If Russia is an enemy then why are department stores selling Russian-made shot guns and other products? Go look! I bet we are also selling them lots of rope (on credit, of course) because they'll be needing it when the hangings start.

It was reported that America slipped another notch to number six on a scale of the ten wealthiest nations. Are we headed for number ten? How about 20th? Isn't this the fruit of transfer payments.

We are told to reduce our standard of living, while the communists increase theirs at our expense. What happens when the two standards are at the same level? Is this when the merger will take place? Remember, Jefferson said the king "had abdicated his authority by declaring war against us?" Being a hopeful patriot, I'd like to believe most alert people must be aware of the economic and political war that is being waged against this country's middle class, which, of course, will also horribly affect our poor and hence, our nation, as a whole.

Postal Increase

Sometime in 1977 it will cost nearly three times as much to mail a letter as in 1970. The U.S. Postal Service says employee pay raises and other expense increases will make the postage hike necessary.

Typical of a bureaucracy, the number of postal employees cannot be reduced although the volume of mail continues to decline.

In November, Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar said he didn't think a rate hike would be necessary. Later he said the 16-cent stamp probably would be needed. Now he says maybe 17 cents.

A three-fold increase in letter postage in seven years makes it clear that nothing has been solved by the Postal Service.

Fine Distinctions

Your editorial (Dec. 20, "Zzzzz") on S.I. Hayakawa napping during Harvard University seminars has brought forth two letters.

It is ironic that the L.A. Times, previous to Dec. 16, ran an editorial, Senator-elect S.I. Hayakawa "Brushes Up On Napping." There were also articles about Richard Nixon still trying to get his tapes, documents, etc., and that Claudine Longet's diary was inadmissible as evidence in her upcoming trial because it was personal property.

Normally The Register would have printed half a dozen or more letters regarding these issues. I have seen only one, and that dealt with Richard Nixon. Here I cover all the subjects, to refresh the minds of your readers.

1. Claudine Longet does not have to reveal her diary. It is personal property!

2. Richard Nixon is denied his tapes and documents because they belong to the U.S. government. The first time an ex-president has been denied, what I believe and many others also, is his personal property.

3. Senator-elect S.I. Hayakawa "Brushes Up On Napping" during the seminar.

4. How many readers remember the picture of then Speaker of the House Carl Albert "napping" as President Gerald Ford was giving a nation-wide TV address?

5. This added item is one I have read recently. President Gerald Ford and Henry Kissinger have donated their papers. Do these men have the right to do so or does the U.S. government have jurisdiction over them?

Millions Wasted

Reading your "THE E.P.A.'S CHESS-BOARD" Dec. 27, makes one realize that if the EPA and their sub-agencies didn't waste so many millions of our tax dollars on inept studies of what might harm our health, millions of people could improve their health with present medical care and improved diets with that wasted money.

It's like the Federal Trade Commission spending so many more of our millions investigating private companies to see if they are cheating us than the companies could cheat us out of.

You don't have to be a Milton Friedman to figure out the economics of waste. Only our bureaucrats, bloated with our confiscated tax dollars, don't seem able to figure it out.

BRUDNOY'S COMPLAINT

The Best Of Everything For '77

By DAVID BRUDNOY

Having just survived the best of bicentennial years — never mind that, for us, it's the only bicentennial year we have to endure till the 200th birthday of the Constitution, coming up sometime during the Mondale administration, we look back on a super-duper year, reflecting, as is now our custom, on the superlatives in all categories. It is To Inspire Us To Do Even Better This Year, so relax and read on.

Surely the best expression of political modesty emerged from the president-elect, who humbly titled his campaign autobiography "Why Not The Best?" And while we're on Jimmy and his Court, let's not forget the best toady remark of the decade (retiring the 1960s winner, Jack Valenti, who told a breathless world that he slept better knowing that Lyndon Johnson lived in the White House): Walter Mondale's literary evaluation of "Why Not The Best": "the greatest book ever written," said Humbert Humbert's (er, Hubert Humphrey's) protege and now the heir apparent.

The best benediction from The Media to The Government: Barbara Walters' concluding remark to Jimmy Carter after her cozy little TV interview with him: "Be good to us."

The best bit of cinema floundering: "King Kong" producer Dino Di Laurentiis' comparison of his ape flick to "Jaws": "When the shark he die, you no cry; when the monkey he die, you cry." Well, what can you expect from the maker of the best 24 million dollar white elephant in a 40 foot monkey suit?

The best instance of political hypocrisy: Henry Kissinger (Henry Who?) championing what he calls "Majority rule" in black Africa while cozying up to the world's prime exemplars of minority rule, the Red dictators of Peking and Moscow.

The best evidence that the Republicans goofed something fierce at Kansas City: Ronald Reagan's brilliant, stirring message to the assembled throng of delegate puppets just before Bozo came on to begin the long road to Republican ruin in November.

The best presidential campaign of the season: Roger MacBride's Libertarian party assault on the Democrats and the Republicans. No one voted for Roger, of course, but his was the only totally principled campaign between Labor Day and Nov. 2.

The best off-the-record joke of the year: Dick Gregory's retort to a friend of mine from WNAC-TV in Boston, who kidded Gregory about his silly footwear: "Why, man, these are the shoes that got Earl Butz fired!"

Best empty posturing of the political season: Barbara Jordan's nonstop barrage of banalities, platitudes, and quasi-demagogic preachments handed down to the Democrats in convention assembled in Manhattan, leading to the most uncalled for reverence of the year: the hushed, adoring reception Miss Jordan received from delegates who would have greeted such balderdash, had it emanated from a white male mouth, with bored indifference.

Best explanation of why we have become a nation of incorrigible snoops when it comes to public figures — and don't let the fact that this statement issued in 1974 put you off; it still rings true: "There are only two occasions when Americans respect privacy, especially in presidents. Those are prayer and fishing." Herbert Hoover.

The best explanation of why Israel will survive: "We Jews have a secret weapon in our struggle with the Arabs — we have no place to go." Golda Meir.

The best clue to the approach of the male menopause: "To me, old age is always fifteen years older than I am." Bernard Baruch, age 85, in 1935.

The best defense against the war, between the generations: "The secret with dealing successfully with a child is not to be its parent." Mel Lazarus.

The best argument against the notion that high taxes makes for a livable state: New Hampshire, which eschews the former and achieves the latter, in spades.

The best reason since Mama Roosevelt for keeping presidential mothers in the closet: Miz Lillian.

The best warning against creeping socialism: Great Britain.

The best reason (the only reason?) for forced busing: it makes bus companies rich.

The best line to one's loyal readers, as always: Thanks very, very much, and a joy-filled 1977 to you and to all those dear to you.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Predictions: Brezhnev Out

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Round and round she goes, and where she stops nobody knows!

But the following prognostications, ranging throughout the world and based on extensive and authoritative sources, are strong probabilities:

Soviet boss Brezhnev will go into limbo this year, in one way or another — either voluntarily because of numerous physical afflictions or under prodding from an increasingly critical Kremlin hierarchy. Just turned 70 and seriously ailing from ulcers, pernicious hypertension, deafness, stroke a few years ago, hernia surgery, possible jaw cancer, overweight, and a heavy smoker and drinker, Brezhnev has been under heavy fire in the Politburo.

Front runners to succeed him are two recent "newcomers" in top ranks: Yakov Ryabov, 48, elevated to the party secretariat after scoring big as heavy industry producer; Alexei Shibayev, 61, named head of the 100-million-member trade union apparatus.

Emperor Hirohito, 76 next April, will give up the throne he has held since 1926. Crown Prince Akihito, 43, will be the 125th of his line to wear the crown.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi will make her long anticipated move to install her crafty younger son, Sanjay, 29, as cabinet member and in position to be her apparent. Between them, they appear bent on setting up what amounts to a dynasty. Sanjay, notoriously money-minded, dominates his doting mother and is the real power behind the iron-handed dictatorship she created.

Former President Nixon will re-emerge in the public eye — with a series of televised interviews in April and May, for which he will get $600,000, and a book in the fall preceded by newspaper serialization expected to produce another $100,000. Also likely are speaking appearances at selected Republican gatherings.

Carter Administration
Air Force Gen. George Brown, repeatedly in hot water because of free-wheeling rhetoric, will be replaced as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — despite reappointment last year by President Ford. Likely successor is Adm. James Holloway, Chief of Naval Operations, thus opening the way for Adm. Stanfield Turner, Annapolis roommate of President-elect Carter, who rates him "brilliant."

Postmaster General Ben Bailar, whose bumbling and fumbling has long been assailed in and out of Congress, will be bounced — under legislation that will strip the widely berated U.S. Postal Service of its independence and restore the top job to presidential appointment; also again put the agency's budget under direct congressional control.

U.S. Senate
Sen. Robert Byrd, W. Va., will win hands-down as Democratic floor leader, with Sen. Alan Cranston, Calif., as majority whip. And Sen. Robert Griffin, Mich., will be elected Republican floor leader, with Sen. Howard Baker, Tenn., as whip — if he wants it.

Enactment of legislation creating at least 75 new federal judgeships and possibly as many as 100, or more. Republicans talked of doing that last year but got nowhere because the Democrats, with heavy majorities in both branches of Congress, balked at await outcome of the November election. Now with a Democrat about to take over the White House, they're strongly for creating these choice new patronage plums.

House of Representatives
Rep. Clement Zablocki, D. + Wis., will win the prized chairmanship of the International Relations Committee — despite opposition by some militants and ultra-Israel supporters.

Public financing of congressional campaigns will be initiated with potent bipartisan backing in the House and be decisively voted both there and by the Senate.

The same goes for a fourth House Office Building. Last year, former Speaker Carl Albert, Okla., literally tried to "hijack" the still incomplete Library of Congress annex and convert the $80 million structure into an office building for the House, but was blocked by a bipartisan group headed by Rep. Joel Pritchard, R-Wash. Now the plan is to start from scratch and authorize an entirely new building — at a probable $120 million cost.

Labor
Edward Sadlowski, burly, paunchy, 38-year-old head of the Chicago-Gary district of the United Steelworkers, will NOT win the presidency of the 1,400,000-member union. Victor will be Lloyd McBride, longtime boss of the St. Louis district, who has the backing of retiring president I.W. Abel and a majority of USW leaders. Sadlowski's campaign is being masterminded by Washington, D.C. lawyer Joe Rauh, prominent leftist militant and former head of the radical Americans for Democratic Action. The whole ADA propaganda and fund-raising apparatus is being used by Rauh in a furious effort to put over Sadlowski. Through these sources he is being featured at liberal-radical cocktail and other parties all over the country. As a result the tough-talking unionite has been derisively labeled by opponents as the "cocktail candidate."

U.S. Economy
The steel industry's recent 6 per cent price hike will stick. There will be no rollback as demanded by congressional critics.

With the vigorous backing of Democratic congressional leaders, President-elect Carter will propose a 20- to 30-billion-dollar economic "recovery" program — part tax cut and part large scale job making.

Lower Demand, Tougher Agents Hurt Moonshine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moonshiners are still suffering from a year-long hangover and less demand for "white lightning," the government says.

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms reports the number of illegal stills put out of business by the government dropped from 721 in 1975 to 557 in 1976, a record low since the repeal of Prohibition in 1933.

Rex D. Davis, director of the bureau, said fewer stills were seized because fewer stills were in operation last year. He attributed this to tough law enforcement and diminished demand.

"Increased cost and lower public demand for often poisonous moonshine now make it less profitable for moonshiners to operate," he said in a statement.

But he said the 557 stills that were destroyed were capable of producing 289,000 gallons a year, representing a potential tax loss to the government of $3 million. About 11,000 gallons of liquor actually were destroyed by the bureau's agents, he said.

Eskimos Resent Efforts To Save Caribou

By PEGGY ANDERSEN

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — For thousands of years Eskimos in Alaska were subsistence hunters, taking the food they needed from vast caribou herds and the bountiful Arctic Ocean.

Now the state wants them to be conservationists, but the Eskimos say they're short on meat and don't want any advice from the white man.

Snowmobiles and modern weaponry made subsistence hunting too efficient, forcing restrictions on hunting this year for the first time to revitalize the dwindling western arctic caribou herd.

The first test of the state's ability to limit native hunting, state game officials say, will come near the arctic community of Barrow, to which herd migration patterns have brought about 8,000 animals.

Biologists with the state Department of Fish and Game say the caribou herd has dwindled from about 140,000 animals in 1970 to near 50,000 this year.

The state began issuing hunting permits in an effort to reduce the number of caribou killed annually from about 25,000 to 3,000. Biologists say the herd cannot reproduce fast enough to recover unless pressure on the animals is relieved.

Some Eskimo hunters, unhappy with the shortage of fresh meat and new restrictions on Eskimo hunting rights, say they do not intend to sit idly when the herd passes by.

Barrow was issued 375 permits — less than one caribou per household — because of its proximity to the Arctic Ocean's whale and seal populations, traditional Eskimo meat sources.

And Commissioner of Fish and Game James Brooks said, "A couple of thousand caribou very near to the village might prove to be a temptation to some of the villagers."

Public Safety Commissioner Richard Burton said he would prosecute violators of the new rules. The department's fish and wildlife protection unit and agents of the Department of Fish and Game were in the community last week to enforce the rules, he said.

"We don't know how they will react," Brooks said. "We trust they won't be tempted to harvest in excess of the permit."

Spokesmen for the North Slope Borough Fish and Game Management Committee dispute the state estimates of present herd size, saying the apparent reduction in size is due to migration.

"In this case, I don't think our figures can be challenged," Brooks said, noting that the department had spent thousands of hours doing aerial counts of the caribou population.

Barrow Magistrate Sadie Neakok, a lifelong resident and Barrow's only court official, has disqualified herself from any case involving caribou violations.

"I can't handle anything that big," she said. "There is too much personality feeling among my own people for me to enforce it in my court."

Mrs. Neakok noted that although the whale harvest was good, much of the meat was lost because of a shortage of boats, and ice conditions were too dangerous to permit seal hunting.

She added: "It costs $85 for a beef dinner for one family ... and store-bought meat is not too appetizing to the Eskimo."

The borough game committee also complained that the state had not produced promised aid during the meat shortage.

Gov. Jay Hammond asked the U.S. Department of Agriculture for disaster aid to the area, but the request was denied.

Recruits Rush To Beat GI Bill Deadline

By The Associated Press

Spurred on by a New Year's Day deadline that meant a reduction in future GI Bill benefits, volunteers crowded local recruiting offices around the country to sign up for military service.

Some recruiting offices reported that the enlistment buildup began last month, but almost all those surveyed at random agreed that the real flood in applications came in the last week.

About 500 enlistees a day, for example, flooded the Armed Forces entrance and examination center in Los Angeles, a sharp increase over the 70 to 100 volunteers who signed up in the last week of 1976, center officials said.

Other recruiting offices said they had processed about twice as many enlistees in the last week of December as they normally did.

In Detroit, Maj. Robert Joles, executive officer of the Army's Recruiting Center said, "We processed about 80 boys Friday, compared with our average 35 a day."

Army recruiter Sgt. William Callahan in Columbia, S.C., said of the last week's rush: "They were beating the doors down ... It's like Christmas shopping. They waited until the last minute." Callahan said his station had signed up 88 persons in November and December, an increase of one-third over last year's total of 60 enlistees accepted.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said there were no figures available on how many enlistees had joined the services in the last week.

Friday was the last day enlistees could qualify for full GI Bill school benefits. Beginning Saturday, new enlistees have to contribute some of their service pay toward a GI Bill college fund.

Under the new GI Bill, those enlisting in the military service will have to pay $50 to $75 monthly, up to a maximum of $2,700, to receive school aid.

Another inducement to enlist in the armed forces was a delayed entry program, under which volunteers could enlist by the end of 1976 and get current full GI school benefits as long as they enter service before the end of 1977.

The Army, the largest service, says it has about 30,000 of these delayed entry enlistees signed up.

Military recruiting offices in Cincinnati and Minneapolis stayed open Friday, a holiday for federal employees, to keep up with the applications. In Reno, Nev., Seattle, Oklahoma City, among others, the recruiting staffs worked upwards of 12-hour days during the week.

Wives Should Shovel Snow, Doctor Says

ROCKVILLE, Conn. (AP) —

It generally is safer for women to shovel snow than men, a cardiologist says.

While women are more prone to nuisance-type injuries such as back sprains, men are more apt to suffer heart attacks, says Dr. Michael R. Sharon.

"There's an epidemic of heart attacks among middle-aged males while fatal heart attacks are relatively rare in women until several years after menopause," says Sharon, chief of medicine and cardiology at Rockville General Hospital.

He said the medical profession can't explain why men suffer more fatal heart attacks than women "except it must have something to do with the female hormone, estrogen."

He speculated that in some cases women who do heavy housework are in better shape for snow shoveling than men with desk jobs.

DOCTOR SAYS

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 59, female, married and have high blood pressure around 175. I am worried about strokes or a heart attack, but my faith believes only "God" is the greatest of all physicians. I wonder if you can buy something over the counter at a drug store?

DEAR READER — If you belong to the faith I think you might, you may be interested to know the lady who founded the faith wore glasses — but I don't know where she bought them.

You should be concerned about your blood pressure as it does increase the chances that you could have either a stroke or heart attack or other disorders associated with diseased arteries.

I usually prefer to see a person with high blood pressure improve his or her living patterns first if that can be done. If you have any amount of fat at all under your skin, go on a sensible diet and exercise daily. At least try to walk 30 minutes to an hour a day. Walk in two sessions if you need to, in order to not be uncomfortable.

The weight loss often lowers a person's blood pressure, and when it is successful it is far better for you than any medicines available for moderate elevations of blood pressure.

Also you should avoid coffee, tea and colas, as well as cigarettes.

None of these measures should conflict with your faith. I know of no Christian religion that is against a good healthy diet program, exercise and avoiding cigarettes, coffee and tea.

To give you more information I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Do you have any information pertaining to appendicitis and how to prevent it? Also I would like to know if an operation is the only answer if a person has an appendicitis attack?

DEAR READER — We have no definite information on how to prevent attacks of appendicitis. Dr. Burkitt and others who have studied the effects of cereal fiber bulk in the diet believe that appendicitis is rare in people who have sufficient cereal fiber in their diet. These investigators believe appendicitis is just one of many diseases that we suffer because of our modern bulkless diet that leads to poor colon function.

Appendicitis may be confused with several other medical conditions. These include the pain a girl may have related to ovulation, or inflammation of large lymph nodes inside the abdomen in either sex.

Once a case of appendicitis is definitely diagnosed most doctors agree that the only treatment is surgical. If the patient is severely ill for any reason, a period of patient preparation may be required. This can be required if the appendix has already ruptured. Otherwise, one of the few conditions for delaying surgery would be a very recent heart attack or similar severe illness.

In general doctors do not think trying to abort the attack with antibiotics is acceptable. The risks are too great.

Alarms May Improve Escape Chances

BY ANNE JUNAK
Register Staff Writer

It is the middle of the night and the family is soundly sleeping. Unknown to them a fire is smoldering in the kitchen. Flames suddenly burst forth and flicker through the house, toward the bedrooms.

The family may or may not escape safely, depending on how much warning they have before being overcome by smoke or flame. That warning is much more available nowadays with the mass manufacturing of home smoke alarms.

There are basically two methods of detection—photoelectric and ionization. The photoelectric type relies on a beam of light that shines into a photoelectric cell. When smoke particles reach a point where they interrupt the light, an alarm is triggered. Many of the brands state that an obscuration level of two per cent must be achieved before the alarm goes off.

The ionization method utilizes a chamber in which an ionized electrical field is established by a harmless radioactive substance. Combination particles disrupt the electrical balance and cause the alarm to sound.

The photoelectric type must run off house current, either by being wired directly into a junction box, or by being plugged into an electrical outlet. According to Inspector Greg Lonza of the Orange County Fire Prevention Department, the wired-in models must be inspected by a city or county building and safety department representative to insure correct installation. Most communities also require an installation permit.

"If the devices are not wired in properly, they can cause a fire themselves," he commented. He also suggested that the device be wired on a separate circuit with its own breaker so that it may remain functional in case some other circuits short out.

The ionization-type detectors can also be wired or plugged into household electricity, or may be battery operated. The battery devices usually emit a warning noise when batteries begin to go weak. They may also display a visible warning sign which pops out and cannot be reset until the batteries are replaced.

There are advantages and disadvantages to each type of device, according to fire and insurance authorities. Battery operated alarms are usually designed to function about a year between changes, but some owners may procrastinate in adding new power, even when the low battery warning has sounded. They can, however, be installed immediately and relatively easily, usually requiring only a few screws.

Electrical devices function without further care after installation, but a power outage renders them useless.

Lonza urged that buyers check the device they wish to purchase to see that it has the California state fire marshal's seal of approval. It is also suggested by insurance firms that the device have the Underwriters' laboratory (UL) seal.

The devices have gained such favor with fire and building authorities that all new homes and apartments in the county must be built with one by law, according to Floyd McLellan of the Orange County Building and Safety Department. Some communities have waived the usual electrical installation license and inspection fee to promote having the detectors added.

The California state fire marshal's office has set guidelines for installation locations which will best serve the devices' purpose. The bedroom area is most important, since many fires start at night while residents are asleep. It is suggested that an alarm be installed at the head of the hallway leading to bedrooms, in a place where there is a free flow of air.

rooms, in a place where there is a free flow of air.

If bedrooms are upstairs, the ceiling at top of the staircase is the best place. Another device may be placed downstairs in a central location. Homes with basements should also have a device at the top of the stairs, since many combustible or heat producing elements such as furnaces or clothes dryers are often located below the home.

It is suggested that alarms not be installed exclusively in a kitchen, unless it is one of several in the house.

Many of the devices have a test button which allows the alarm to be triggered so that family members will know what to listen for, and to test the alarm mechanism. Fire authorities suggest planning family drills so that persons will know where to go and what to do in an emergency.

Smoke devices are usually available through most department or hardware stores, and start at about $25.

An average price is in the $40 range. While manufacturers of the devices do not claim that the alarms are absolutely guaranteed to save someone's life or property, the few extra minutes provided for escape have already averted many potential tragedies.

American Medicine Chests Full of Useless Products

By Darrell Sifford
Knight News Wire

Does the "extra ingredient" make Anacin worth asking for?

Should you give your cold to Contac? Will you sleep better tonight if you've taken Somnifex?

Can you say good-bye to a stopped-up nose if you squirt Sine-Off according to the instructions on the box?

Does the $1.50 aspirin get into the bloodstream and bring relief more quickly than the 28-cent aspirin?

Can tonight's Alka-Seltzer prevent tomorrow's hangover?

Well, a pharmacologist—somebody who earns his living by studying how drugs work—says that if you answered "Yes" to any of these questions, you're mistaken—and the victim of what he describes as slick advertising.

The pharmacologist is Joe Graedon and his just-published book, "The People's Pharmacy" attacks the drug industry, physicians and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for what Graedon says is their failure to do their jobs.

In an interview he said: "If they'd done what they're supposed to do, there would have been no need to write this book."

What's the problem? Is it that the drugs don't work?

Graedon: "Some are ineffective and others are dangerous, and people should know about them. Since doctors and the FDA haven't done it, then it's up to the patient to find out for himself."

Question: Mr. Graedon, if a lot of over-the-counter drugs don't work, why do people buy them?

Answer: For years doctors used leeches in treating their patients. But this blood-letting was no cure. What they really were doing was helping to kill their patients. Why did doctors use leeches if they didn't do any good? Because doctors expected the treatment to work. If a patient got better coincidentally, doctors gave credit to the leeches.

And that's how it is with today's buyer of drugs. If you take Somnifex and expect to get a good night's sleep because of it and then if you do sleep well, you give Somnifex the credit. You may even tell your friends: "Hey, that works like magic."

But the truth is that studies have shown it works no better to bring sleep than a sugar pill would. It's the suggestion that makes it work—if it does work.

Or take Contac. You can't give your cold to Contac. The amount of active ingredient in it isn't enough, spread over 12 hours, to give you any effective relief. It also contains a decongestant, and if you have high blood pressure, you could be in trouble.

If you have glaucoma and take Contac your eyes could be irreparably damaged. That warning is on the box, but it's hidden in fine print.

It's the same with Alka-Seltzer. In the fine print it says it is not to be used if you're on a sodium-restricted diet. It doesn't say anything about a salt-restricted diet. Don't you imagine that many people who are on a salt-restricted diet don't know that salt and sodium mean the same thing?

If you take Alka-Seltzer and if you have high blood pressure, you will get over your salt-restriction level quickly and your blood pressure could shoot up to dangerous levels.

Sometimes the proper warning isn't even in fine print. Sine-Off nasal spray's directions say you can use it twice within 10 minutes and then repeat this every three hours. Hell, if you did that for an 18-hour day, you'd have rebound nasal congestion and you'd be worse off than before. Why don't they tell you about that?

Q. What do you do when you have a headache?

A. I buy the cheapest aspirin I can find. Aspirin is all the same—and don't let anybody tell you anything else. But there is one caution: Before you buy, remove the cap and smell the aspirin. If it smells like vinegar or acid, then the aspirin is deteriorating and losing its potency. So keep smelling until you find a bottle without this odor. You also should check the aspirin in your medicine cabinet at home.

The makers of the $1.50 aspirin like to say it dissolves faster in your stomach than the 28-cent aspirin. I don't agree with this. But no matter what aspirin I'm taking I take it this way:

Either mash it up and dissolve it in orange juice or some other liquid or else chew it up with a mouthful of milk and swallow it. This increases the aspirin's efficiency, introduces it into the bloodstream faster and reduces the side effect of stomach irritation.

Whatever you do, don't take aspirin after you've been drinking alcohol. Your stomach will bleed significantly if you take aspirin after drinking because the alcohol changes the integrity of the cells in the stomach lining. This is why people who take Alka-Seltzer the night before to try to prevent a hangover are fooling themselves—and taking a chance. You can't prevent a hangover in advance.

Q. What about the "extra-strength" and "extra-ingredient" claims by Anacin?

A. To get extra strength they put in a few more grains of aspirin. The extra ingredient is caffeine. You could get the same effect if you drank aspirin with coffee.

I can't believe the American public is so gullible. There's a feeling that if you take two tablets for a little headache, you should take 10 for a big headache. But there's a level of maximum effectiveness, and when you reach that you get nothing more—whether you've taken two aspirin or 20 aspirin.

So in most cases extra strength gives you no extra benefit.

The nonaspirin pain relievers contain an ingredient almost as effective as aspirin, but this ingredient doesn't help if your pain is caused by, say, arthritis or some other inflammation. Aspirin does.

Q. If you could only have one drug in your medicine cabinet, what would you choose?

A. A lot of doctors may disagree, but I'd have codeine. It's a great pain reliever—one of the best and cheapest—and it's also good for coughs and diarrhea. People worry about getting addicted to it, but if you have a prescription for only a dozen tablets, you don't have to be concerned about addiction.

DEAR MOTHER EARTH:

What Is Needed For Plant Lover To Keep A Date?

BY LYNN AND JOEL RAPP

Dear Mother Earth: Last winter I decided to see if a pit from a date would root and grow. After many months of waiting, it finally did grow, and at the moment I have two "leaves" on it. Could you give me any information at all on date palms? It doesn't seem to be doing anything any more and I'd hate to lose it after all these months. — Scared of Being Dateless.

Dear Dateless: The natural habitat of the date palm is in the hot, dry desert climes, so your first step is to try to approximate those conditions, at least when it's young. (As it ages, the date palm can hold up under extremely cold temperatures.)

Give it a home in the sunniest spot you can find and feed often and you should be rewarded with a good, healthy date palm indoors. If you happen to live in the right climate zone, you can plant date pits (organically grown ones do best) outdoors, and if you live long enough can expect trees as high as a hundred feet tall.

Incidentally—and this is a book we've recommended before but it's worth recommending again—if you'd really like the lowdown on growing everything from papaya pits to date palms, get a copy of "The After Dinner Gardening Book" by Richard W. Langer. It's filled with information on how to grow beautiful house plants from the seeds and pits of fruits and vegetables. Happy growing!

(Now available, the Mother Earth Plantasia album of warm earth music for plants. Send checks or money orders for $5.50, including postage and handling, to Western International Premiums, in care of The Register, P.O. Box 80817, Los Angeles, Calif. 90080. ## Diet Clubs Offer Help To Penitent Holiday Revelers

By BARBARA GIBBONS

This is the time of year when the diet clubs are industriously unfolding extra chairs for the heavy hordes of penitent holiday revelers who will beat a path to their doors, seeking absolution from too much eggnog and too many mince meat pies. Should you be among them?

According to some expert evaluations, the self-help groups are the most strikingly successful weight control method to come along. According to others, their memberships are exceeded by their drop-outs. Since only attempts—and not failures—are recorded, there's no way to really know. Anyway, the only success or failure that really matters is yours!

Before you invest the time or money in diet club memberships, you should give careful consideration to whether you're a team-player-type of person. Will you blossom beautifully as another daffodil at the base of the tree? Or are you a lone pine, seeking your own way to the sun?

Today we offer profiles of some of the better-known groups. The personality of any local club depends, of course, on its members and leadership. The real test of whether a group works for you is to try it.

NONPROFIT DIET CLUBS:
OVEREATERS ANONYMOUS AND TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) are two of the biggest; both are patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous and Gamblers Anonymous. In OA, members don't know each other's last names. They view compulsive overeating as an incurable disease, but one that can be controlled by drawing strength from each other and/or from God. (Though the approach is non-sectarian, obviously the appeal of the latter works best with those whose orientation is more spiritual than secular.)

Members follow either their doctor's diet or a no-nonsense three squares...no frill foods or between-meal snacks! And if the urge to binge is imminent, they're encouraged to phone each other at any hour for stiffened resolve. Anyone who wants to join is welcome regardless of financial means; there are no dues and the program is supported entirely by contributions.

For many, OA is a supportive fellowship of other like-minded people working together to defeat a common temptation.

TOPS is also nonprofit, existing solely on small annual dues and voluntary contributions. Members weigh in weekly in private and report only pounds lost (or gained) amid an atmosphere of friendly competition. Each chapter determines its own program to best suit its members, but an agenda might include a guest expert, or discussions on how to cope with common stresses, games, skits, sing-alongs.

Midwestern in origin, its programs are very much down-home, friendly and welcoming...just the sort of support some people need. But others find the rah-rah, yay-team, summer-camp ambience uncomfortable.

Local chapters of OA and TOPS are listed in the phone book. Or you can write their national headquarters for the location nearest you or for advice about starting your own chapter: OA, 3730 Motor Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90034; TOPS, 4575 S. Fifth St., Milwaukee Wisc. 53207.

OTHER NONPROFIT CLUBS are operated by many local health departments, colleges, universities, hospitals or community groups. Ask your health officer or local Community Chest for help in locating one. Or approach a local university, hospital or health organization about sponsoring such a group, and volunteer to help organize it.

COMMERCIAL DIET CLUBS:

WEIGHT WATCHERS is the original. And most commercial diet clubs are patterned after it, even using their original diet, a protein-heavy regime originating in the New York City Obesity Clinic. But there's no quibble now about the nutritional soundness of the current WW diet, computer-programmed in accordance with the National Research Council's recommendations, plus the recommendations of the Heart Association and the Diabetes Association. The biggest source of discontent is its relative strictness. Certain foods MUST be eaten, including fish meals.

We don't understand the logic of wasting calories on foods you really hate, on the other hand, we also don't understand people who categorically hate all seafood. (Some people hate everything except Big Macs and thick shakes, so maybe a program that forces wider sampling does have merit.) And, speaking of calories, WW doesn't believe in counting them, although the diet is geared towards 1,200 calories a day for women, 1,600 for men.

At weekly meetings members pay their dues, ($2 to $4 depending on the franchise) listen to a paid lecturer, and with group discussion and socialization.

Many behavior modification techniques have been incorporated into the lectures and a skilled national staff monitors local franchises and keeps them up-to-date on new methods.

THE DIET WORKSHOP, nationally franchised, also relies heavily on the behavior modification approach and a similar, if somewhat freer diet.

OTHER DIET CLUBS operate for profit in nearly every region of the U.S. and many pattern their diet plan on Weight Watchers, but with their own variations. Commercial diet clubs generally advertise their meeting times and locations in newspapers.

For more details on diet clubs (including their diets) plus scores of other popular diets detailed and evaluated by the Editors of Consumer Guide Magazine, send $2.50 for "Rating the Diets," in care of The Register, Diet Bookshelf, Sparta, N.J. 07871.

'MAY I CUT IN?'—Junior Cotillion members Lori Biel, 12, and Tim Pawsat, 13, practice their dance steps as Royce Sharf, 12, asks to join Miss Biel. Junior Cotillion members are seventh and eighth graders from Tustin, Santa Ana and Orange schools. There is also a Matinee Cotillion group for fifth and sixth graders. The groups, which emphasize good manners, posture, attitude and grooming, are under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. G. Robert E. Gollatz of Pasadena. A live band at each meeting provides ballroom and disco dance music for instruction. The last three meetings for the season will be held at 5 p.m. for fifth and sixth graders, 6:30 p.m. for seventh graders and 8 p.m. for eighth graders. The groups will meet the first Monday of each month, Jan. 3, Feb. 7 and March 7, in the Santa Ana Ebell Clubhouse, 625 French St. Invitations for interested young people to become members will be extended in April. Visitors may attend the meetings to observe. The groups are chaperoned by over 60 parent patrons. Patron chairpersons are Mrs. Michael Immel, Mrs. Ronald Russell, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Biel and Mr. and Mrs. Don W. Schmid.

Bad Credit Rating Plagues All Areas Of Family Finance

By SIDNEY MARGOLIUS
Women's News Service
NEW YORK — Consumer debts recently have been rising at the highest rate in three years. Already such debts are running 10 per cent ahead of a year ago and many of the Christmas bills are still to be tallied.

Large debts, of course, may spell danger to your credit rating. Sometimes a poor rating may result even from a misunderstanding or obsolete information in a credit bureau's file.

Short of having plastic surgery and dyeing your hair, what do you do if your credit rating does go bad?

While you might be able to get along without credit, and might save money since many families overuse time payments, other aspects of your welfare may depend on a satisfactory credit rating.

In an emergency or for a large purchase you may have a genuine need for credit. A "D" rating — the worst — even when unfair or obsolete often, leads to denial of credit by conservative lenders and stores.

Even your ability to get car insurance at normal rates can be affected by what your file at the credit bureau says about you since insurance companies also use credit bureau reports. Working people have another concern about their credit ratings. Employers also often use credit reports for hiring.

Always keep in mind that if you are ever denied credit, insurance or employment because of a bad report, or have received a notice from the credit bureau's collection department, the credit grantor or employer must tell you so, and tell you what credit bureau furnished the report. At your request, the bureau must tell you what data it has on your record.

There is no fee for the review if you were denied credit, insurance, etc., because of the report, and if you ask for the review within 30 days after the denial.

You don't have to wait until you have been turned down for credit to review your file. But in that case you do have to pay a fee, usually $5 to $6. A credit bureau that issues a report about you must show all the information in your file and tell you where it got it.

The bureau also must reveal what companies have received employment reports about you within the past two years, and credit reports about you within the past six months.

You can't be charged a fee if you merely ask whether the bureau has a file on you but don't ask for a review.

The procedure for getting a review is fairly simple. You can arrange to visit your local credit bureau and bring someone as a witness or counsel as well as your spouse.

You also can make a written request for a phone interview if you can be properly identified over the phone by Social Security number and other personal data, and pay any long-distance charges.

Say you really had defaulted or have a record of slow pay or of a court action. Credit bureaus do accumulate court records of all suits, judgments and similar legal incidents in their areas. There even may be other reasons for a "D" or "doubtful risk" rating, or for a denial of credit.

The bureau or credit grantors may feel your income is too low or you have too many dependents to handle the requested credit, or that your residential or work history is "unstable."

In that case your goal would be to re-establish your rating. You may be able to show that the problem has been remedied; for example, that your earnings have improved or become stabilized, or that a particular incident was due to temporary circumstances such as family problems, illness, etc.

a nosegay of spring flowers, made their formal bows to society. Each girl was chosen on the merit of her volunteer activities to become a CHS debutante. The debutantes are, back row from left, Lisa Robinson, Stacey Foreman, Patricia Madican, Jody Morton, Suzanne Aubert,

Farrah Fawcett-Majors Is New 'Pin-Up Queen'

Knight News Wire

The Farrah Phenomenon. That's the term professors, printers, poster salesmen and pop art collectors are using to describe a wall poster of TV star Farrah Fawcett-Majors, which may not be worth a thousand words but has generated more than $4 million in over-the-counter sales in a 3-1-2 month period. It is reportedly already the best-selling poster of all time, and the end is nowhere in sight.

Move over Ann Miller, Betty Grable and Marilyn Monroe. America has a new pin-up queen.

Fawcett-Majors, co-star of ABC-TV's "Charlie's Angels," is pictured in the 20 X 28 inch color poster in a one-piece bathing suit. There is no other way to describe the rest, except to say that she is smiling the wide-open, Farrah smile; her long, blond loosely curled hair smothered the shoulders in that natural, almost matted, Farrah hairdo. The tone of the $2 poster is modest, even by 1940s pin-up standards.

It is the only modest thing connected with the Farrah phenomenon.

"It's gross, staggering, unbelievable, mind-blowing," Richard Mihalik, national sales director of Pro Arts Inc., said. Pro Arts prints the posters through a licensed and exclusive arrangement with Miss Majors' management agency. Mihalik is not trying to hype sales.

"You have to understand our situation, we just can't keep up," he said.

Pro Arts' situation is that it is a "nice, little company" in Medina, Ohio, that did a nice solid business in posters, calendars and other printing jobs for the last 10 years.

"Then," Mihalik said, "we released the Farrah poster around the end of September. We have a total press capacity of 800,000 posters a month. That means we can print 800,000 of these a month if we print nothing else. Usually, we have a bunch of posters and other things going. The last three months, we have stopped everything else and printed only Farrah posters. And we can't keep up."

"Do I sound like I'm complaining? I shouldn't. We've got this thing exclusive right now. But who knows how to handle something this crazy? We've got to get our catalogs out, but you want to cry to have to slow down the Farrah presses to do it."

Mihalik said the Fonzie poster, which pictured Henry Winkler of ABC-TV's "Happy Days," sold almost two million posters, but that was in two years. Pro Arts was one of many companies involved in that operation.

"In the last 10 years," he said, "we've been involved, in one way or another, with all of them. The Farrah number is without a doubt the leader."

There are a lot of seat-of-the-pants instant analyses of the poster's success being offered. Prof. Ray Browne, of Bowling Green University's Popular Culture Department, said he's been looking at the Farrah phenomenon and the poster for a couple of months.

"It's got to be the hair," he said. "It's sort of wind-blown and free-spirited. This may be a little subtle, but it's a safe sort of free spirit because of the role she plays on TV. She represents law and order. So, it's that free-spirited, wind-blown, sexy look in the context of that law and order image that makes it work."

"It's definitely the hair, but damned if I can explain the whole Farrah phenomenon. And that's what it is — a pop phenomenon. The poster captures it."

The poster has captured the mass market. Some say it has captured "the look, the face of the '70s."

Fawcett-Majors, through a flock of spokesmen, said she thinks the whole thing "is neat." But, she added, "I don't see myself as anybody special. And I don't really understand all the interest."

She has to be the only one who doesn't.
